Religion and Jewish Identity in the Soviet Union, 1941-1964 Mordechai Altshuler,2012 Unearths the roots of a national awakening among Soviet Jews during World War II and its aftermath Religious Life in the Late Soviet Union Barbara Martin,Nadezhda Beliakova,2023-08-18 This book presents the first large overview of late Soviet religiosity across several confessions and Soviet republics from the 1960s to the 1980s Based on a broad range of new sources on the daily life of religious communities including material from regional archives and oral history it shows that religion not only survived Soviet anti religious repression but also adapted to new conditions Going beyond traditional views about a mere returned of the repressed the book shows how new forms of religiosity and religious socialisation emerged as new generations born into atheist families turned to religion in search of new meaning long before perestroika facilitated this process In addition the book examines anew religious activism and transnational networks between Soviet believers and Western organisations during the Cold War explores the religious dimension of Soviet female activism and shifts the focus away from the non religious human rights movement and from religious institutions to ordinary believers

To Make a Village Soviet Emily B. Baran, 2022-08-15 In June 1949 the Soviet state arrested seven farmers from the village of Bila Tserkva. Not wealthy or powerful the men were unknown outside their community and few had ever heard of their small isolated village on the southwestern border of Soviet Ukraine. Nevertheless the state decided they were dangerous traitors who threatened to undermine public order and a regional court sentenced them to twenty five years of imprisonment for treason. In To Make a Village Soviet Emily Baran explores why a powerful state singled out these individuals for removal from society. Bila Tserkva had to become a space in which Soviet laws and institutions reigned supreme yet Sovietization was an aspiration as much it was a reality. The arrested men belonged to a small and misunderstood religious minority the Jehovah's Witnesses and both Witnesses and their neighbours challenged the government's attempts to fully integrate the village into socialist society. Drawing from the case file and interviews with the families of survivors Baran argues that what happened in Bila Tserkva demonstrates the sheer ambition of the state's plans for the Sovietization of borderland communities. A compelling history To Make a Village Soviet looks to Bila Tserkva to explore the power and the limits of state control and the possibilities created by communities that resist assimilation

Proselytism and Orthodoxy in Russia John Witte, Michael Bourdeaux, 2009-05-01 Few of the struggles Russia has undergone since the fall of Communism have been fiercer than that being fought between the long repressed Russian Orthodox Church and a host of groups seeking to evangelize the Russian people. This volume assesses the legitimacy of the Orthodox attempt to reclaim the spiritual and moral heart of the Russian people and to retain their adherence in a new pluralistic world where many Christians and followers of other traditions seek the right to establish themselves. Proselytism and Orthodoxy in Russia also brings together the latest scholarship on the new Russian laws regarding religion as well as suggesting guidelines for foreign missionaries in Russia

To Bring the Good News to All Nations Lauren Frances Turek, 2020-05-15 When American evangelicals flocked to Latin America Africa Asia and Eastern Europe in the late twentieth century to fulfill their Biblical mandate for global evangelism their experiences abroad led them to engage more deeply in foreign policy activism at home. Lauren Frances Turek tracks these trends and illuminates the complex and significant ways in which religion shaped America's role in the late Cold War world. In To Bring the Good News to All Nations she examines the growth and influence of Christian foreign policy lobbying groups in the United States.

beginning in the 1970s assesses the effectiveness of Christian efforts to attain foreign aid for favored regimes and considers how those same groups promoted the imposition of economic and diplomatic sanctions on those nations that stifled evangelism Using archival materials from both religious and government sources To Bring the Good News to All Nations links the development of evangelical foreign policy lobbying to the overseas missionary agenda Turek s case studies Guatemala South Africa and the Soviet Union reveal the extent of Christian influence on American foreign policy from the late 1970s through the 1990s Evangelical policy work also reshaped the lives of Christians overseas and contributed to a reorientation of U S human rights policy Efforts to promote global evangelism and support foreign brethren led activists to push Congress to grant aid to favored yet repressive regimes in countries such as Guatemala while imposing economic and diplomatic sanctions on nations that persecuted Christians such as the Soviet Union This advocacy shifted the definitions and priorities of U S human rights policies with lasting repercussions that can be traced into the twenty first century
