Remaking Our Schools:

Remaking Our Schools for the Twenty-First Century Robert Arnold, 2013-07-01 If you are a teacher a parent a grandparent or just another taxpayer and you think the future of our country rests in a large part in the hands of our educational systems and you expect the schools to play a key role in raising our youth to become competent responsible citizens then you need to find out why that is not happening Remaking Our Schools for the Twenty First Century written by Robert L Arnold Professor of Education Emeritus provides an in depth analysis of these problems in our public schools Teachers are sick and tired of being forced to adopt and use irrelevant materials and developmentally inappropriate procedures along with a standardized testing program that makes no sense They want our youth to be excited about learning and ideas They need to know how drug abuse bullying and other serious problems are related to the disconnected and irrelevant school experiences being imposed on their students in the name of raising standards Our public schools need to develop far greater competency in general education and problem solving skills in all students Our democracy cannot be sustained much longer if upcoming generations continue to exhibit deficiencies in these areas Standardization is not the answer to problems The mass production and sale of a common core set of educational books tests and worksheets is required for corporate conglomerates to make huge profits on the backs of our students Standardization is part of the problem not part of the solution

Transforming Schools Miranda Jefferson, Michael Anderson, 2017-02-09 Transforming Schools demonstrates how transformation is no longer an option in teaching and learning it has become a necessity Changes in the way we work and the challenges of issues such as climate change poverty and migration mean that teaching and learning need to alter to incorporate capacities that will help us meet those challenges The 4Cs Creativity Critical Reflection Communication and Collaboration have long been present in education but Transforming Schools demonstrates how schools can change teaching and leadership to embed and enact the 4Cs to make them central to dynamic and exciting learning Miranda Jefferson and Michael Anderson demonstrate how a renewed approach to teaching that integrates the 4Cs can better equip today's learners They draw on their own international research and experiences in school transformation in a variety of school settings working in partnership with practitioners researchers students and the community The authors consider how schools might reorganise themselves to become more relevant to their students and to the community Practical strategies for transformation are included throughout the chapters to demonstrate how learning can be supported and how the 4Cs can be made explicit in schools These examples will support school leadership teams and teachers to explicitly teach the 4Cs in relevant and challenging ways This book is essential reading for those looking to transform schools and more effectively meet the needs of today's learners

Kenneth J. Saltman,2005-03-02 The story of the Edison Schools is a gripping tale of money kids and greed What began in the 1980s as an enterprise to transform public schools quickly became a troubled business battling falling test scores and dismal stock prices How did the most ambitious for profit education company in U S history lose respect money and credibility in such a short time Revealing how American McEducation went from glory to crisis The Edison Schools tracks entrepreneur Christopher Whittle s plan to introduce a standardized nationwide curriculum and cut administrative waste Education specialist Kenneth J Saltman finds that the critics predictions came true in Edison schools across the country Experienced teachers left in droves students were virtually given answers to standardized tests to drive up scores and difficult students were counseled out Inspiring School Change Christine Hall,Pat Thomson,2017-04-28 Recognising performance and accountability pressures on schools Inspiring School Change shows how a commitment to the arts in education can meet core school agendas of pupil and parent engagement attainment improved teaching and inclusion Schools are under pressure to develop their students creativity and to improve their cultural education This book fills a gap by marshalling the arguments and evidence for a form of education in through and with the arts that moves beyond individual projects to become central to teaching learning and school reform When the arts are taken seriously schools become different and better places Using research evidence to promote greater awareness of the capacity of the arts to promote educational change this text captures four key themes that run through all of the chapters Inspiration sharing experiences and the way they happened documenting inspiring pedagogy by understanding the reason it was done the factors and the people involved in making it work School change the need for schools to better prepare young people for the lives they will live in the twenty first century to engage young people more effectively and so educate them better and the recognition that in an unequal society schools can contribute to making things fairer Creative arts demonstrates through international research how the arts can facilitate whole school learning meet core agendas such as attainment inclusion and promote lifelong learning Transforming education marshals the arguments and evidence for a form of education in through and with the arts that moves beyond individual projects to become central to teaching learning and school reform Tackling the hot topics of parent and pupil engagement standards and accountability in a fresh way Inspiring School Change offers those engaged in the research and practice of improving teaching and learning with insight into the educational value and possibilities of arts based teaching and an arts rich curriculum Annual Report of the General Superintendent of Common Schools of the State of North Carolina ,1919 Journal of Proceeding and Addresses National Education Association of the United States,1918 Vols for 1866 70 include Proceedings of the American Normal School Association 1866 69 include Proceedings of the National

