This is the first volume of a unique collection that brings together the best English language problems created for students competing in the Computational Linguistics Olympiad These problems are representative of the diverse areas presented in the competition and designed with three principles in mind To challenge the student analytically without requiring any explicit knowledge or experience in linguistics or computer science To expose the student to the different kinds of reasoning required when encountering a new phenomenon in a language both as a theoretical topic and as an applied problem To foster the natural curiosity students have about the workings of their own language as well as to introduce them to the beauty and structure of other languages To learn about the models and techniques used by computers to understand human language Aside from being a fun intellectual challenge the Olympiad mimics the skills used by researchers and scholars in the field of computational linguistics In an increasingly global economy where businesses operate across borders and languages having a strong pool of computational linguists is a competitive advantage and an important component to both security and growth in the 21st century This collection of problems is a wonderful general introduction to the field of linguistics through the analytic problem solving technique A fantastic collection of problems for anyone who is curious about how human language works These books take serious scientific questions and present them in a fun accessible way Readers exercise their logical thinking capabilities while learning about a wide range of human languages linguistic phenomena and computational models Kevin Knight USC Information Sciences Institute Somebody Else Charles Nicholl, 1999-05-15 In this compelling biography Charles Nicholl pieces together the shadowy story of Rimbaud's life as a trader explorer and gunrunner in Africa
