After Representation? R. Clifton Spargo, Robert Ehrenreich, 2009-11-11 After Representation explores one of the major issues in Holocaust studies the intersection of memory and ethics in artistic expression particularly within literature As experts in the study of literature and culture the scholars in this collection examine the shifting cultural contexts for Holocaust representation and reveal how writers whether they write as witnesses to the Holocaust or at an imaginative distance from the Nazi genocide articulate the shadowy borderline between fact and fiction between event and expression and between the condition of life endured in atrocity and the hope of a meaningful existence What imaginative literature brings to the study of the Holocaust is an ability to test the limits of language and its conventions After Representation moves beyond the suspicion of representation and explores the changing meaning of the Holocaust for different generations audiences and contexts

No One's Witness Syd Zolf, 2021-06-28 In No One's Witness Syd Zolf activates the last three lines of a poem by Jewish Nazi Holocaust survivor Paul Celan No one bears witness for the witness to theorize the poetics and impossibility of witnessing Drawing on Black studies continental philosophy queer theory experimental poetics and work by several writers and artists Zolf asks what it means to witness from the excessive incalculable position of No One In a fragmentary and recursive style that enacts the monstrous speech it pursues No One's Witness demonstrates the necessity of confronting the Nazi Holocaust in relation to transatlantic slavery and its afterlives Thinking along with Black feminist theory's notions of entangled swarm field plenum chorus No One's Witness interrogates the limits and thresholds of witnessing its dangerous perhaps No One operates outside the bounds of the sovereign individual hauntologically informed by the fleshly nothingness that has been historically ascribed to Blackness and that Blackness enacts within apposite to and beyond the No One No One bears witness to becomings beyond comprehension making and unmaking monstrous forms of entangled future anterior life

The Post-traumatic Theatre of Grotowski and Kantor Magda Romanska, 2012 Despite its international influence Polish theatre remains a mystery to many Westerners This volume attempts to fill in current gaps in English language scholarship by offering a historical and critical analysis of two of the most influential works of Polish theatre Jerzy Grotowski's Akropolis and Tadeusz Kantor's Dead Class By examining each director's representation of Auschwitz this study provides a new understanding of how translating national trauma through the prism of performance can alter and deflect the meaning and reception of theatrical works both inside and outside of their cultural and historical contexts

Time, Language, and Visuality in Agamben's Philosophy J. Doussan, 2013-05-21 Giorgio Agamben a philosopher both celebrated and reviled is among the prominent voices in contemporary Italian thought today His work which touches upon fields as diverse as aesthetics and biopolitics is often understood within a framework of Aristotelian potentiality With this incisive critique Doussan identifies a different tendency in the philosopher's work an engagement with the problem of time that is inextricably bound up with language and visibility Founded in his early writings on metaphysics and continuing to his present occupation with inoperativity Time Language and Visibility in Agamben's Philosophy forges an original path through Agamben's extensive commentary on the linguistic and the visual to illuminate the recurrent temporal theme of capture and evasion the cat and mouse game that bears the foundational violence of not just representation but concept formation itself In the process Doussan both reveals its limit and establishes a ground for future engagements

After Savagery Hamid Dabashi, 2025-09-30 Written during a genocide After Savagery reveals the ethical bankruptcy of Western philosophy and how it undergirds the erasure of the colonized The death toll in Gaza continues to rise a cold lifeless number representing entire communities crushed under the weight of settler colonialism What remains of the theories we use to understand our world With lyrical and lucid fury Hamid Dabashi exposes the racist roots of Western philosophy demanding that readers overcome its pernicious phantom of relevance Rather than perceiving the West as giving carte blanche to Israel Dabashi insists that Israel must be understood as its quintessence If Israel is the West and the West is Israel then Palestine is the world and the world is Palestine Holding to glimmers from revolutionary works of literature and film Dabashi argues in grief and love that the wretched of the earth need poetry after barbarism and that Palestine is the site of a liberated imagination

State Violence and the Execution of Law Joseph Pugliese, 2013-03-20 State Violence and the Execution of Law stages a provocative analysis of how the biopolitical divide between human and animal has played a fundamental role in enabling state violence including torture secret imprisonment and killing at a distance via drones Analyzing the complex ways in which the United States government deploys law in order to consolidate and further imperial relations of power Pugliese tracks the networks that enable the diffusion and normalization of the state's monopoly of violence both in the US and in an international context He demonstrates how networks of state violence are embedded within key legal institutions military apparatuses civilian sites corporations carceral architectures and advanced technologies The author argues that the exercise of state violence as unleashed by the war on terror has enmeshed the subjects of the Global South within institutional and discursive structures that position them as non human animals that can be tortured killed and disappeared with impunity Drawing on poststructuralist critical race and whiteness and critical legal theories the book is transdisciplinary in its approach and value It will be invaluable to university students and scholars in Critical Legal and Socio Legal Studies Cultural Studies Race and Ethnicity Studies International Politics and Postcolonial Studies

