Doing Meta-Analysis with R Mathias Harrer, Pim Cuijpers, Toshi Furukawa, David Ebert, 2021-09-14. Doing Meta-Analysis with R: A Hands-On Guide serves as an accessible introduction on how meta-analyses can be conducted in R. Essential steps for meta-analysis are covered, including calculation and pooling of outcome measures, forest plots, heterogeneity, diagnostics, subgroup analyses, meta-regression, methods to control for publication bias, risk of bias assessments, and plotting tools. Advanced but highly relevant topics such as network meta-analysis, multi-level meta-analyses, Bayesian meta-analysis approaches, and SEM meta-analysis are also covered. A companion R package, dmetar, is introduced at the beginning of the guide. It contains data sets and several helper functions for the meta and metafor packages used in the guide. The programming and statistical background covered in the book are kept at a non-expert level, making the book widely accessible.

Features: Contains two introductory chapters on how to set up an R environment and do basic imports/manipulations of meta-analysis data, including exercises. Describes statistical concepts clearly and concisely before applying them in R. Includes step-by-step guidance through the coding required to perform meta-analyses and a companion R package for the book.

The SAGE Encyclopedia of Communication Research Methods Mike Allen, 2017-04-11. Communication research is evolving and changing in a world of online journals, open access, and new ways of obtaining data and conducting experiments via the Internet. Although there are generic encyclopedias describing basic social science research methodologies in general, until now there has been no comprehensive A to Z reference work exploring methods specific to communication and media studies. Our entries, authored by key figures in the field, focus on special considerations when applied specifically to communication research, accompanied by engaging examples from the literature of communication, journalism, and media studies. Entries cover every step of the research process, from the creative development of research topics and questions to literature reviews, selection of best methods, whether quantitative, qualitative, or mixed, for analyzing research results and publishing research findings, whether in traditional media or via new media outlets. In addition to expected entries covering the basics of theories and methods traditionally used in communication research, other entries discuss important trends influencing the future of that research, including contemporary practical issues students will face in communication professions, the influences of globalization on research, use of new recording technologies in fieldwork, and the challenges and opportunities related to studying online, multi-media environments. Email, texting, cellphone video, and blogging are shown not only as topics of research but also as means of collecting and analyzing data. Still other entries delve into considerations of accountability, copyright, confidentiality, data ownership and security privacy and other aspects of conducting an ethical research program Features 652 signed entries are contained in an authoritative work spanning four volumes available in choice of electronic or print formats Although organized A to Z front matter includes a Reader's Guide grouping entries thematically to help students interested in a specific aspect of communication research to more easily locate directly related entries Back matter includes a Chronology of the development of the field of communication research a Resource Guide to classic books journals and associations a Glossary introducing the terminology of the field and a detailed Index Entries conclude with References Further Readings and Cross References to related entries to guide students further in their research journeys The Index Reader's Guide themes and Cross References combine to provide robust search and browse in the e version
