China's Energy Revolution in the Context of the Global Energy Transition Shell International B.V., Development

Research Center DRC,2020-05-29 This open access book is an encyclopaedic analysis of the current and future energy system of the world's most populous country and second biggest economy. What happens in China impacts the planet. In the past 40 years, China has achieved one of the most remarkable economic growth rates in history. Its GDP has risen by a factor of 65, enabling 850 000 people to rise out of poverty. Growth on this scale comes with consequences. China is the world's biggest consumer of primary energy and the world's biggest emitter of CO<sub>2</sub> emissions. Creating a prosperous and harmonious society that delivers economic growth and a high quality of life for all will require radical change in the energy sector and a rewiring of the economy more widely. In China's Energy Revolution in the Context of the Global Energy Transition, a team of researchers from the Development Research Center of the State Council of China and Shell International examine how China can revolutionise its supply and use of energy. They examine the entire energy system: coal, oil, gas, nuclear, renewables and new energies in production, conversion, distribution and consumption. They compare China with case studies and lessons learned in other countries. They ask which technology, policy and market mechanisms are required to support the change and they explore how international cooperation can smooth the way to an energy revolution in China and across the world. And they create and compare scenarios on possible pathways to a future energy system that is low carbon, affordable, secure and reliable.

Global Privatization Programs and Opportunities Handbook Volume 6 Europe - Part 1 UK Privatization Strategy and Regulations IBP USA, Board Level Employee Representation in Europe Jeremy Waddington, Aline Conchon, 2015-09-16 Board Level Employee Representation in Europe analyses the role, activities and networking of board level employee representatives in sixteen European countries and their counterparts operating in companies that have adopted European status. Board level employee representation is viewed as a key element of worker participation in Europe but there has been only limited international comparative research that establishes what board level employee representatives do and how their activities vary between countries. Based on a large scale survey distributed to board level employee representatives, circa more than 4 000 respondents, this study identifies the personal characteristics and industrial location of board level employee representatives, what they do and how they interact with other parties within and outside of the company. This study fills in a knowledge gap at a time when policy debates are considering stakeholder models of corporate governance as a means on the way out of the crisis and the achievement of sustainable economies. The book allows direct comparisons between clusters of countries for the first time as the same survey instrument has been employed in all the participating countries. The research findings demonstrate a large variation in what constitutes board level employee representation in practice, including the relations between board level employee representatives and parties within and external to the company and the pattern of influence of board level employee representatives on strategic company decision making. Aimed at practitioners, researchers and policymakers alike, this book makes a vital contribution to the field and will be the definitive work on board level employee representation for the foreseeable future. Foreign Commerce Weekly
