The Second Long March Peter Kien-Hong YU,2011-11-03 This work written by an expert in the politics of Mainland China and Taiwan looks at the role the Constitution of the Republic of China has played in the development of Taiwan since 1949 and its potential influence on the People's Republic of China The Chinese Communists conducted the first long march for the sake of the majority of Chinese people with the victory of MAO Zedong In the second long march CHIANG Kai shek and his successors tried to convert the Chinese mainland from a Communist totalitarian system into a democratic prosperous one by relying on the spirit of the Republic of China ROC constitution and by setting itself as a good example in gradually guaranteeing freedom and democracy Needless to say this march is long and difficult The Second Long March challenges other models and theories on the study of the relationship between the ROC Taiwan area and mainland China or the People's Republic of China PRC since China became politically as opposed to legally divided in December 1949 Arguably it is the ROC Constitution that has helped ROC citizens to live in a non Communist or anti Communist political system Actively promoting democracy and freedom on the Chinese mainland neidi can further guarantee the Taiwan area's survival The book will provide valuable scholarship of interest to anyone researching the political history of China and its prospects for democratization

Words and Their Stories Ban

Wang,2010-10-05 As China joins the capitalist world economy the problems of social disintegration that gave rise to the earlier revolutionary social movements are becoming pressing Instead of viewing the Chinese Revolution as an academic study these essays suggest that the motifs of the Revolution are still alive and relevant The slogan Farewell to Revolution that obscures the revolutionary language is premature In spite of dislocations and ruptures in the revolutionary language to rethink this discourse is to revisit a history in terms of sedimented layers of linguistic meanings and political aspirations Earlier meanings of revolutionary words may persist or coexist with non revolutionary rivals Recovery of the vital uses of key revolutionary words proffers critical alternatives in which contemporary capitalist myths can be contested Modern

Taylor,2011-11-17 Since World War II development projects have invested more than two trillion dollars towards health services poverty alleviation education food security and environmental initiatives around the world Despite these efforts 20% of the world still lives on less than 1 50 a day and the environment within which all live declines dramatically There are clear limits to what further investments at this rate can achieve This book advances the thesis that a more effective and universal foundation for social change and environmental restoration is not money but human energy Using this approach Tibet recovered from being nearly deforested to having over 40% of its land area protected under conservation management Using principles outlined in this book mothers in northeast India implemented a package of life changing actions that halved child mortality They parallel the way New York City has created a citywide conservation program over three and a half centuries Each of these examples is particular to its time and place yet a shared set of principles is at work in all of them Improving the quality of life for a community starts by strengthening successes already operating It involves local knowledge and a relatively simple set of principles tasks and criteria designed to empower communities This highly readable account demonstrates how a comprehensive process for social change harnesses the energy of a community and scales it up with a rising number of participants becoming invested in increasingly high quality work Richly illustrated with photographs and stories of innovative people and programs in communities ranging from Nepal to Afghanistan to the South Bronx it provides practical proven guidelines for creating profound and sustained social change that begins in individual communities and grows to scale

Edgar Snow John Maxwell Hamilton,2003-09-25 Edgar Snow 1905 1972 was one of the most notable

Western journalists to report on China in both the revolutionary and postrevolutionary periods He first became famous in the mid 1930s when he broke through a Nationalist blockade and reached the Communists in northwest China For nearly a decade no foreign reporter had seen the Communists who were widely regarded as a ragtag bandit army Snow took them seriously as a national movement His reporting in the now famous book Red Star over China was major news even to the Chinese thousands of whom joined the Communists after reading it It has remained a seminal reference on the early Chinese Communist movement In this award winning biography journalist John Maxwell Hamilton follows Snow from his birth in Kansas City to his rise as a celebrated foreign correspondent for the Saturday Evening Post his ostracism during the cold war and his role as a singular journalistic bridge between Communist China and the United States With a new preface by the author this revealing portrait of the widely misunderstood Snow firmly establishes him as a model for the kind of committed reporting that is crucial to understanding our interdependent world

Societal Dynamics Frederick Betz, 2011-11-25 At both a micro information level and a macro societal level the concepts of knowledge and wisdom are complementary in both decisions and in social structures and institutions At the decision level knowledge is concerned with how to make a proper choice of means where best is measured as the efficiency toward achieving an end Wisdom is concerned with how to make a proper choice of ends that attain best values At a societal level knowledge is managed through science technology and innovation And while science technology is society's way to create new means with high efficiencies they reveal nothing about values Technology can be used for good or for evil to make the world into a garden or to destroy all life It is societal wisdom which should influence the choice of proper ends ends to make the world a garden How can society make progress in wisdom as well as knowledge Historically the disciplines of the physical sciences and biology have provided scientific foundations for societal knowledge But the social science disciplines of sociology economics political science have not provided a similar scientific foundation for societal wisdom To redress this gap Frederick Betz examines several cases in recent history that display a fundamental paradox between scientific technological achievement with devastating social effects i.e. historical events of ideological dictatorships in Russia Germany China and Yugoslavia He builds a new framework for applying social science perspectives to explain societal histories and social theory Emerging from this methodological and empirical investigation is a general topological theory of societal dynamics This theory and methodology can be used to integrate history and social science toward establishing grounded principles of societal wisdom
