

struction. Due to the small number of participants from other South Asian countries, the scientific and practical exchange on the subcontinental level was, unfortunately, quite limited. Nor did the topic of improving the quality of life receive much attention. Very few presentations made specific recommendations and were based on the activities and experiences of practical development projects.

This conference, which was supported by the German Scientific Exchange Service (Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst, DAAD) and the Austrian non-governmental organization Eco-Himal did, however, provide a platform for the intensive discussion of the broad and complex issues that comprise the concept of sustainable development. Unfortunately, specific recommendations for development activities and more applied research were scarcely made. There still remains a strong need to increase the dialogue and exchange between science, politics and development practitioners in order to improve the quality of life in South Asia.

Regional Cooperation in South Asia: Interfacing New Dimensions and Perspectives

Dhaka, 22nd – 24th October 2000

The South Asian Cooperation for Regional Development (SAARC), comprising India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Nepal, Bhutan and the Maldives, was initiated by Bangladesh's Zia ur Rahman, a hero of the war of independence ("liberation" in Bangladesh), a general, dictator ("martial law administrator") and later president. Assassinated in a failed coup d'état in 1981 he did not live long enough to see SAARC come into being in 1985. Bangladeshis are rightly proud of their initiative for a regional cooperation, which explains why the Bangladesh Institute of Strategic Studies (BISS), an army outfit and leading government think-tank for national and foreign relations questions, organized this conference, despite the fact that Zia's widow, a former prime minister, is the leader of the opposition and engaged in a disturbingly obstructive attempt to prevent the government, led by the daughter of the "Father of the Nation" Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, from completing its term. Whereas Sheikh Hasina Wajid is blamed by Khalida Zia for being too close to India, Khalida's nationalist policy at the expense of the country's traditional good relations with India (without which Bangladesh would hardly have gained independence) brings her too close to Pakistan,

New Dimensions of Connectivity in the Asia-Pacific Christopher Findlay, Somkiat Tangkitvanich, 2021-11-10 There is no bigger policy agenda in the East Asian region than connectivity. Costs of international connectivity are indeed falling in the movement of goods, services, people, and data, leading to greater flows and to the reorganisation of business and the emergence of new forms of international transactions. There are second round effects on productivity and growth and on equity and inclusiveness. Participating in trade across borders involves significant set up costs and if these costs are lowered due to falling full costs of connectivity, more firms will participate, which is a driver of productivity growth and innovation at the firm level. Connectivity investments are linked to poverty reduction since they reduce the costs of participating in markets. This volume includes chapters on the consequences of changes in both physical and digital connectivity for trade, for the location of economic activity, for forms of doing business, the growth of e-commerce in particular, and for the delivery of new services, especially in the financial sector. A study of China's Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) is also included. These studies are preceded by an assessment of the connectivity performance in the Asia Pacific region and followed by a discussion of impediments to investment in projects that contribute to productivity. The collection as a whole provides the basis for a series of recommendations for regional cooperation. The Pacific Trade and Development (PAFTAD) conference series has been at the forefront of analysing challenges facing the economies of East Asia and the Pacific since its first meeting in Tokyo in January 1968.

Region-building Ludger Kühnhardt, 2010-07-01 After two centuries of nation building, the world has entered an era of region building in search of political stability, cultural cohesion, and socio-economic development. Nations involved in the regional structures and integration schemes that are emerging in most regions of the world are deepening their ambitions. With Europe's integration experience often used as an experimental template or theoretical model, Volume I provides a political analytical framework for recognizing the central role of the European Union, not only as a conceptual model but also as a normative engine in the global proliferation of regional integration. It also gives a comprehensive treatment of the focus, motives, and objectives of non-European integration efforts. Volume II offers a unique collection of documents that give the best available overview of the legal and political evolution of region building based on official documents and stated objectives of the relevant regional groupings across all continents. Together, these volumes are important contributions for understanding the evolution of global affairs in an age when power shifts provide new challenges and opportunities for transatlantic partners and the world community.

Strengthening Regional Trade Integration in South Asia Owais Hasan Khan, 2021-03-05 This book brings forth the philosophical, conceptual, and practical contours of the trade regionalism.

provisions under the GATT WTO It analyses SAARC as the regional integration organisation of South Asia along with identifying major challenges and bottlenecks faced by it in the process of achieving regional integration It presents ways and methods through which SAARC can be made a more effective regional organisation The book predominantly focuses on trade regionalism However other areas of integration which have impacts on the trade regionalism are also examined like social and political integrations etc The book takes off from the premise that trade regionalism under SAARC has failed and has been marred by political and security concerns among its member nations It has failed to achieve its objective on all the three counts which are promoting peace development and economic cooperation However with the developing countries as members SAARC has great potential for trade integration Certain structural normative and organisation alteration along with favourable ideation can still make SAARC achieve its full potential The book also deals with the comparative analysis of SAARC regional integration with the regional integration under European Union and ASEAN Regarding comparative regionalism the discussion has been confined only to the EU and ASEAN The EU has been chosen because it is comparatively established as one of the most successful regional organisations in the contemporary world Whereas ASEAN has been chosen because of its similarity to the SAARC s economy society and political structure The analysis presented in the book is from the perspectives of international law and international relations theories and practise This book thus is of particular relevance to the students researchers academicians policymakers and practitioners of international trade law international relations and South Asian studies

Transitions and Interdependence: India and its Neighbours Dr Pankaj Jha, Dr Smita Tiwari, 2015-07-15 Developments in South Asia in the areas of democracy political economy and security in the last couple of years are intriguing and raise questions about whether the region is on the road to transformation The years 2013 and 2014 particularly have been years of transition in South Asia Almost all South Asia countries have undergone political transitions with cascading effects These elections are significant for South Asian countries because the region has witnessed political instability for a long period of time The elections in South Asia generated the hope that the most un integrated region may become interdependent after coming up of new sets of political heads These developments in the region have an influence on India s foreign policy and also mould its domestic politics and vice versa India s policy towards individual countries also has a decisive impact on the pace of on going political transitions in a number of spheres civil military relations foreign policy of individual countries socio political and economic dynamics and nature of governance These transitions reflect the nature behaviour and response of the transitory states towards the others India as an important stakeholder in the region is keenly observing these transitions in its neighbourhood This book titled Transitions and Interdependence India and Its Neighbours is the outcome of serious deliberations among well known scholars diplomats and policy makers at the Fifth Asian Relations Conference organised by the Indian Council of World Affairs in collaboration with the Institute of Peace and Conflict Studies in February 2014 Papers presented in the conference have been thoroughly revised before publication and the editors