Design and the Question of History Tony Fry, Clive Dilnot, Susan Stewart, 2015-02-26 Design and the Question of History is not a work of Design History Rather it is a mixture of mediation advocacy and polemic that takes seriously the directive force of design as an historical actor in and upon the world Understanding design as a shaper of worlds within which the political ethical and historical character of human being is at stake this text demands radically transformed notions of both design and history Above all the authors posit history as the generational site of the future Blindness to history it is suggested blinds us both to possibility and to the foreclosure of possibilities enacted through our designing The text is not a resolved continuous work presented through one voice Rather the three authors cut across each other presenting readers with the task of disclosing to themselves the commonalities repetitions and differences within the deployed arguments issues approaches and styles from which the text is constituted This is a work of friendship of solidarity in difference an act of cultural politics It invites the reader to take a position it seeks engagement over agreement Crime Scenery in Postwar Film and Photography Henrik Gustafsson, 2019-05-24 This book offers a rare and innovative consideration of an enduring tendency in postwar art to explore places devoid of human agents in the wake of violent encounters To see the scenery together with the crime elicits a double interrogation not merely of a physical site but also of its formation as an aesthetic artefact and ultimately of our own acts of looking and imagining Closely engaging with a vast array of works made by artists filmmakers and photographers each who has forged a distinct vantage point on the aftermath of crime and conflict the study selectively maps the afterlife of landscape in search of the political and ethical agency of the image By way of a thoroughly interdisciplinary approach Crime Scenery in Postwar Film and Photography brings landscape studies into close dialogue with contemporary theory by paying sustained attention to how the gesture of retracing past events facilitates new configurations of the present and future Catastrophe and Redemption Jessica Whyte, 2013-12-01 Offers a striking new reading of

Agamben's political thought and its implications for political action in the present Challenging the prevalent account of Agamben as a pessimistic thinker Catastrophe and Redemption proposes a reading of his political thought in which the redemptive element of his work is not a curious aside but instead is fundamental to his project Jessica Whyte considers his critical account of contemporary politics his argument that Western politics has been biopolitics since its inception his critique of human rights his argument that the state of exception is now the norm and the paradigmatic significance he attributes to the concentration camp and shows that it is in the midst of these catastrophes of the present that Agamben sees the possibility of a form of profane redemption Whyte outlines the importance of potentiality in his attempt to formulate a new politics examines his relation to Jewish and Christian strands of messianism and interrogates the new forms of praxis that he situates within contemporary commodity culture taking Agamben's thought as a call for the creation of new political forms Better Off Dead Deborah Christie, Sarah Juliet Lauro, 2011 What has the zombie metaphor meant in the past Why does it continue to be so prevalent in our culture This collection seeks to provide an archaeology of the zombie tracing its lineage from Haiti mapping its various cultural transformations and suggesting the post humanist direction in which the zombie is ultimately heading Writing-between-Worlds Ottmar Ette, 2016-02-22 This book proposes that there is no better no more complex way to access a community a society an era and its cultures than through literature For millennia literature from a wide variety of geocultural areas has gathered knowledge about life about survival and about living together without either falling into discursive or disciplinary specializations or functioning as a regulatory mechanism for cultural knowledge Literature is able to offer its readers knowledge through direct participation in the form of step by step intellectual and affective experiences Through this ability it can reach and affect audiences across great spatial and temporal distances Literature what different times and cultures have been able to understand as such in a broad sense has always been characterized by its transareal and transcultural origins and effects It is the product of many logics and it teaches us to think polylogically rather than monologically Literature is an experiment in living and living in a state of experimentation About the author Ottmar Ette has been Chair of Romance Literature at the University of Potsdam Germany since 1995 He is Honorary Member of the Modern Language Association of America MLA elected in 2014 member of the Berlin Brandenburg Academy of Sciences and Humanities elected in 2013 and regular member of the Academia Europaea since 2010 What Remains Dora Osborne, 2020 A study of the archival turn in contemporary German memory culture drawing on recent memorials documentaries and prose narratives that engage with the material legacy of National Socialism and the Holocaust

Memory Susannah Radstone, Bill Schwarz, 2010 These essays survey the histories the theories and the fault lines that compose the field of memory research Drawing on the advances in the sciences and in the humanities they address the question of how memory works highlighting transactions between the interiority of subjective memory and the larger fields of public or collective memory