School Leadership Stuart Carl Smith, Philip K. Piele, 1989 Recognizing the importance of good leadership to the achievement of educational excellence the second edition of this handbook synthesizes a large body of school leadership literature and explores the subject from three perspectives the person the structure and the skills Part I examines characteristics of today's educational leaders effective leadership styles and qualities administrator training hiring and induction methods and the scarcity of female and black school leaders Part II looks at the organizational supports underlying school leadership This section examines the balance of authority between the central office and the school site the team approach to management the decision making context and the components of school climate Part III highlights leadership abilities needed by today's school administrators Besides knowing how to manage the school's instructional program and staff administrators must be able to communicate in today's more open sharing organization build coalitions of community groups make meetings more productive and manage time stress and conflict more effectively Concerned about integrating theory with practice the book offers many practical suggestions for using the information presented Accompanying each chapter are extensive bibliographical references that appear at the end of the volume MLH Where Charter School Policy Fails Amy Stuart Wells, 2002 In this provocative volume Amy Stuart Wells and her co authors provide evidence that the laissez faire policies of charter school reform often exacerbate existing inequalities in our schools Providing the most comprehensive critical review of charter schools to date this timely volume is based on the authors in depth study of 10 urban suburban and rural school districts and 17 diverse charter schools in California plus their analysis of other charter school studies from around the country Focusing on two central issues accountability and equity they explore how charter school policies affect the lives of children educators and parents in diverse social economic and political contexts The authors conclude that although the quality and experiences of charter schools is highly varied across different contexts the laws that allow these schools to exist fail to assure meaningful accountability Meanwhile these policies increase inequality and stratification by pushing the educational system toward privatization in terms of finance and admissions while failing to target much needed resources toward low income communities This dynamic book will help educators and policymakers develop a future policy agenda for charter school reform that will be more responsive to the needs of all children The authors for the first time make sense of the diverse and diffuse charter school movement They argue that the lack of support the absence of equity provisions in state laws and the burnout of many charter school personnel have led to the beginning of the end of this yet another school reform This book provides important lessons for all who care about public education Jean Anyon Graduate Center City University of New York School Life, 1940 Remaking Home Economics Sharon Y. Nickols, Gwen Kay, 2015-06-15 An interdisciplinary effort of scholars from history women's studies and family and consumer sciences Remaking Home Economics covers the field's history of opening career opportunities for women and responding to domestic and social issues Calls to bring back home economics miss the point that it never went away say Sharon Y Nickols and Gwen Kay home economics has been remaking itself in study and practice for more than a century These new essays relevant for a variety of fields history women s studies STEM and family and consumer sciences itself take both current and historical perspectives on defining issues including home economics philosophy social responsibility and public outreach food and clothing gender and race in career settings and challenges to the field s identity and continuity Home economics history offers a rich case study for exploring common ground between the broader culture and this highly gendered profession This volume describes the resourcefulness of past scholars and professionals who negotiated with cultural and institutional constraints to produce their work as well as the innovations of contemporary practitioners who continue to change the profession including its name and identity The widespread urge to reclaim domestic skills along with a continual need for fresh ways to address obesity elder abuse household debt and other national problems affirms the field s vitality and relevance This volume will foster dialogue both inside and outside the academy about the changes that have remade and are remaking family and consumer sciences
