The Renaissance Restored Matthew Hayes, 2021-07-27 This handsomely illustrated volume traces the intersections of art history and paintings restoration in nineteenth century Europe Repairing works of art and writing about them the practices that became art conservation and art history share a common ancestry By the nineteenth century the two fields had become inseparably linked While the art historical scholarship of this period has been widely studied its restoration practices have received less scrutiny until now This book charts the intersections between art history and conservation in the treatment of Italian Renaissance paintings in nineteenth century Europe Initial chapters discuss the restoration of works by Giotto and Titian framed by the contemporary scholarship of art historians such as Jacob Burckhardt G B Cavalcaselle and Joseph Crowe that was redefining the earlier age Subsequent chapters recount how paintings conservation was integrated into museum settings The narrative uses period texts unpublished archival materials and historical photographs in probing how paintings looked at a time when scholars were writing the foundational texts of art history and how contemporary restorers were negotiating the appearances of these works The book proposes a model for a new conservation history object focused yet enriched by consideration of a wider cultural horizon

Renaissance and Modern Art William Henry Goodyear, 1908 Painting as a Modern Art in Early Renaissance Italy Robert Brennan, 2019

Painting as a Modern Art in Early Renaissance Italy reconstructs a historical concept of modern art on the basis of sources written between the 1390s and 1440s. The central point of reference in these sources was Giotto the early fourteenth century painter who as one writer put it in 1442 first modernized modernized ancient and mosaic figures. The word modern was used in a wide variety of ways throughout this period some quite polemical others rather prosaic. To call art ars modern however was to invoke a stable well defined concept whose roots ran deep in late medieval intellectual life. According to this concept to make an art modern was to set it on a new foundation in science scientia and rationalize it accordingly. As familiar as this formulation may sound in principle each and every one of its key terms art modernity science rationality meant something strikingly different in this period than it does in our time. The hallmark of modern art was not verisimilitude or expression or virtually any of the achievements that art historians associate with Giotto today but rather the invention of techniques that aimed to imitate nature in its very manner of operation aligning the concrete step by step process of painting with the inner workings of nature itself. By reclaiming this concept and tracking its complex relation to early Renaissance concerns such as linear perspective and the canon of proportion the book not only establishes a novel framework for the visual analysis of fourteenth and fifteenth century Italian painting but also unravels a fundamental master narrative of Western art history from within clearing the way for renewed discussions of alternative modernities including those that precede the story of modernism as we know it. Publisher's website Renaissance and Modern Art William Henry Goodyear, 1906 Mannerism Arnold Hauser, 1986 Douglas MacAgy and the Foundations of Modern Art Curatorship David R. Beasley, 1998. From formative years in Toronto and Philadelphia MacAgy became the catalyst for the advent of American abstraction the spirit behind the modern art movement the introducer and interpreter of European and Russian art to America the head of the National Endowment for the Arts and the installer of the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden. He was on the cutting edge of modern art movements from American abstract expressionism to conceptualism and fought as an independent educator against the forces using art for political ends. MacAgy has a place in history. George Rickey Form and Meaning Robert Klein, 1981 Sense and the Senses in Early Modern Art and Cultural Practice SivToveKulbrandstad Walker, 2017-07-05. Employing a wide range of approaches from various disciplines contributors to this volume explore the diverse ways in which European art and cultural practice from the fourteenth through the seventeenth centuries confronted interpreted represented and evoked the realm of the sensual. Sense and the Senses in Early Modern Art and Cultural Practice investigates how the faculties of sight hearing touch taste and smell were made to perform in a range of guises in early modern cultural practice as agents of indulgence and pleasure as bearers of information on material reality as mediators between the mind and the outer world and even as intercessors between humans and the divine. The volume examines not only aspects of the arts of painting and sculpture but also extends into other spheres philosophy music and poetry gardens food relics and rituals. Collectively the essays gathered here form a survey of key debates and practices.
