Somjee,1995-08-07 Many new social and economic organizations are emerging in different parts of Asia Pacific which have skillfully adapted western capitalism to suit their own specific requirements They have also put to effective use their own social and cultural values to get the best economic results Japan used its heritage of associated living to overcome adversarial labour and management relations Singapore made use of Confucial emphasis on social discipline and respect for merit to build a meritocratic society Indonesia used its genius for eclecticism to build its own brand of social pragmatism and then used it for economic growth Thailand used the concept of merit in Theravada Buddhism to accelerate economic growth and Malaysia used its own growing pragmatism to balance conflicting ethnic demands The book examines the variety of address their respective core development issues and simultaneously register an explosive economic growth Living the Information Society in Asia Erwin Alampay,2009-04-14 Undeniably Asian societies are in a period of transition when people are learning to live with new information and communication technologies ICTs whether in commerce government or development work Living the Information Society in Asia describes the interaction of people and new ICTs as the technologies seep into everyday life such as how mobile phones forge relationships among families separated by migration how camera phones threaten personal space how cultural identities are strengthened in call centres and how religion is incorporated into the new communication technologies people use Living the Information society in Asia looks at the phenomenon as it unfolds and raises the implications for policy and future research Urban Ecclesiology Pascal D. Bazzell,2015-05-21 Pascal D Bazzell brings the marginal ecclesiology of a Filipino ecclesial community facing homelessness FECH into contemporary ecclesiological conversation in order to deepen the ecumenical understanding of today s ecclesial reality He contributes relevant data to support a theory of an ecclesial oriented paradigm that fosters ecclesial communities within homeless populations There is an extensive dialogue occurring between ecclesiologies church planting theories or urban missions and the urban poor Yet the situation with the homeless population is almost entirely overlooked The majority of urban mission textbooks do not acknowledge an ecclesial oriented state of being and suggest that the street level environment is a place where no discipleship can occur and no church should exist By presenting the FECH s case study Bazzell emphasizes that it is possible to live on the streets and to grow in the faith of God as an ecclesial community To be able to describe the FECH s ecclesial narrative Bazzell develops a local ecclesiological methodology that aims to bridge the gap between more traditional systematic and theoretical ideal ecclesiology and practical oriented ecclesiology e g congregational studies in order to hold together theological and social understandings of the church in its local reality He articulates a theological framework for the FECH to reflect on who they are the essence of identity studies who they are in relationship to God the essence of theological studies and what that means for believers in that community as they relate to God and to each other in ways that are true to who they are and to who God intends them to be the essence of ecclesial studies The research provides a seldom heard empirical tour into the FECH s social world and communal identity The theological findings from the FECH's hermeneutical work on the Gospel of Mark reveal an understanding of church being developed as gathering around Jesus that creates a space for God's presence to be embodied in their ordinary relationships and activities and to invite others to participate in that gathering. Moreover, it addresses ecclesial issues of the supernatural world, honor/shame values, and further develops the neglected image of the familia Dei in classical ecclesiology that encapsulates well the FECH's nature, mission, and place.

Historical Dictionary of the Philippines Artemio R. Guillermo, 2012. The Historical Dictionary of the Philippines Third Edition contains a chronology, an introductory essay, an extensive bibliography, and several hundred cross-referenced dictionary entries. Philippine Quarterly of Culture and Society, 1991. Parliaments and Political Change in Asia Clemens Jürgenmeyer, Michael H. Nelson, Patrick Ziegenhain, 2005. This study of the national parliaments of India, Indonesia, the Philippines, South Korea, and Thailand is inspired by four major theoretical discourses: neo-institutionalism, parliamentarianism versus presidentialism, majoritarianism versus consensus democracy, and transition theory. The book examines the specific role of parliaments in political decision-making, regime change, democratization, and consolidation of democracy in a comparative perspective. It argues that parliaments play a greater part in the political decision-making than is often asserted and that there is no cogent causal relationship between parliamentary performance and system of government.

The Way of the Cross Julius Bautista, 2019-09-30. Every year during Holy Week in the Philippine province of Pampanga, hundreds of men and women undergo acts of excruciating self-inflicted pain in ways that evoke the Way of the Cross, the torment and crucifixion that Christ endured in the last days of his earthly existence. Because these Passion rituals are officially disavowed by the Filipino Roman Catholic Church, most observers view them as irrational and extremist mimicry of Christ's painful ordeal. Even scholars conventionally depict them as theatrical spectacle or macabre examples of Filipino folk religion. But what conditions enable ritual actors to submit to such extreme pain? What justifications do they give for going against official prohibitions? What outcomes do they seek in channeling Christian piety in this way? This book addresses these questions through its in-depth analyses of three interconnected ritual acts: the pabasa, a days-long communal chanting of Christ's Passion story; the pagdarama, the public self-flagellation of hundreds of devotees; and the pamamaku, in which steel nails are driven through the palms and feet of ritual practitioners as part of a street play performed in front of tens of thousands of spectators. Author Julius Bautista suggests that such ritual acts manifest the embodied physicality of a suffering selfhood that facilitates the expression of heartfelt sentiments of pity, empathy, trust, and bereavement. By emphasizing these outwardly focused human sensibilities as the wellsprings of ritual agency, he demonstrates that Passion rituals are reinterpretations of the very idea and experience of pain, hardship, and suffering, and premised on an appeal for a certain kind of divine intimacy. The author draws on a decade of in-depth and often exclusive interviews with a host of local stakeholders, including ritual practitioners, clerics, scholars, and government officials, and his own participation in a Passion play. Ethnographic insight is considered alongside primary and secondary archival sources including unpublished locally produced oral historical accounts and a survey of relevant media coverage The Way of the Cross makes a welcome contribution to the anthropology of religion by examining the unique ontological contexts in which ritual agents experience God's involvement in their lives
