Regionalism In Canada:

A Social Geography of Canada Guy M. Robinson, 1991-01-01 This collection of essays focus on subjects which formed the basis of his life's work the changing character of Canadian landscape and society and the urbanization of that society including aspects of its historical evolution its present spatial forms and current social issues Asian Regionalism, Canadian and Indian Perspectives Charan D. Wadhwa, Yuen Pau Woo, 2005 Canada and India are in many ways natural partners two middle powers sharing a common political and legal tradition derived from the British Commonwealth as well as a commitment to multiculturalism democracy and international institutions India's founding Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru had a personal friendship with Canadian Prime Ministers Trudeau and Pearson Despite this promising start bilateral relations never took flight a function of Cold War politics India's relative isolation through much of the post independence period the enormous distance between the two countries and deep disagreements over India's testing of nuclear weapons in 1974 and 1998 By the start of the new millennium India and Canada were ready to embark on a new phase in bilateral relations one defined not only by trade and investment interests but also by a contemporary understanding of their standing in the world and the potential contribution that both countries can make to issues of regional and global significance Politics and Ideology in Canada Michael Ornstein, Michael Stevenson, 2003-02-18 Winner of the Harold Adams Innis Prize Politics and Ideology in Canada examines a period of crucial historical change in Canada beginning in the mid 1970s when the crisis of the Keynesian welfare state precipitated a transition to a new political order based on the progressive downsizing of state involvement in the economy and society Using class and ideology as key concepts Michael Ornstein and Michael Stevenson examine this transition in terms of the nature of hegemony and hegemonic crisis and the conditions of political order and instability These concepts guide the interpretation of three large surveys of representative samples of the Canadian public and two unique elite surveys conducted between 1975 and 1981 The surveys cover an exceptionally broad spectrum of political issues including social programs civil and economic rights economic policy foreign ownership labour relations and language issues and sovereignty A wide ranging analysis of public and elite attitudes reveals a hegemonic order through the early 1980s built around public support for the institutions of the Canadian welfare state But there was also widespread public alienation from politics Public opinion was quite strongly linked to class but not to party politics Regional variation in political ideology on a broad range of issues was less pronounced than differences between Quebec and English Canada Much deeper ideological divisions separated the elites with a dramatic polarization between corporate and labour respondents State elites fell between these two though generally more favourable to capital The responses of the business elites reveal the ideological roots of the Mulroney years in support for cuts in social programs free trade privatization and deregulation Regionalism in Canada Robert J.
