Nation and Identity in Contemporary Europe Brian Jenkins, Spyros A. Sofos, 2003-09-02 The resilience of nationalism in contemporary Europe may seem paradoxical at a time when the nation state is widely seen as being in decline The contributors of this book see the resurgence of nationalism as symptomatic of the quest for identity and meaning in the complex modern world Challenged from above by the supranational imperatives of globalism and from below by the complex pluralism of modern societies the nation state in the absence of alternatives to market consumerism remains a focus for social identity Nation and Identity in Contemporary Europe takes a fully interdisciplinary and comparative approach to the national question Individual chapters consider the specifics of national identity in France Germany Britain Italy Iberia Russia the former Yugoslavia and Poland while looking also at external forces such as economic globalisation European supranationalism and the end of the Cold War Setting current issues and conflicts in their broad historical context the book reaffirms that nations are not natural phenomena but constructed forms of social identity whose future will be determined in the social arena Ethnic Europe Roland Hsu, 2010-02-05 Ethnic Europe examines the increasingly complex ethnic challenges facing the expanding European Union Essays from eleven experts tackle such issues as labor migration strains on welfare economies the durability of local traditions the effects of globalized cultures and the role of Islamic diasporas separatist movements and threats of terrorism With Europe now a destination for global immigration European countries are increasingly alert to the difficult struggle to balance minority rights with social cohesion In pondering these dilemmas the contributors to this volume take us from theory history and broad views of diasporas to the particularities of neighborhoods borderlands and popular literature and film that have been shaped by the mixing of ethnic cultures The European

Ritual Anthony King, 2017-03-02 Football constitutes a vivid public ritual in contemporary European culture through which emergent social solidarities and new economic networks have come into being This fascinating and unique volume traces the transformation of European football from the 1950s to the present focusing in particular on the dramatic changes that have occurred in the last decade and linking them to the wider process of European integration The examination of football illuminates how the growing dominance of the free market has changed European society from an international order in which the nation state was dominant to a more complex transnational regime in which cities and regions are becoming more prominent than in the past The study is supported by detailed ethnographic accounts emerging from the author's fieldwork at Manchester United and interview data with some of the most important figures in European football at clubs including Juventus Milan Bayern Munich Schalke and Barcelona It also includes a highly topical examination of racism in European

Race and Nation Paul Spickard, 2005-07-08 Race and Nation is the first book to rigorously compare the various racial and ethnic systems that have developed around the world The contributors have honed their research and expertise to produce definitive questions in the field and these

Reproducing the French Race Elisa Camiscioli, 2009-09-18 In Reproducing the French Race Elisa Camiscioli argues that immigration was a defining feature of early twentieth century France and she examines the political cultural and social issues implicated in public debates about immigration and national identity at the time Camiscioli demonstrates that mass immigration provided politicians jurists industrialists racial theorists feminists and others with ample opportunity to explore questions of French racial belonging France s relationship to the colonial empire and the rest of Europe and the connections between race and national anxieties regarding depopulation and degeneration She also shows that discussions of the nation and its citizenry consistently returned to the body its color and gender its expenditure of labor power its reproductive capacity and its experience of desire Of paramount importance was the question of which kinds of bodies could assimilate into the French race By focusing on telling aspects of the immigration debate Camiscioli reveals how racial hierarchies were constructed how gender figured in their creation and how only white Europeans were cast as assimilable Delving into pronatalist politics she describes how potential immigrants were ranked according to their imagined capacity to adapt to the workplace and family life in France She traces the links between racialized categories and concerns about industrial skills and output and she examines medico hygienic texts on interracial

sex connecting those to the crusade against prostitution and the related campaign to abolish white slavery the alleged entrapment of white women for sale into prostitution abroad Camiscioli also explores the debate surrounding the 1927 law that first made it possible for French women who married foreigners to keep their French nationality She concludes by linking the Third Republic's impulse to create racial hierarchies to the emergence of the Vichy regime Citizenship and Migration Stephen Castles, Alastair Davidson, 2020-06-30 This book argues that basing citizenship on singular and individual membership in a nation state is no longer adequate since the nation state model itself is being severely eroded It examines issues of citizenship and difference in the Asia Pacific region Women and Fascism Martin Durham, 2006-07-13 This seminal book challenges the common assumption that fascism is a misogynist movement which has tended to exclude women Using examples from Germany Italy and France Durham analyses the rise of women in fascist organizations across Europe from the early twenties to the present Unusually however the author focuses on British fascism and in doing so he offers valuable new perspectives on fascist attitudes to women Offering interesting examples of women training in armed combat and more generally as voters and members of fascist organizations he highlights women's relationship to fascist policies on birth rate abortion and eugenics Refugee Women Leah Bassel, 2012-05-31 Debates over the headscarf and niqab so called sharia tribunals Female Genital Operations and forced marriages have raged in Europe and North America in recent years raising the question does accommodating Islam violate women's rights The book takes issue with the terms of this debate It contrasts debates in France over the headscarf and in Canada over religious arbitration with the lived experience of a specific group of Muslim women Somali refugee women The challenges these women eloquently describe first hand demonstrate that the fray over accommodating culture and religion neglects other needs and engenders a democratic deficit In Refugee Women Beyond Gender versus Culture new theoretical perspectives recast both the story told and who tells the tale By focusing on the politics underlying how these debates are framed and the experiences of women at the heart of these controversies women are considered first and foremost as democratic agents rather than actors in the culture versus gender script Crucially the institutions and processes created to address women's needs are critically assessed from this perspective Breaking from scholarship that focuses on whether the accommodation of culture and religion harms women Bassel argues that this debate ignores the realities of the women at its heart In these debates Muslim women are constructed as silent victims Bassel pleads compellingly for a consideration of women in all their complexity as active participants in democratic life The book will appeal to students and scholars throughout the social sciences particularly of sociology political science and women's studies The Mediterranean in the Age of Globalization Natalia Ribas-Mateos, 2017-12-02 The Mediterranean in the Age of Globalization is a welcome corrective to the tendency to present globalization as a homogenous concept and the failure to describe how it operates in specific regions Ribas Mateos examines globalization and migration across the Mediterranean using an innovative integrated framework so as to map social places by describing how social political cultural and economic forces are embedded within a globalizing environment The author articulates an original and compelling narrative mapping the Mediterranean as a global place where international and regional forces are intertwined in multiple threads In doing so she identifies two key components of globalization affecting specifically forms of welfare and issues of mobility in the context of a weakening European welfare state and the relocation and reinforcement of Mediterranean borders Nine Mediterranean cities are investigated as gateway cities which shape two major effects of globalization welfare and mobility The book challenges conventional North South perspectives and focuses and systematizes the way international migration should be conceptualized The originality of the book results from the author s fieldwork which is rich in descriptive detail and from a theory centered around global perspectives Seven case studies in Southern Europe Algeciras Athens Barcelona Lisbon Naples Turin and Thrace deal with issues related to migration and the welfare state She also includes two ethnographies that represent two Mediterranean gateways in the North South Mediterranean division Tangiers in Morocco and Durres in Albania which are mapped as border cities in the global Mediterranean context Because of its intrinsically multidisciplinary nature this superb volume will be of particular interest to academics and social science researchers as well as policymakers and international agencies

