Religions and State's Response to Religious Diversification in Contemporary Vietnam Chung Van Hoang, 2017-07-03 This book approaches newly emerging religious groups through the interplay between religious and non religious spheres in the specific context of Vietnam It considers the new religious groups as a part of religious reconfiguration in Vietnam caused by intensified interactions among these spheres It explores changes of relationship between religions and changes between the religious sphere and the political economic and public spheres in contemporary Vietnam Specifically it traces trajectories of religious development in relation to politico economic changes in this rapidly modernising nation It tests a hypothesis that at least some new yet unrecognized new religious groups have a positive active role in modernisation rather than a negative reactive role To this end the book draws on a number of research approaches and methodologies in an effort to provide readers with a multi faceted understanding of Vietnam s new religious groups The research is interdisciplinary in orientation drawing on sociology and anthropology It is also comparative in that it bases its argument on a consideration of three distinct new religious groups in Vietnam The research is also qualitative and ethnographic in that it drew on some of the techniques associated with participant observation during a sustained period of fieldwork amongst the three religious groups The concept of religious reconfiguration developed in this book provides a framework for the study of religion in Vietnam which opens the way to further analysis from a comparative perspective Meanwhile an emphasis upon religious reinvention which addresses processes of remaking transforming legitimating and accommodating can be useful for research into New Religious Movements elsewhere in Asia A research in the challenges of new religions could act as a catalyst for interdisciplinary studies based on detailed empirical study of religious diversity and of religious freedom by other scholars It is hoped that this research might help to give a voice to religious minorities that are often the victim of stereotyping misunderstanding and punitive treatment The book is suitable for post graduate students and social researchers who are interested in religious revival religious diversification State religion relationships and State s regulation of new religions

The Perception of Christianity as a Rational Religion in Singapore Clive S. Chin, 2017-03-23 This book evaluates the common criticism that Christianity in Asia is westernized Since the 1980s Asian evangelical theologians and missiologists argue that the intrusion of Western theology is responsible for the Western and hence alien expressions of Christianity in Asia Yet in Singapore the number of Christians has increased over the last few decades Empirical evidence demonstrates that younger Chinese Singaporeans convert from Buddhism or Taoism to Christianity partly because they perceive it as a rational religion over Buddhism or Taoism which are viewed as irrational or superstitious Not only do many converts favor Christianity as a rational religion but they do not regard Christianity as a Western religion at the point of their conversion. What accounts for those recent developments? This study explores the processes of modernization and globalization as important factors impacting religious change in Singapore. Personal contextual and structural elements actually influence one's religion of choice. In facilitating effective mission, one must qualify the use of the categories Asian and Western because religious and cultural boundaries overlap. What matters most in missiology is discerning how the gospel of Jesus Christ engages the self-understanding and lived realities of ethnic and religious others in diverse cultural settings.

Religion and Regulation in Indonesia Ismatu Ropi, 2017-01-05. This book analyses the relation between state and religion in Indonesia, considering both the philosophical underpinning of government intervention on religious life but also cases and regulations related to religious affairs in Indonesia. Examining state regulation of religious affairs, it focuses on understanding its origin, history and consequences on citizens' religious life in modern Indonesia, arguing that while Indonesian constitutions have preserved religious freedom, they have also tended to construct wide-ranging discretionary powers in the government to control religious life and oversee religious freedom. Over more than four decades, Indonesian governments have constructed a variety of policies on religion based on constitutional legacies interpreted in the light of the norms and values of the existing religious majority group. A cutting-edge examination of the tension between religious order and harmony on one hand and protecting religious freedom for all on the other, this book offers a cutting-edge study of how the history of regulating religion has been about the constant negotiation for the boundaries of authority between the state and the religious majority group.

The Politics of Nation Building and Citizenship in Singapore Michael Hill, Kwen Fee Lian, 2013-06-17. Since independence in 1965, Singapore has strengthened its own national identity through a conscious process of nation building and promoting the active role of the citizen within society. Singapore is a state that has firmly rejected welfarism but whose political leaders have maintained that collective values instead of those of autonomous individuals are essential to its very survival. The book begins by examining basic concepts of citizenship, nationality and the state in the context of Singapore's arrival at independence. The theme of nation building is explored and how the creation of a national identity through building new institutions has been a central feature of political and social life in Singapore Of great importance has been education and a system of multilingual education that is part of a broader government strategy of multiculturalism and multiracialism both have served the purpose of building a new national identity Other areas covered by the authors include family planning housing policy the creation of parapolitical structures and the importance of shared Asian values amongst Singapore's citizens
