Regionalism Contested Henrik Halkier, 2016-12-05 As we move further into the 21st century the prominence of regions can no longer be taken for granted A certain skepticism has developed with regard to the feasibility of marginal regions achieving self sustained growth and states have maintained their role as regulators of economic and social activities Thus the notion of the region and its significance is currently much debated and contested Illustrated with a wide range of European case studies this volume brings together the main strands of these contestations as economic political and social actors attempt to institutionalise their vision of their region as the dominant form of territorial governance It questions both the external delimitation and the internal constitution of regions and critically analyses the societal processes circumscribing ways in which regions are created maintained and undermined The volume provides a wide range of analytical perspectives to enable an understanding of the current mosaic of regionalism in Europe

A United Kingdom? John Mohan, 2014-04-23 The human geography of the UK is currently being reshaped by a number of forces such as globalisation transition in the organisations of production the changing character of state intervention and changing relationships with Europe A consideration of the impacts of these forces on economic social and political landscapes is therefore an urgent task At the same time enduring institutional features of the British economy and polity are also having important influences on socio economic processes The result is a complex mosaic of uneven development which belies the notion of simplistic regional contrasts Rather than simply mapping spatial inequality A United Kingdom charts the processes underpinning uneven development at a range of scales and for a number of key topics The book draws upon and synthesises the latest contemporary research findings and places emphasis on the interrelated nature of economic social and political geographies It treats the human geographies of the UK in a coherent and integrated way and asks whether contemporary processes of change are tending towards the reduction of socio spatial divisions or their reproduction in new forms

Reforming UK Public Policy Through Elected Regional Government Malcolm J. Prowle, 2022-08-12 This book takes an in depth look at the enormous challenges facing UK public services and considers what might be done to resolve them The authors are confident that more of the same over centralised approaches to public policy and so called levelling up policies will just not work Instead they argue for an application of radical measures involving the creation of elected regional governments in England similar to the devolved arrangements in Wales Scotland and Northern Ireland The book comprises four distinct parts introduction and context the need for major reform policies for individual public services and cross cutting themes Following an introduction and discussion of the meaning of the terms public policy and public services the first part goes on to discuss at length the substantial challenges to public policy and public services The second part sets out the need for over arching reforms designed to address the issues discussed above namely the development of elected regional governments Each chapter in part three explores key themes concerning individual public policy areas and public services while part four discusses a number of themes which cut across all the public services already considered Although the book is focused on and is of great relevance within the UK it also has international appeal as many of the themes discussed will have resonance in other countries and the analysis of public policy in regional administrations will also be of interest in other jurisdictions It will appeal to students and academics in the fields of government and politics economics finance and accounting public administration public service management and social policy as well as policymakers practicing civil servants public service managers and elected representatives

Barriers to Trade in Financial and Insurance Services: Evidence from the United Kingdom Jiri Podpiera,2021-10-29 Distance as a proxy for trade barriers is found in many studies to matter even for weightless cross border financial investments and lending possibly due to the presence of information asymmetries Its importance is tested in this paper using exports of all five broad categories of the U K s financial and insurance services No trade barriers are found for the bulk of the U K s exports Trade barriers are confirmed only for interest bearing activities being in line with available results in the literature The positive effect of EU membership appears to be small Notwithstanding the uncertainties it suggests that post Brexit disruptions of the U K s export of financial and insurance services may be minor

Offshore Financial Centers, Accounting Services and the Global Economy Don E. Garner,David L. McKee,Yosra AbuAmara McKee,2000-07-30 The new global climate of free enterprise has brought with it a proliferation of offshore financial centers that presumably have important roles to play in the emergent global economy The air of secrecy that appears to pervade the activities of offshore financial centers may well slant or obscure any real understanding of the functions of such centers The authors investigate the role of major international accounting firms and their services in the processes of business facilitation in the locations that host these centers By focusing the investigation upon the role of the accounting firms in offshore financial centers the authors gain a better grasp of the real or potential impacts of the firms in the global economy and in the jurisdictions that host them Not only do the authors provide a detailed assessment of what the major accounting firms are actually doing in the centers but they point out what attributes are needed by jurisdictions hoping to succeed as offshore financial centers The centers included are Antigua Barbuda the Bahamas Barbados Bermuda the Cayman Islands the Channel Islands the Isle of Man Gibraltar Malta Cyprus Bahrain the United Arab Emirates Mauritius the Seychelles Singapore and Vanuatu The authors describe the legal and institutional environments facing business operations in general and the accounting firms in particular in offshore financial centers By studying these operations it should show what they are doing in terms of facilitating the international activities that flow through such centers It should also add to the understanding of the potential that offshore activities have as vehicles for development in small emerging economies This study should be of interest to a wide range of business disciplines as well as governmental agencies in advanced and emerging nations
