Conjuring the Haint drea brown,2025-05-19 What does it mean to live as a ghost, to live with ghosts, and how might ghosts lead to a path of healing and reimagining? Through an investigation of the intimate relationship between haunting and grief, Conjuring the Haint: The Haunting Poetics of Black Women posits that for Black women, haunting is both a condition and a strategy in lived experiences and literary productions. Looking at the poetry of Phillis Wheatley, Lucille Clifton, Ntozake Shange, Lyrae Van Clief Stefanon, and Claudia Rankine, Conjuring the Haint explores primary stereotypes of Black women. They are aligned with unruly incarnations of the haint, probing the eerie similarities between this specter and one-dimensional imaginings of Black womanhood, examining how this haintliness manifests in Black women's elegies, the poetry of grief. Disrupting a tradition of consolation and poetic succession, Black women's elegies rework the genre by wrestling with multiple forms of death: physical, social, and spiritual. These elegies aim both to lay to rest and to resurrect. Black women poets are then repositioned as conjurers who, through the spirit work of poetry, reckon with haints as complex figures of despair and repair. Each chapter explores the paradox of haints as evidence of injury and loss and as a pathway to knowledge articulated by various incarnations: the hag, the banshee, and the vengeful revenant. Chapters place these against pervasive images of Mammy, Jezebel, and Sapphire. Through a pairing and dismantling of these ill-fitting myths, Conjuring the Haint refigures haints as a means of recognition and self-possession, a manifestation of the ancestral and the divine.

Growing Remembrance David Childs,2008-09-22 The story of the inspiration for establishment and evolution of the National Memorial Arboretum is a fascinating one. Sited at Alrewas, Staffordshire, the Arboretum has become the Nation's all-year-round focus for remembering and paying tribute to all who have served their country in both peace and war, not only in the armed forces and merchant navy but in the emergency services as well. Planting began in 1997 and was supported by hundreds of organizations, both serving and retired. Among the early memorials was a life-size wooded polar bear for the 49th Division, a grove of Irish trees for the Royal Irish Regiment, an Avenue of Chestnuts for the Police, and a Chapel of Peace and Forgiveness to mark the coming of the Millennium. Britain's war widows had a rose garden planted for them, while the Far East Prisoners of War managed to fund a small museum to stand alongside a length of railway track brought back from the notorious Burma Railway In October 2007 H M the Queen confirmed the importance of the site when she opened the Armed Forces Memorial to commemorate all service personnel lost on active service since the end of the Second World War this is especially poignant given the ongoing conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan The importance of the National Memorial Arboretum is well demonstrated by the growing number of stands and the steady increase in visitor numbers
