Faith in America Charles H. Lippy, 2006-09-30 Over the last 25 years there has been much talk of the presumed decline in religious participation in America In addition from the 1960s on surveys that mark the influence of religion in American life have shown a mixed response Many suggest that religion is losing influence in the culture as a whole others indicate that while organized religion may be experiencing challenges spirituality is on the upswing At the same time however there have been signs that religious life in the U S is extraordinarily healthy But religion in America has changed to be sure in a number of ways And it has changed us and our culture in return This timely set looks at the major forces that are changing the shape of religion in American life With an influx of immigrants from Asia Latin America and other regions the diversity of religion has grown to include Buddhism Hinduism Islam and other faiths Latin American and African American communities have experienced changes in the ways they practice their faith and in turn influence American culture in general Women have entered the clergy in record numbers and the push for allowing women and gays to enter the clergy in religions that limit or prohibit their roles is on the increase In addition gay couples are leading the same sex marriage movement and other social issues such as abortion stem cell research end of life care etc are still being debated Interest over how people actually live out their religion or spirituality has mushroomed in recent decades thanks in part to the information revolution and popular culture What folks do when they gather together to worship and where they come together has changed dramatically with the advent of the Internet and the role of sports in American life So much has changed and faith in America has become more important than ever as part of our culture our way of life and the way we relate to each other and the world around us The essays found in these pages shed light on our understanding of these transformations and help us comprehend the enormous role of religion in our society and in our world

Religion and the Natural Sciences James E. Huchingson, 2005-02-07 The first half of Religion and the Natural Sciences is an introduction to the discussion of science and religion Here the reader learns why there is any debate at all and what resources exist for responding to it The second half deals with specific issues that arise in the individual sciences from astronomy and physics to biology and ecology Any project hoping to connect science and religion must supply the categories of connection which are found primarily although not exclusively in philosophy The simplicity of the arrangement and the nature of the selections are intended to make Religion and the Natural Sciences available to as wide an audience as possible including students from the

sciences and technology the professions the humanities and liberal studies and theology Faith and Knowledge Douglas Sloan, 1994-01-01 Sloan explores the impact that the Protestant theological renaissance 1925 1960 had on American colleges and universities focusing in particular on the church's most significant claim to have a continuing voice in higher education He traces the role of the national ecumenical and denominational organizations and studies the changing place of college chaplains Analytic Philosophy of Religion James Franklin Harris, 2013-03-14 When Gene Long editor of Kluwer's Handbook of Contemporary Philosophy of Religion Series first invited me to write the volume on Analytic Philosophy of Religion I accepted with great enthusiasm My only explanation for that enthusiasm now is that I was younger and more naive at the time Soon after starting work on the volume my enthusiasm was dampened by the daunting magnitude of the task I began as a sprinter and quickly settled into the pace of a long distance runner Although I considered myself well read in the subject I soon discovered that I had a great deal of research to do to be confident that I had considered all of the major contributions to the various discussions issues and of religion As I read more and more problems found within analytic philosophy books and articles I realized that I had rushed into a territory already well trodden by the angels I am greatly impressed by the sophistication and subtlety of philosophical argument that characterize the different debates in contemporary analytic philosophy of religion This volume covers a vast amount of material I have endeavored to provide the fairest possible reading of different authors and in cases where I include my own critical evaluations and develop my own positions I have endeavored to provide the strongest possible interpretations of the positions I criticize The Oxford Handbook of Religion and Ecology Roger S. Gottlieb, 2006-11-09 Ecologically oriented visions of God the Sacred the Earth and human beings The proposed handbook will serve as the definitive overview of these exciting new developments Divided into three main sections the book's essays will reflect the three dominant dimensions of the field Part I will explore Consenting to God and Nature Byron C. Bangert, 2006-03-08 This book an exploration in theological ethics is motivated by two central questions First How can we think and speak with integrity about God as One who is active in human affairs and the world How can God make a difference in our world and in our lives Second and no less important What is the character of God's activity in the world and how are we to relate and respond to this activity How does God make a difference in our world and our lives and what are some of the implications for our own actions As the book's title indicates Bangert claims that a proper engagement in theological ethics requires both consenting to God and consenting to nature This means both consenting to the reality that is God the One with whom we ultimately have to do and the acceptance of the natural or physical world as hugely determinative of the limits and possibilities of human life and all existence He argues that this calls for a theocentric naturalistic theological ethics Bangert shows how the work of three major contemporary Protestant thinkers James M Gustafson Sallie McFague and David Ray Griffin may be fruitfully appropriated for the articulation of just such an ethics one that is responsive to the Christian tradition while also sharing the modern commitment s appeal to human experience and reason Each of these three thinkers eschews a priori appeal to the authority of religious tradition as each takes seriously scientific knowledge of our world Each accents ways in which current scientific understandings inform and in some cases are informed by contemporary appropriations of the language and thought of Christian tradition Each is also concerned to relate his or her approach to human valuing life and action A critical appraisal of their work shows that none provides a sufficient basis for an intellectually and religiously adequate theological ethics but that each contributes elements necessary to the articulation of such an ethics within the Protestant Christian tradition as it confronts the religious and intellectual challenges of today s world

