Breakwell, 2012-12-06 This book was created to describe the social psychological approach SPA to the social work process It has long been asserted that social workers need to understand and use social psychology in their practice Yet the literature available to social workers has been limited There have been no texts on social psychology specifically designed for social workers Instead social workers have been presented with various forms of individual psychology and macrosociology There is however an important contribution which social psychology the study of the individual in a social context can make to the social work process This contribution is the central concern of this book Consequently the book is seen as filling a fundamental gap in the existing social work literature The structure of the book is dictated by the belief that social workers and social psychologists should collaborate in evolving a social psychological model of social work practice Such a model the result of collaboration between a social worker and a social psychologist is presented here The book is addressed not simply to teachers and students of social work but also specifically to social work practitioners and to social psychologists besides all those who deal with social work problems In addressing a wide audience it is important to establish a lingua franca social workers need to understand the basics of social psychology and social psychologists must understand the basis of social work practice      Housing Desegregation and Federal Policy John M. Goering, 2012-12-30 Housing desegregation is one of America's last civil rights frontiers Drawing on the expertise of social issues can be explored a theme that is considered in several of the following chapters Dialogue, Conflict Resolution, and Change Mohammed Abu-Nimer, 2012-02-01 This is the first study to introduce the subject of Arab Jewish relations and encounters in Israel from both conflict resolution and educational perspectives Through a critical examination of Arab and Jewish encounter programs in Israel the book reviews conflict resolution and intergroup theories and processes which are utilized in dealing with ethnic conflicts and offers a detailed presentation of intervention models applied by various encounter programs to promote dialogue education for peace and democracy between Arabs and Jews in Israel The author investigates how encounter designs and processes can become part of a control system used by the dominant governmental majority s institutes to maintain the status quo and reinforce political taboos Also discussed are the different conflict perceptions held by Arabs and Jews the relationship between those perceptions and both sides expectations of the encounters Abu Nimer explores the impact of the political context Intifada Gulf War and peace process on the intervention design and process of those encounter groups and contains a list of recommendations and guidelines to consider when designing and conducting encounters between ethnic groups He reveals and explains why the Arab and Jewish encounter participants and leaders have different criteria of their encounter s success and failure The study is also applicable to dialogue and coexistence programs and conflict resolution initiatives in other ethnically divided societies such as South Africa Northern Ireland Bosnia and Sri Lanka where the minority and majority have struggled to find peaceful ways to coexist Encyclopedia of Human
