Racial Ethnic Patterns Of Cancer In The Us 1988 199:

Racial/ethnic patterns of cancer in the United States, 1988-1992, 1996 The Unequal Burden of Cancer Institute of Medicine, Committee on Cancer Research Among Minorities and the Medically Underserved, 1999-06-11 We know more about cancer prevention detection and treatment than ever before yet not all segments of the U S population have benefited to the fullest extent possible from these advances Some ethnic minorities experience more cancer than the majority population and poor people no matter what their ethnicity often lack access to adequate cancer care This book provides an authoritative view of cancer as it is experienced by ethnic minorities and the medically underserved It offers conclusions and recommendations in these areas Defining and understanding special populations and improving the collection of cancer related data Setting appropriate priorities for and increasing the effectiveness of specific National Institutes of Health NIH research programs to ensure that special populations are represented in clinical trials Disseminating research results to health professionals serving these populations with sensitivity to the issues of cancer survivorship The book provides background data on the nation s struggle against cancer activities and expenditures of the NIH and other relevant topics

Cancers of the Colon and Rectum Al B. Benson, A. Bapsi Chakravarthy, Stanley Hamilton, Stanley R. Hamilton, Elin Sigurdson, 2013-10-03 Over the course of the last decade the treatment of colorectal cancer has evolved quite rapidly New scientific and clinical advances have modified the standard of care and led to improved patient outcomes At the same time the treatment of colorectal cancer has become increasingly complex requiring the comprehensive review and assessment of multiple issues including genetics radiology surgery molecular diagnostics chemotherapy and more As a result the harmony and open communication between these specialties facilitated by a multidisciplinary team approach are crucial in providing the best care to patients and ensuring successful treatment Cancers of the Colon and Rectum A Multidisciplinary Approach to Diagnosis and Management written by a multidisciplinary team of authors representing a range of disciplines is a valuable resource for physicians fellows nurses physician assistants physical therapists and all health care providers involved in the treatment of colorectal cancer Cancers of the Colon and Rectum A Multidisciplinary Approach to Diagnosis and Management summarizes the state of the art issues related to the treatment of colorectal cancer and describes an approach for optimal multidisciplinary care for individuals who have been diagnosed with or who are at higher risk to develop colorectal cancer About the Series The Current Multidisciplinary Oncology series edited by Charles R Thomas consolidates and integrates the varied aspects of multidisciplinary care for major topics in oncology including breast lung prostate head and neck and more The volumes in the Current Multidisciplinary Oncology series represent all related topic areas including oncology radiation oncology pain pathology imaging psychological support and the primary disease In addition each volume includes a chapter focusing on special populations and the disease s impact difference on them and discussion of future directions and quality of life issues In addition each volume has a chapter written by a private practice oncologist All Current Multidisciplinary

Oncology titles provide Consolidation and integration of the varied aspects of multidisciplinary care for major topics in oncology Coverage of all related topic areas including medical and surgical oncology radiation oncology pain pathology imaging psychological support and the primary disease A chapter focusing on special populations and the disease s differing impact on them Discussion of quality of life issues Racial/ethnic Patterns of Cancer in the United States, 1988-1992, 1996* This monograph provides a concise description of the occurrence of the major cancers among several different racial ethnic groups in the United States Age adjusted incidence and mortality rates are shown graphically by age group and sex for Alaska Native American Indian New Mexico black Chinese Filipino Hawaiian Hispanic Japanese Korean Vietnamese white total white Hispanic and white non Hispanic populations This landmark report represents the most extensive information yet available on racial and ethnic differences in the cancer experience Toward Environmental Justice Committee on Environmental Justice, Institute of Medicine, 1999-03-11 Driven by community based organizations and supported by a growing body of literature the environmental justice movement contends that poor and minority populations are burdened with more than their share of toxic waste pesticide runoff and other hazardous byproducts of our modern economic life Is environmental degradation worse in poor and minority communities Do these communities suffer more adverse health effects as a result The committee addresses these questions and explores how current fragmentation in health policy could be replaced with greater coordination among federal state and local parties The book is highlighted with case studies from five locations where the committee traveled to hear citizen and researcher testimony It offers detailed examinations in these areas Identifying environmental hazards and assessing risk for populations of varying ethnic social and economic backgrounds and the need for methodologies that uniquely suit the populations at risk Identifying basic clinical and occupational research needs and meeting challenges to research on minorities Expanding environmental education from an ecological focus to a public health focus for all levels of health professionals Legal and ethical aspects of environmental health issues The book makes recommendations to decisionmakers in the areas of public health research and education of health professionals and outlines health policy considerations Tobacco Use Among United States Racial/ethnic Minority Groups United States. Department of Health and Human Services, 1998 This Surgeon General s report on tobacco use summarizes current information on risk factors and patterns related to tobacco use among members of four major racial and ethnic minority groups in the United States African Americans American Indians and Alaska Natives Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders and Hispanics In addition this report presents information on national and regional efforts to curtail consumption of tobacco products among members of these four groups Previous Surgeon General s reports on smoking and health have briefly summarized findings related to one or more of the racial ethnic groups covered in this report but this is the first Surgeon General s report to concentrate specifically on the four major racial ethnic groups in the United States Several factors prompted the development of this report First the information in this report has never before been compiled in one source Consequently policymakers community leaders researchers and public health workers have had difficulty determining the extent of the problem identifying gaps in information regarding tobacco use among members of the four groups or being aware of existing tobacco control programs that have demonstrated effectiveness Thus incorporating such information into the design and implementation of culturally appropriate services has been difficult Second the four racial ethnic groups currently constitute about one fourth of the population of this country and the Bureau of the Census projects that by 2050 the non Hispanic white population in the United States will total only 53 percent Day 1996 Preventing health problems related to tobacco use among the individuals in racial and ethnic groups will be integral to achieving U S public health objectives such as those proposed in Healthy People 2000 National Health Promotion and Disease Prevention Objectives U S Department of Health and Human Services USDHHS 1991 1995 National Center for Health Statistics NCHS 1994 This report contributes essential knowledge that must be incorporated into efforts to accomplish the Healthy People 2000 objectives

