European Others Fatima El-Tayeb, 2011 Considers the complications of race religion sexuality and gender in Europeanizing from below Explaining European Identity Formation Stephanie Bergbauer, 2017-10-24 What makes people identify with Europe To answer this question this book analyzes the development and determinants of a common European identity among EU citizens from the Maastricht Treaty in 1992 to the recent financial and economic crisis The author examines citizens identification with Europe for all EU member states and systematically explores the theoretical and empirical implications of two turning points in the recent history of EU integration namely the EU's enlargement to Central and Eastern Europe in 2004 2007 and the financial and economic crisis that started in 2008 The book integrates theoretical approaches to European identity in sociology social psychology and EU public opinion research in a comprehensive model for explaining individual identification with Europe The empirical analysis employs a multilevel framework to systematically assess the influence of individual characteristics and the political economic and social context on citizens feelings of identity The long analysis period spanning from 1992 to the present allows inferences to be drawn about the long term developments in the sources of European identification as well as the immediate impact of EU enlargement and the crisis on the determinants of European identification Messy Europe Kristín Loftsdóttir, Andrea L. Smith, Brigitte Hipfl, 2018-02-19 Using the economic crisis as a starting point Messy Europe offers a critical new look at the issues of race gender and national understandings of self and other in contemporary Europe It highlights and challenges historical associations of Europe with whiteness and modern civilization and asks how these associations are re envisioned re inscribed or contested in an era characterized by crises of different kinds This important collection provides a nuanced exploration of how racialized identities in various European regions are played out in the crisis context and asks what work crisis talk does considering how it motivates public feelings and shapes bodies boundaries and communities Money and Its Use in Medieval Europe Peter Spufford, 1988 This is a full scale study that explores every aspect of money in Europe and the Middle Ages Tribal Innovators Isaac Schapera, 2021-01-07 This book is a completely revised version of a study published in 1943 That study entitled Tribal Legislation among the Tswana of the Bechuanaland Protectorate dealt with the role of chiefs as agents of social change and in particular with the changes they brought about by making new laws It described the various kinds of legislative process current among the Tswana and reviewed systematically the content and scope of the many laws made from the earliest known instances up to the time of writing 1942 in eight different chiefdoms or tribes it also stated where possible why those laws were enacted and discussed how far they really succeeded in establishing new ways of life Being and Becoming European in Poland Marysia H. Galbraith, 2014-06-01 Overthrowing communism in 1989 and joining the European Union in 2004 the Polish people hold loyalties to region country and now continent even as the definition of what it means to be European remains unclear Paying particular attention to those who came of age in the earliest years of the neoliberal and democratic transformations this book uses the life story narratives of rural and urban southern Poles to reveal how being European is considered a fundamental component of being Polish while participants are simultaneously becoming European Ultimately this study demonstrates how the EU is regarded as both an idea and an instrument and how ordinary citizens make choices that influence the shape of European identity and the legitimacy of its institutions Attitudes

Contact and Conflict Robin

Fisher, 2011-11-01 Originally published in 1977 Contact and Conflict has remained an important book which has inspired numerous scholars to examine further the relationships between the Indians and the Europeans fur traders as well as settlers. For this edition Robin Fisher has written a new introduction in which he surveys the literature since 1977 and comments on any new insights into these relationships. Fisher contends that the fur trade had originally brought minimal cultural change to the Indians. In 1858 it essentially came to an end and with the beginning of white settlement there was a fundamental change in the relationship between Indians and Europeans. What had been a reciprocal system between the two civilizations became a pattern of white dominance. He shows that while the Indians had been able to adjust gradually to the changes introduced by the traders in the contact period they lost control of their culture under the impact of colonization.