Science and Religion John F. Haught, 1995 Has science made religion intellectually implausible Does it rule out the existence of a personal God In an age of science can we really believe that the universe has a purpose And finally doesn t religion hold much of the blame for the present ecological crisis These questions form the nucleus of today s debate between science and religion This book is a guide for that debate identifying the questions isolating the issues and pointing to ways the questions can be resolved There are four possible ways says John F Haught that we can view the relationship between religion and science First they can stand in complete opposition the conflict position Or we can believe they are so different that conflict is impossible the contrast position A third approach holds that while science and religion are distinct each has important implications for the other A fourth way views them as different but mutually supportive

Barth and Ecotheology Adrian Langdon, 2025-03-31 Barth and Ecotheology offers a critical and constructive reading of Karl Barth s theology in the context of the Anthropocene It reflects on how a contemporary doctrine of creation must be broad enough to address issues such as climate change colonialism and racism sexism as well as integrating modern science Such a theology would resist the human domination of nature and the various forms of displacement occurring in modernity With Barth the author contends that a theology of creation grounded in the self revelation of God in Jesus Christ is the best place to rethink what it means to be human and to exist within the community of creation Nevertheless if we are to affirm the livingness of the world creaturely differences and a central place for land and place then critical additions to Barth are needed To accomplish this the book provides constructive reinterpretations of Barth s theological method doctrine of God creation by the Word and Spirit anthropology and reconciliation What emerges is a vision of the triune God of love as the source and ground of all that is

Along the way Barth is brought into dialogue with ecotheology as well as theologians such as Wolfhart Pannenberg Dietrich Bonhoeffer and Bruce McCormack The volume will be of particular interest to theologians focused on the doctrine of creation ecotheology and Barth studies Revelation and the Environment, AD 95-1995 Patmos Symposium 1995, Patmos, Greece, Jane Lubchenco, 1997 This book is the culmination of a remarkable symposium held at sea to mark the 1900th anniversary of the writing of the Book of Revelation by the Theologian St John Also known as the Apocalypse it was the source of inspiration for 200 scientists religious leaders philosophers economists and policy makers from all over the world to come together and contemplate the dangers to the planet's survival due to wasteful abuses of the environment particularly the oceans The Book of Revelation and the Environment AD 95 1995 provides a forum to integrate current scientific knowledge with a spiritual approach so as to ensure careful stewardship of the earth's finite resources Publisher's website

Environmentalism has moved into the center of the most influential social movements in late modernity From preserving pre industrial landscapes advocating the intrinsic value of nature and protecting ecosystems against overexploitation it has developed into a worldview ethos and practice that is radically shifting the frontiers of politics economics and ethics Saving Nature approaches environmentalism as a belief system The book explores the impact of environmentalism on faith communities and vice versa and analyzes how environmental worldviews values attitudes and discourses affect religion By drawing on sources in the sociology of religion and environmental sociology it sheds light on the religious dimensions of environmentalism It locates the quick growth of environmentalism in the history of allegedly secular modernity and interprets environmentalism in the context of modernity's re sacralization Series Studies in Religion and the Environment Studien zur Religion und Umwelt Vol 4 God-creature-revelation Jerry D. Korsmeyer, 1995 Educated Western Christians seek to understand the scientific basis of evolution as well as to justify why a God worth worshiping can be responsible yet not indictable for evil The author creates an innovative theological framework that addresses these concerns and provides part of a structure for fundamental theology which is based on the neoclassical metaphysics of Charles Hartshorne and the speculative cosmology of Alfred North Whitehead His model of the divine has three basic principles God is love God is the creator and this creativity is an integral part of divine essence From this model he develops a fundamental theology which focuses on the nature of divinity the interaction between human and the divine and divine revelation He attributes much of his own concept of revelation to Whitehead s model in which revelation is indicative of a successful communion between human and divine This revelation is achieved through symbolic mediation and it is as much inter personal reconciliation as it is a universal resonance of the creative essence between heaven and earth This framework shows initial agreement with Christian traditions it is highly coherent universal in scope and most importantly it has rich potential for future Christian understanding
