Regulating Pollution:

Regulating Pollution J. Clarence Davies, III, Jan Mazurek, 1998-04 Focusing largely on federal environmental efforts this report provides a sound basis for considering the future of the pollution control regulatory system It describes and evaluates the legislation administrative decisionmaking and federal state division of labor that are the main elements of the U S regulatory process The overall system is examined and evaluated to determine whether the most important problems have been targeted and pollution levels reduced and whether the system has been effective and cost efficient has been responsive to social values and is prepared to deal with future problems

Regulating Water Quality Jodee Kuske, 1991 How the Chinese System of Charges and Subsidies Affects Pollution Control Efforts by China's Top Industrial Polluters Hua Wang, Ming Chen, 1999 China's unique combination of emissions charges and pollution abatement subsidies has given China's most heavily polluting industrial firms incentive to invest in pollution abatement

The Theory and Practice of Command and Control in Environmental Policy Peter Berck, 2018-01-12 This title was first published in 2003 Economists have had increasing success in arguing the merits of market based approaches to environmental problems By making polluting expensive market based approaches provide polluters with incentives to clean up rather than mandates to stop polluting These approaches include pollution taxes transferable emissions permits and subsidies for pollution abatement The purpose of this volume is to explore the situations where Command and Control CAC may not be all bad and in fact might even have some advantages over market based instruments MBI

Chasing the Wind Noga Morag-Levine, 2009-01-10 The Federal Clean Air Act of 1970 is widely seen as a revolutionary legal response to the failures of the earlier common law regime which had governed air pollution in the United States for more than a century Noga Morag Levine challenges this view highlighting striking continuities between the assumptions governing current air pollution regulation in the United States and the principles that had guided the earlier nuisance regime Most importantly this continuity is evident in the centrality of risk based standards within contemporary American air pollution regulatory policy Under the European approach by contrast the feasibility based technology standard is the regulatory instrument of choice Through historical analysis of the evolution of Anglo American air pollution law and contemporary case studies of localized pollution disputes Chasing the Wind argues for an overhaul in U S air pollution policy This reform following the European model would forgo the unrealizable promise of complete perfectly tailored protection a hallmark of both nuisance law and the Clean Air Act in favor of incremental across the board pollution reductions The author argues that prevailing critiques of technology standards as inefficient and undemocratic instruments of command and control fit with a longstanding pattern of American suspicion of civil law modeled interventions This distrust she concludes has impeded the development of environmental regulation that would be less adversarial in process and more equitable in outcome

Regulating Financial Innovation Christopher Ruof, 2023-08-30 This book explores the impact of Fintech on the information asymmetry between the financial regulator and the markets It details the growing regulatory mismatch and how Fintech exacerbates the pacing problem where the regulator struggles to keep up with innovation With information as a point of reference the book adds a new perspective on the latest phenomenon in financial innovation and presents a novel framework for navigating structural changes in the financial sector Based on this analysis a number of proposals to reduce the information gap and avoid regulatory mismatch are discussed Thereby new and promising regulatory concepts such as regulatory sandboxes and SupTech applications are also covered This book provides a practical framework for regulatory responses to financial innovation It will be relevant to researchers and practitioners interested in financial technology and regulation

Regulation Anthony I Ogus, 2004-10-15 This is a reprint of Anthony Ogus classic study of regulation first published in the 1990s It examines how since the last decades of the twentieth century there have been fundamental changes in the relationship between the state and industry With the aid of economic theory Anthony Ogus critically examines the ways in which public law has been adapted to the task of regulating industrial activity and provides a systematic overview of the theory and forms of social and economic regulation In particular he explores the reasons why governments regulate for which broadly speaking two theoretical frameworks exist First public interest theories determine that regulation should aim to improve social and economic welfare Second economic theories suggest that regulation should aim to satisfy the demands of private interests The book also looks at the evolution of the forms of regulation in Britain extending to the policies of privatization and deregulation which were so characteristic of the period The author skilfully evaluates the advantages and disadvantages of the different forms of regulation particularly in the light of the two theoretical frameworks but also by involving an analysis of how firms respond to the various kinds of incentives and controls offered by government A significant feature of the book is its analysis of the choices made by governments between the different forms of regulation and the influence exerted by interest groups including bureaucrats and EC law

