D, 2018-04-01 The book charts out the history of Geographical Thought from early times to the present day in a single compact volume Its main focus is on the modern period beginning with Humboldt and Ritter more specifically on conceptual developments since the Second World War NEW TO THE SECOND EDITION The second edition is thoroughly revised and incorporates five new chapters dealing with Nature Method Basic Ideas and Conceptual Structure of Geography The Problem of Dualities and How it was Resolved Nature and Role of Geography as a Social Science Geographical vs Sociological Imagination Time vis vis Space The Pattern Process Perspective in Geographic Research New Directions in the Twenty First Century Human Geography TARGET AUDIENCE BA B Sc Hons Geography BA B Sc General Geography MA M Sc Geography Aspirants of Civil Services Emergent Methods in Social Research Sharlene Nagy Hesse-Biber, Patricia Leavy, 2006-02 Introducing state of the art social research methods that address the growing methods theory gap within and across the disciplines this text provides readers with a comprehensive view of new and cutting edge research methods and methodologies People and Place Lewis Holloway, Phil Hubbard, 2014-01-14 An innovative introduction to Human Geography exploring different ways of studying the relationships between people and place and putting people at the centre of human geography The book covers behavioural humanistic and cultural traditions showing how these can lead to a nuanced understanding of how we relate to our surroundings on a day to day basis The authors also explore how human geography is currently influenced by postmodern ideas stressing difference and diversity While taking the importance of these different approaches seriously as ways of thinking about the role of place in peoples everyday lives the book also tries to encapsulate what has been so vibrant and exciting about human geography over the last couple of decades By using examples to which students can relate such as how they imagine and represent their home the way they avoid certain spaces how they move through retail spaces where they choose to go to university how they use the Internet how they represent other nations and so on the authors show how geography shapes everyday life in a manner that is seemingly mundane yet profoundly important Handbook of the Geographies of Religion Lily Kong, Orlando Woods, Justin K.H. Tse, 2024-12-02 This international and interdisciplinary handbook offers a comprehensive and an in depth overview of contemporary research theory and practice in the geographies of religion in various parts of the world and with different populations The book showcases the major theoretical interventions in the field and the debates about the existential constitution of sacred space and what this means for secularization It outlines the most significant geographical themes related to these new developments with their implications for how to think about landscapes space bodies and worlds The book also discusses the future of the field especially in the realms of encounters and ethics economies and markets institutions and organisations movements and migrations and media and mediums It also offers views from disciplines outside of geography including from sociology anthropology religious studies and media and communications which demonstrates the contributions of geographers of religion to wider intellectual conversations and debates Power and Space John Allen, 2024-08-05 Power and Space sets out the inherently spatial nature of power today and seeks to change the conversation around how power exercises us in the contemporary moment The essays brought together in this book are a response to the fact that conventional descriptions of power and its ordered geographies no longer chime with our lived experience Spatiality matters to the workings of power nowadays and this book sheds light on what it is that we face when power is exercised through more subtle spatially nuanced arrangements It is divided into three parts each representing a different kind of engagement with power's relationship to space from the spatial shifts in the way power is exercised through to its assemblage like entanglements and in turn its progressive topological character Throughout the book a wide range of social political and economic examples are drawn upon to illustrate a more provisional sense of power ranging for instance from the seductive logic of privatized public spaces to the attempt by a data analytics company to manipulate political behaviour through to the offshore spaces invented by rising financial elites to challenge the established banking order Illustrating the new found abilities of the powerful to make their presence felt this book provides an accessible account of the practical workings of power in the present day It will be invaluable to students and academics in human geography and urban studies as well as politics sociology and cultural studies

Social Science Perspectives on Climate Change David Canter, 2017-10-02 Although it is generally accepted that the climate is changing for the worse and that human activities are a major contributing factor in that change there is still only marginal response to the challenge posed by climate change The reasons behind this limited response are becoming clearer through the recognition that climate change is not just a set of physical science facts but it is also part of a series of complex social processes Consequently this book is important in providing social science perspectives on a range of attempts to adjust human activity to reduce its environmental impact These attempts vary from the changing of the dress code in Japanese offices to the creation of zero carbon gated communities in Bangalore India Taken together the contributions to this book provide timely insights into the complexities of saving the planet through human endeavour This book was originally published as a special issue of Contemporary Social Science

Poststructuralist Geographies Marcus Doel, 1999-08-30 This work is the first attempt to integrate poststructuralist thought with the insights of critical human geography Doel does not seek to make conventional approximations of poststructuralist concepts but to rethink and rewrite the world through them

Rethinking Resource Management Richard Howitt, 2002-01-31 This book offers students and practitioners a sophisticated and convincing framework for rethinking the usual approaches to resource management It uses case studies to argue that professional resource managers do not take responsibility for the social and environmental consequences of their decisions on the often vulnerable indigenous communities they affect It also discusses the invisibility of indigenous people values and knowledge within traditional resource management It offers a new approach to social impact assessment methods which are more participatory and empowering The book employs a range of case studies from Australia North America and Norway

Military Workfare Deborah Cowen,2008-04-19 Despite the centrality of war in social and political thought the military remains marginal in academic and public conceptions of citizenship and the soldier seems to be thought of as a peripheral or even exceptional player Military Workfare draws on five decades of restricted archival material and critical theories on war and politics to examine how a military model of work discipline domestic space and the social self has redefined citizenship in the wake of the Second World War It is also a study of the complex often concealed ways in which organized violence continues to shape national belonging What does the military have to do with welfare Could war work be at the centre of social rights in both historic and contemporary contexts Deborah Cowen undertakes such important questions with the citizenship of the soldier front and centre in the debate Connecting global geopolitics to intimate struggles over entitlement and identity at home she challenges our assumptions about the national geographies of citizenship proposing that the soldier has in fact long been the model citizen of the social state Paying particular attention to the rise of neoliberalism and the emergence of civilian workfare Military Workfare looks to the institution of the military to unsettle established ideas about the past and raise new questions about our collective future Representing the City Anthony D. King,1996-02 Classic representations of the city have focused on simplistic urban dichotomies such as renewal or decline poverty or prosperity and vice or vigor We are left with the question of what actually constitutes a city and what makes it and its people succeed or fail Recent writing on the city however has begun to question the images metaphors and discourses through which the contemporary city is represented Discussing recent visual architectural and spatial transformations in New York and other major world cities in relation to the themes of ethnicity capital and culture Re Presenting the City moves between interpretive representations of the newly emerging metropolis and the theoretical and methodological questions raised by the task of such representations Contributors with backgrounds in urban planning sociology cultural studies architecture art history geography and philosophy reflect on the construction of both the real and the unreal city the images metaphors and discourses through which the contemporary city is represented and the texts which both mediate our experience of as well as contribute to producing the city of the future Tree Cultures Paul Cloke,Owain Jones,2020-07-12 The relationship between nature and culture has become a popular focus in social science but there have been few grounded accounts of trees
