Vegetation Ecology of Cuba Attila Borhidi, 1996 From Rainforest to Cane Field in Cuba Reinaldo Funes Monzote, 2009-11-30 In this award winning environmental history of Cuba since the age of Columbus Reinaldo Funes Monzote emphasizes the two processes that have had the most dramatic impact on the island's landscape deforestation and sugar cultivation During the first 300 years of Spanish settlement sugar plantations arose primarily in areas where forests had been cleared by the royal navy which maintained an interest in management and conservation for the shipbuilding industry The sugar planters won a decisive victory in 1815 however when they were allowed to clear extensive forests without restriction for cane fields and sugar production This book is the first to consider Cuba's vital sugar industry through the lens of environmental history Funes Monzote demonstrates how the industry that came to define Cuba and upon which Cuba urgently depended also devastated the ecology of the island The original Spanish language edition of the book published in Mexico in 2004 was awarded the UNESCO Book Prize for Caribbean Thought Environmental Category For this first English edition the author has revised the text throughout and provided new material including a glossary and a conclusion that summarizes important developments up to the present The Conversion to Sustainable Agriculture Stephen R. Gliessman, Martha Rosemeyer, 2009-12-21 With all of the environmental and social problems confronting our food systems today it is apparent that none of the strategies we have relied on in the pasthigher yielding varieties increased part of the problem It is Slavery behind the Wall Theresa A. Singleton, 2016-10-05 A significant contribution in Caribbean archaeology Singleton weaves archaeological and documentary evidence into a compelling narrative of the lives of the enslaved at Santa Ana de Bajacás Patricia Samford author of Subfloor Pits and the Archaeology of Slavery in Colonial Virginia Presents results of the first historical archaeology in Cuba by an American archaeologist since the 1950s revolution Singleton's extensive historical research provides rich context for this and future archaeological investigations and the entire body of her pioneering research provides comparative material for other studies of African American life and institutional slavery in the Caribbean and the Americas Leland Ferguson author of God's Fields Landscape Religion and Race in Moravian Wachovia Singleton's enlightening findings on plantation slavery life will undoubtedly constitute a reference point for future studies on Afro Cuban archaeology Manuel Barcia author of The Great African Slave Revolt of 1825 Cuba and the Fight for Freedom in Matanzas Cuba had the largest slave society of the Spanish colonial empire At Santa Ana de Bajacás the plantation owner sequestered slaves behind a massive masonry wall In the first archaeological investigation of a Cuban plantation by an English speaker Theresa Singleton explores how elite Cuban planters used the built environment to impose a hierarchical social order upon slave laborers Behind the wall slaves reclaimed the space as their own forming communities building their own houses celebrating gambling and even harboring slave runaways What emerged there is not just an identity distinct from other North American and Caribbean plantations but a unique slave culture that thrived despite a spartan lifestyle Singleton s study provides insight into the larger historical context of the African diaspora global patterns of enslavement and the development of Cuba as an integral member of the larger Atlantic World

Hernández, 2020-08-26 La literatura científica acerca del agua es cuantiosa. Probablemente no existe otro objeto natural tan visitado por tantos autores en la ciencia. Sin embargo los estudiosos del agua tal y como está presente en todo el entorno humano no abundan. El presente libro es precisamente un tratado simplificado hecho por un científico tan admirable como Juan Reynerio Fagundo y su colectivo de trabajo. Se trata de uno de esos pocos estudiosos de casi todo lo que tiene que ver con el agua que nos sustenta la de nuestra vida diaria y la de nuestra ciencia desde las cuevas cársticas cubanas hasta los polos de la Tierra y en el libro nos dice cómo tenemos que enterarnos de ella y de sus cualidades para que nos sirva. Además en este libro el agua como compuesto químico es solo una parte de la historia. Cuando aparece para nosotros se presenta con componentes disueltos que le otorgan algunas de las cualidades que más necesitamos. Más allá del carbono y el silicio que tan esenciales son para la vida serán intrascendentes si no se presentaran con el agua.

Geografía elemental de Cuba

Isidro Pérez Martínez, 1941 Geology of Cuba Manuel Enrique Pardo Echarte, 2021-05-04 The evolution of geological cartography in Cuba in its more than 135 years of history has been possible through the consultation of numerous archival reports publications maps and personal interviews with different authors and geologists of vast experience. A brief critical analysis is made of the increase in the degree of geological knowledge of the country since the elaboration of the Geological Sketch of the Cuban Island at a scale of 1:2 000 000 Fernández de Castro 1883 first of Cuba and of Ibero America until the most recent Digital Geological Map of Cuba at scale 1:100 000 Pérez Aragón 2016. Cuba and its surroundings are a geological mosaic in the southeast corner of the North American plate with rocks from many different origins from Proterozoic to Quaternary extended along the southern border of the plate. From the Eocene this belt has been dissected by several great faults related to the development of some great oceanic depressions Cayman trough and Yucatan basin. The fossil record of Cuba which covers approximately the last 200 million years of life on Earth is rich in very varied fossils witnessing a wide diversity of organisms both animals and plants that inhabited the Antillean and Caribbean region and that constitute the inheritance of the biological diversity that the current Cuban archipelago exhibits. As a result of the preparation of the Cuban Metallogenetic Map at scale 1:250 000 forty one models and eight sub models of metallic mineral deposits were identified. These models of descriptive genetic type together with the analysis of their spatial distribution and their relationship with geology allowed the identification and mapping of ten mineral systems linked to the geodynamic environments present in the Cuban territory. Cuba has large deposits of limestone, loam, dolomite, kaolin, gypsum and anhydrite rock, salt, marbles, sands and clays of different types, zeolites, peat, therapeutic peloids and many more. There are manifestations of decorative and precious rocks such as jasper jadeite different varieties of quartz and even xylopals A compilation of geochemical data of oceanic basalt samples from previous works together with data of analyzed samples during this study in order to discuss geochemical criteria based on immobile element proxies for fractionation indices alkalinity mantle flow and subduction addition provide a comprehensive ophiolite classification according to their tectonic setting This book addresses different facets of the geological knowledge of Cuba history of its cartography marine geology fossil record stratigraphy tectonics classification of its ophiolites quaternary deposits metallogeny and minerageny Geografía de Cuba Alfredo Miguel Aguayo, 1937