American Indian Health Everett R. Rhoades, 2003-05-22 Disease processes among American Indians and Alaska Natives often have distinct manifestations that need to be considered by clinicians and health policy makers involved with these populations Equally important all aspects of Indian life including health are governed by the special relationship between Indian tribes and the U S federal government For American Indian Health Everett R Rhoades has gathered a distinguished group of scholars and practitioners to present a comprehensive assessment of the health of American Indian peoples today and the delivery of health services to them

Racial/Ethnic Patterns of Cancer in the United States, 1988-1992 Barry A. Miller, 1997-07 Hutchinson focuses initially on movement as concept and metaphor affirming its centrality in the conceptualization of all discursive activities He draws on an array of authors including Heraclitus Plato Longinus Rabelais Nietzsche Saussure Frances Yates Kristeva Meschonnic and Deleuze to demonstrate the motion of discourse and of those engaged in it He then turns to Cervantes novels to show how metaphors of movement and travel appearing on nearly every page dominate the conceptualization of the soul the self desire love and life processes Viewing travel as a composite of concurrent modes of experience with differing content and rhythms Hutchinson considers the concept of errancy the nature of place and the traveler s shifting relations with it and the values that travel may have as a motion displacement encounter and goal Of key importance are the means of improvisation developed en route His re examination of Bakhtin s chronotope in light of Cervante s novels reveals the dynamic character of time spaces in which travelers move He shows moreover that unlike typical Renaissance utopias the many worlds of Cervantes novels have the principles of becoming and dissolution inscribed in them Reflecting on the narrative of journeys both as memory and invention Hutchinson concludes with an examination of the relations between travel experience and travel narrative and a discussion of the whereabouts of writers and readers in Cervantes novels The narration of journeys he argues necessitates and encourages improvisatory writing Sickness and Healing Robert A. Hahn, 1995. The ways in which people respond to sickness differ greatly from society to society. In this book, anthropologist and epidemiologist Robert A. Hahn examines how Western and non-Western cultures influence the definition, experience, and treatment of sickness. Hahn begins by developing a definition of sickness that is based on the patient's perception of suffering and disturbance rather than on the physician's assessment of biomedical signs. After reviewing the principal theories that account for the forms of sickness and healing found in different historical and cultural situations, he explores the relevance of both anthropological and epidemiological approaches to sickness, focusing on the persistent gap between white and black infant mortality in the United States. Hahn then describes contemporary Western medicine as it might be seen by a visiting foreign anthropologist. He delineates the culture of Western medicine and portrays the world of one physician at work, traces the evolution of obstetrics since 1903 by analyzing the principal textbook, Williams Obstetrics, through its first eighteen editions, and explores the gulf between physicians and their patients by examining the accounts of physicians who have written about their own illnesses. He concludes by proposing ways in which some of the ills of contemporary Western medicine might be remedied by applying anthropological principles to medical training and practice. Asian American and Pacific Islander Journal of Health, 2001. Fundamentals of Cancer Prevention David Alberts, Lisa M. Hess, 2008-09-24.

An authoritative work that provides a detailed review of the current status of cancer prevention and control practice and research This volume is an essential reference guide and tool for primary care physicians the research community and students Written as a collaborative work by the faculty of the nationally renowned Cancer Prevention and Control Program at the Arizona Cancer Center this book brings together the expertise of specialists in the field of cancer prevention and control to provide the medical and research community that does not specialize in this field with insight to the disciplines of cancer prevention and control
