Remotely Global Charles Piot, 2008-11-26 At first glance the remote villages of the Kabre people of northern Togo appear to have all the trappings of a classic out of the way African culture subsistence farming straw roofed houses and rituals to the spirits and ancestors Arguing that village life is in fact an effect of the modern and the global Charles Piot suggests that Kabre culture is shaped as much by colonial and postcolonial history as by anything indigenous or local Through analyses of everyday and ceremonial social practices Piot illustrates the intertwining of modernity with tradition and of the local with the national and global In a striking example of the appropriation of tradition by the state Togo's Kabre president regularly flies to the region in his helicopter to witness male initiation ceremonies Confounding both anthropological theorizations and the State Department's stereotyped images of African village life Remotely Global aims to rethink Euroamerican theories that fail to come to terms with the fluidity of everyday relations in a society where persons and things are forever in motion extensive fieldwork and archival research Shaw argues that memories of the slave trade have shaped and been reshaped by experiences of colonialism postcolonialism and the country's ten year rebel war Thus money and commodities for instance are often linked to an invisible city of witches whose affluence was built on the theft of human lives These ritual and visionary memories make hitherto invisible realities manifest forming a prism through which past and present mutually configure each other

Enchantments of Modernity Saurabh Dube,2020-08-11 The notion of modernity hinges on a break with the past such as superstitions medieval worlds and hierarchical traditions It follows that modernity suggests the disenchantment of the world yet the processes of modernity also create their own enchantments in the mapping and making of the modern world Straddling a range of disciplines and perspectives the essays in this edited volume eschew programmatic solutions focusing instead in new ways on subjects of slavery and memory global transformations and vernacular and vernacular modernity imperial imperatives and nationalist knowledge cosmopolitan politics and liberal democracy and governmental effects and everyday affects It is in these ways that the volume attempts to unravel the enchantments of modernity in order to approach anew modernity's constitutive terms formative limits and particular possibilities
