Quitting the Nairobi Trio Jim Knipfel, 2000 The author describes his six month residence in a locked door psych ward where he was committed after another suicide attempt Will Cuppy, American Satirist Wes D. Gehring, 2013-10-11 Back in the golden age of humor books late 1920s early 1950s when wits of the pantheon like Robert Benchley James Thurber and S J Perelman were producing their signature works there was another singular satirist who more than held his own with such fast company Will Cuppy 1884 1949 This factual funnyman's metier is dark comedy that flirts with nihilism His agenda is baldly stated in such classic Cuppy book titles as How to Be a Hermit 1929 How to Tell Your Friends from the Apes 1931 and The Decline and Fall of Practically Everybody 1950 This biography doubles as a critical study of a satirist whose shish kebabing of humanity was often done through the veiled anthropomorphic use of animals For a biographer Will Cuppy represents a treasure trove of possibilities He was a great humorist and most of his best work is still in print but until now he has never been the subject of a book length study His mesmerizingly complex and eccentric private life almost trumps the comic accomplishments of his public persona Forties Film Funnymen Wes D. Gehring, 2014-01-10 The twelve classic comedy films examined within these pages are distinguished by an equal number of defining comic performances Ranging from The Great Dictator 1940 to A Southern Yankee 1948 each film focuses on the most central theme of clown comedy Resilience the encouragement or hope that one can survive the most daunting of life's dilemmas even during the war torn 1940s And each film can be regarded as a microcosm of the antiheroic world of its central clown or clowns Among the performers represented are Charlie Chaplin W C Fields Abbott and Costello Jack Benny Eddie Bracken Bob Hope Bing Crosby Danny Kaye the Marx Brothers Harold Lloyd and Red Skelton This lavishly illustrated work includes an introduction by noted film critic and historian Anthony Slide report anything amiss Wally's neighbor Whit Chambers has been busy practically setting a world record for turning in suspicious characters and Unmutuals to the local authorities and in fact Whit's had his eye and his telescope trained on Wally for some time now When Wally finally snaps he finds refuge with the Unpluggers an underground movement fighting for just a few minutes of peace and quiet With a cast of Dickensian characters from stroller-wielding Brooklyn mothers to former Kennedy spooks and Norwegian cowboys Jim Knipfel's Unplugging Philco is a wildly funny look at our life and times filled with sharp cultural references and vivid witty prose that testifies to a dangerously perceptive mind behind the madness

Hornstein     Film Clowns of the Depression Wes D. Gehring, 2014-11-21 The 1930s are routinely considered sound film's greatest comedy era. Though this golden age encompassed various genres of laughter, clown comedy is the most basic type. This work examines the Depression decade's most popular type of comedy: the clown or personality comedian. Focusing upon the Depression era, the study filters its analysis through twelve memorable pictures. Each merits an individual chapter in which it is critiqued. The films are deemed microcosmic representatives of the comic world and discussed in this context. While some of the comedians in this text have generated a great deal of previous analysis, funnymen like Joe E. Brown and Eddie Cantor are all but forgotten. Nevertheless, they were comedy legends in their time, and their legacy as showcased in these movies merits rediscovery by today's connoisseur of comedy. Even this book's more familiar figures, such as Charlie Chaplin and the Marx Brothers, are often simply relegated to being recognizable pop culture icons whose work has been neglected in recent years. This book attempts to address these oversights and to re-expose the brilliance and ingenuity with which the screen clowns contributed a comic resiliency that was desperately needed during the Depression and can still be greatly appreciated today. The films discussed are: City Lights 1931, Chaplin; The Kid From Spain 1932, Cantor; She Done Him Wrong 1933, Mae West; Duck Soup 1933, Marx Brothers; Sons of the Desert 1933, Laurel and Hardy; Judge Priest 1934, Will Rogers; It's a Gift 1934, W. C. Fields; Alibi 1935, Brown; A Night at the Opera 1935, Marx Brothers; Modern Times 1936, Chaplin; Way Out West 1937, Laurel and Hardy; and The Cat and the Canary 1939, Bob Hope.     Celluloid Couches, Cinematic Clients Jerrold R. Brandell, 2004-04-22 Looks at how therapy and the talking cure have been portrayed in the movies.     Residue Jim Knipfel, 2015-04-07 A longtime Wisconsin sheriff faces his first ever homicide. Fuses murder and mortuary science in a novel of the humorously macabre. Derek Davis, author of Gifts of a Dead Man. In the nearly twenty years that Leonard Koznowski has been sheriff of Beaver Rapids, Wisconsin, he's never encountered a homicide. When the local mortician and his assistant are brutally gunned down, Leonard is thrust into a tumultuous investigation linking religion, high school athletics, the black market of body parts, unwholesome sexual proclivities, and a sinister secret society. And with deer season fast approaching, the timing could've been a hell of a lot better. Inspired by actual events, Jim Knipfel gives a hilariously dark satirical twist to the American pastoral. In Sheriff Koznowski, Knipfel creates a straightforward man of the law with more smarts than he can admit to while surrounded by deputies incapable of the simplest of procedures like thinking. You'll find yourself saying "yah" and "okeydokey" for at least a week after you've finished tearing through this delightful, engaging paean to the rural absurd. Derek Davis, author of Gifts of a Dead Man. A gifted stylist. The New York Times Book Review.
