Smit, 2024-08-15

The spirit of the Reformation is often expressed in the well known slogan that Reformed churches are always being reformed according to God s Word ecclesia reformata semper reformanda secundum verbum Dei Over the last century the spirit of this slogan motivated someone like Dietrich Bonhoeffer to argue that the visible form and life of the church should reflect the truth and message of the church Already in his doctoral dissertation called Sanctorum Communio the communion of the saints the young Bonhoeffer combined theological claims and traditions with social theory and analysis in this spirit in an innovative way to study the nature and integrity and witness of the church At the time this was a radical claim with major consequences and challenges for Protestant churches Their life which meant their order structure actions statements convictions public presence and role was to be measured by their gospel which meant their message proclamation convictions claims They could no longer proclaim one truth yet live a different life It was this spirit which led to the well known Theological Declaration of Barmen in 1934 and to the formation of the Confessing Church in Nazi Germany Many called this a moment of truth a status confessionis It was this same spirit which later inspired the struggle in South Africa for the integrity and faithfulness of the church and for the credibility of its message proclamation and witness The contributions in this volume 52 papers essays sermons studies were all produced in this spirit Most of them have not been published before They were all occasional pieces written over several decades in different contexts and for different purposes and audiences yet they all breathe this self critical spirit of the Reformation considering whether the real church the concrete every day actual living church that people know and experience and perhaps belong to truly strives to embody the gospel itself the message which it claims and proclaims They all inquire under different circumstances and in diverse ways about different social forms of the real church from worship to congregation from denomination to ecumenical church from individual believers to movements and organisations whether and how they embody the truth of the church or not Together these contributions tell a story the story of this spirit in South African circles over several decades but also in the ecumenical church in our globalizing world They offer one small glimpse into different concrete moments in the story of this spirit in the life of this tradition and community of faith Hopefully some of these accounts may resonate with others who also shared the same spirit and still share it today in new and ongoing ways      Religion and Public Life in the Southern

Varieties of Southern Religious Experiences Samuel S. Hill, 1988-01-01 Over the past twenty years there has been a dramatic increase in the number scope and quality of studies of religion in the American South This new work has been inspired and furthered by a growing acknowledgment of the importance of religious studies in general by the conviction that religion has always been basic to popular discourse in the South and by an awareness of the bearing of religion on the political economic and social spheres of life The authors represented in this collection are professors of religion sociology and history and are all part of a new wave of scholars with fresh orientations toward the study of southern religion The essays cover a wide variety of subjects ranging chronologically from John Boles's work on white black relations in antebellum biracial churches to William Martin's treatment of what he calls the electronic church of the 1980s the television audience congregations who follow evangelists such as Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson The book encompasses a wide range of points of view socioeconomic classes and denominations In addition to C Eric Lincoln's essay on the history of the black church in America there are J Wayne Flynt's on the social gospel among southern Protestants from 1890 to 1920 David Edwin Harrell's on plain folk religion in the South from 1835 to 1920 Randall M Miller's on southern Catholicism and Ralph E Luker's on the ideas of the Episcopal theologian William Porcher DuBose Wade Clark Roof shows how the unchurched in both the South and the rest of the nation reflect the general modernizing process and Richard L Rubenstein treats the relationship between slavery and the Holocaust in William Styron's Sophie's Choice Clarence C Gen writes on the sectional splits in the major denominations prior to the Civil War and in his introduction and conclusion to the collection Samuel S Hill places these ten essays clearly in the context of our current understanding of southern religion and suggests the ways in which this work breaks new ground and points to important new interpretations These essays reflect the central assumption that there has been a distinct South for a long time and they also reveal and examine the genuine diversity of that region's religious history The book is effective and engaging in its treatment of southern religion as an identifiable cultural entity as well as in its evocation of the rich diversity of the parts of that entity
