Media Revolution In America And In Western Europe:

The Media Revolution in America and in Western Europe Everett M. Rogers, Francis Balle, 1985 This step is a step toward greater internationalization of mass communication research Existing differences between the mass media of North American and Western European countries provide a basis for comparative analyses that illustrate how differences in national mass media systems can contribute towards intellectual understanding of communication behavior The world of communication scholarship can be divided into two main schools the empirical school and the critical school This volume represents some of the leading scholars of each school and is dedicated to the intellectual merging of the schools by means of fostering an improved understanding of each other The Media Revolution in America and in Western Europe Everett M. Rogers, Francis Balle, 1985 This step is a step toward greater internationalization of mass communication research Existing differences between the mass media of North American and Western European countries provide a basis for comparative analyses that illustrate how differences in national mass media systems can contribute towards intellectual understanding of communication behavior The world of communication scholarship can be divided into two main schools the empirical school and the critical school This volume represents some of the leading scholars of each school and is dedicated to the intellectual merging of the schools by means of fostering an improved understanding of each other Human and Mediated Communication around the World Marieke de Mooij, 2013-10-07 This book is unique in the sense that it offers a comprehensive review and analysis of human communication and mediated communication around the world This is one of the first attempts to do so in a systematic comprehensive way It challenges the assumption that Western theories of human communication and mass communication have universal applicability It surveys the applicability of mass communication theories to other than Western cultures The book explains the influence of culture on all forms of communication behavior be it personal mediated or mass communication It presents communication theories from around the world incorporating a vast body of literature from Europe Asia Africa and Latin America This updated information on important international perspectives that includes both interpersonal and mediated communication is presently not readily available in other sources The book offers an integrated approach to understanding the working of electronic means of communication that are hybrid media combining human and mediated communication These new media that are often presented as universal are even more culture bound than the traditional media The SAGE Handbook of Media Processes and Effects Robin L. Nabi, Mary Beth Oliver, 2009-09-11 Part III emphasizes the various factors that influence the critical functions of message selection and processing central to a host of mass media application contexts Media Literacy Around the World Robert Kubey, 2018-10-24 At the dawn of the twenty first century education about and through the media has become a worldwide phenomenon and is playing an increasingly important role in educational reform The theory and practice of media education have profited greatly from recent and intensive development and application of new information and telecommunications technologies Consequently the importance of media and information literacy is taking on an even greater urgency With this in mind the contributors to this volume survey what has taken place over the last decade in different parts of the world examine the current state of theoretical conceptual and research development and consider where media education is going and where it ought to go With two thirds of its 22 contributions coming from outside the United States Media Literacy around the World is a genuine international effort with many leading media and information educators in the world taking part The work converts the notion of globalism from a slogan into a working hypothesis The concerns in this volume are with literacy not just in computer technology but as a broad concern of the educational process

The History of Media and Communication Research David W. Park, Jefferson Pooley, 2008 Strictly speaking James Carey wrote there is no history of mass communication research This volume is a long overdue response to Carey's comment about the field's ignorance of its own past. The collection includes essays of historiographical self-scrutiny as well as new histories that trace the field's institutional evolution and cross-pollination with other academic disciplines. The volume treats the remembered past of mass communication research as crucial terrain where boundaries are marked off and futures plotted. The collection intended for scholars and advanced graduate students is an essential compass for the field.

Mass Media and Media Policy in Western Europe Peter Humphreys, 1996-05-15 This comparative textbook analysis explores how television and press systems across Europe have been shaped by technology, economics, and politics. The author explores the implications of the commercialisation of national broadcasting systems and the media policies of the European Union in the age of transfrontier media operations.

Global Broadcasting Systems Robert L. Hilliard, Michael C. Keith, 2023-12-22 Global Broadcasting Systems 1996 provides a comprehensive look at broadcasting throughout the world. It covers every continent, region, and almost every country in North and South America, Europe, Africa, Asia, and Oceania. Within each geographical area, it presents the history, key issues, trends, and status of broadcasting facilities and penetration, the control, regulation, and management of networks and stations by government, domestic and foreign industry, and the public; the financing of broadcasting systems; programming types and trends, including foreign imports, media freedom, and censorship; and external radio and television services from other countries. The book discusses how new technology and political, social, and economic factors influence the global media and shows how increasing privatization has changed patterns of control and access.

The Psychology of Media and Politics George Comstock, Erica Scharrer, 2005-05-31 Research indicates that people discount their own opinions and experiences in favor of those of experts as espoused in the media. The framing of news coverage thus has a profound impact on public opinion and political decision-making as a response to public outcry. However, the choice of how to frame the news is typically made to solicit viewership and high ratings rather than to convey accurate and meaningful information. The Psychology of Media and Politics discusses why people discount their own opinions, how the media shapes the news when this drives political decision-making, and what the effect is on the future of society. Issues addressed include: How powerful are the media in shaping political beliefs and judgment? How has this power changed in recent years? How does media influence voting behavior? To what extent do media opinions affect political decision-making? Demonstrates the ways in which the media both constrain and facilitate democratic participation. Provides insight into why individuals have varying levels of attention to and interest in politics. Discusses such issues as political advertising, polls, debates, and journalists' pursuit of scandal. Describes why only some Americans turn out to vote in prominent elections. Offers a model of personal versus social level influences that extends beyond politics into other important topic areas. Brings together research and theories from the fields of Communication Psychology and Political Science. Reviews hundreds of key sources, both historical and contemporary.

A Virtuous Circle Pippa Norris, 2000-09-04 Is the process of political communications by the news media and by parties responsible for civic malaise A Virtuous Circle sets out to challenge and critique the conventional wisdom Based on a comparative examination of the role of the news media and parties in 29 postindustrial societies focusing in particular on Western Europe and the United States this study argues that rather than mistakenly blaming the messenger we need to understand and confront more deep rooted flaws in systems of representative democracy