Subversive Institutions Valerie

Bunce,1999-01-28 From 1989 to 1992 all of the socialist dictatorships in Europe including the Soviet Union collapsed as did the Soviet bloc Yugoslavia the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia dismembered and the Cold War international order came to an abrupt end Based on a series of controlled comparisons among regimes and states Valerie Bunce argues in this book that two factors account for these remarkable developments the institutional design of socialism as a regime a state and a bloc and the rapid expansion during the 1980s of opportunities for domestic and international change When combined institutions and opportunities explain not just when how and why these regimes and states disintegrated but also some of the most puzzling features of these developments why for example the collapse of socialism was largely peaceful and why Yugoslavia but not the Soviet Union or Czechoslovakia disintegrated through war

An Ugly Word Ann Morning,Marcello

Maneri,2022-05-20 Scholars and politicians often assume a significant gap between the ways that Americans and Europeans think about race According to this template in the U S race is associated with physical characteristics while in Western Europe race has disappeared and discrimination is based on insurmountable cultural differences However little research has addressed how average Americans and Europeans actually think and talk about race In An Ugly Word sociologists Ann Morning and Marcello Maneri examine American and Italian understandings of group difference in order to determine if and how they may differ Morning and Maneri interviewed over 150 people across the two countries about differences among what they refer to as descent based groups Using this concept allowed them to sidestep the language of race and ethnicity which can be unnecessarily narrow poorly defined or even offensive to some Drawing on these interviews the authors find that while ways of speaking about group difference vary considerably across the Atlantic underlying beliefs about it do not

The similarity in American and Italian understandings of difference was particularly evident when discussing sports. Both groups relied heavily on traditional stereotypes of Black physicality to explain Black athletes' overrepresentation in sports like U.S. football and their underrepresentation in sports like swimming, contradicting the claims that a biological notion of race is a distinctly American phenomenon. While American and Italian concepts of difference may overlap extensively, they are not identical. Interviews in Italy were more likely to reveal beliefs about groups' innate, unchangeable temperaments, such as friendly Senegalese and dishonest Roma. And where physical difference was seen by Italians as superficial and unimportant, cultural difference was perceived as deeply meaningful and consequential. In contrast, U.S. interviewees saw cultural difference as supremely malleable and often ascribed the same fluidity to racial identity, which they believed stemmed from culture as well as biology. In light of their findings, Morning and Maneri propose a new approach to understanding cross-cultural beliefs about descent-based difference that includes identifying the traits people believe differentiate groups, how they believe those traits are acquired, and whether they believe these traits can change.

An Ugly Word is an illuminating cross-national examination of the ways in which people around the world make sense of race and difference. Minority Women and Austerity Leah Bassel, Akwugo Emejulu, 2017-07-12 EPUB and EPDF available Open Access under CC BY-NC-ND licence. In the first book of its kind, Bassel and Emejulu explore minority women's experiences of and resistances to austerity measures in France and Britain. Minority women are often portrayed as passive victims. However, Minority Women and Austerity demonstrates how they use their race, class, gender, and legal status as a resource for collective action in the face of the neoliberal colonisation of non-governmental organisations, the failures of left-wing politics, and the patronising initiatives of policy makers. Using in-depth case studies, this book explores the changing relations between the state, the market, and civil society, which create opportunities and dilemmas for minority women activists. Through an intersectional politics of survival, these women seek to subvert the dominant narratives of crisis and activism.

Media and Migration Russell King, Nancy Wood, 2013-04-15. This title explores the close and vital relationship between the contemporary media and immigration. Drawing on newspapers, magazines, film, television, and photography, the contributors examine the effects of mass media on migration behaviour and ethnic identity. Using examples from a range of countries, Media and Migration illustrates how the media intervenes to affect the reception migrants receive, how it stimulates prospective migrants to move, and how it plays a dynamic role in the cultural politics and cultural identity of diasporic communities.