The 1982 Law of the Sea Convention and the Regulation of Offshore Renewable Energy Activities within National Jurisdiction Dawoon Jung, 2023-09-20 There are various environmental and legal challenges arising from offshore renewable energy activities which were not foreseen at the time of the negotiation of the 1982 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea UNCLOS This book explores how UNCLOS has evolved to adapt to these new challenges through legal mechanisms and examines what gaps may remain and how they should be filled The book highlights the process of normative reinforcement in the regulation of offshore renewable energy activities whilst maintaining the fundamental balance of interests between the coastal State and other States

Regulation of the Power Sector Ignacio J. Pérez-Arriaga, 2014-02-26 Regulation of the Power Sector is a unified consistent and comprehensive treatment of the theories and practicalities of regulation in modern power supply systems The need for generation to occur at the time of use occasioned by the impracticality of large scale electricity storage coupled with constant and often unpredictable changes in demand make electricity supply systems large dynamic and complex and their regulation a daunting task Arranged in four parts this book addresses both traditional regulatory frameworks and also liberalized and re regulated environments First an introduction gives a full characterization of power supply including engineering economic and regulatory viewpoints The second part presents the fundamentals of regulation and the third looks at the regulation of particular components of the power sector in detail Advanced topics and subjects still open or subject to dispute form the content of Part IV In a sector where regulatory design is the key driver of both the industry efficiency and the returns on investment Regulation of the Power Sector is directed at regulators policy decision makers business managers and researchers It is a pragmatic text well tested by the authors quarter century of experience of power systems from around the world Power system professionals and students at all levels will derive much benefit from the authors wealth of blended theory and real world derived know how

Handbook of Environmental and Resource Economics Jeroen C. J. M. Van den Bergh, 2002-01-01 This major reference book comprises specially commissioned surveys in environmental and resource economics written by an international team of experts Authoritative yet accessible each entry provides a state of the art summary of key areas that will be invaluable to researchers practitioners and advanced students Water Policy and Management in Spain Francisco González-Gómez, Miguel A. García-Rubio, Jorge Guardiola, 2016-04-08 Spain is facing an increasingly difficult situation in terms of water stress This is an issue that is due mostly to poor management practices in all sectors Large amounts of water have been used for agricultural purposes at very low prices for too long there is an uncontrolled use of most aquifers in rural areas which result from ineffective control by the public administration per capita consumption continues increasing as well as water used for industrial and energy generation the construction and tourism sectors and for recreation activities In fact they have all exerted additional pressure on available water resources In order to face the above challenges water policy has made a gradual shift towards more rational and sustainable management of water resources This has also been influenced by the European Water Framework Directive about which as the book discusses there are both myths and misunderstandings This book analyses the very complex position of all sectors in the country the alternatives available and the challenges ahead In so doing it makes an important contribution to the literature on water resources management This book was published as a special issue of the International Journal of Water Resources Development Environmental Quality ,1974 European Ship Recycling Regulation Urs Daniel Engels, 2013-06-12 This study provides an in depth analysis of the Hong Kong Ship Recycling Convention as adopted in May 2009 and a thorough analysis of the overall status quo of ship recycling regulations It investigates the lack of sufficient ratifications of the Convention from both a legal and an economic perspective The first part of the study focuses on the history of the Convention s entry into force provision and the rationale behind it Due to the fact that this provision provides a considerable additional obstacle to the Convention s becoming legally binding in the second part the focus of the work shifts to unilateral action in this field An overview of the legal environment of European ship recycling legislation is followed by an analysis and evaluation of a number of proposals by the European Commission attempting to tackle the problems of current ship recycling procedures With a particular emphasis on planned European measures in this regard the analysis overall message is one of cautious optimism
