atheists in Sweden and the USA Nathalie Hallin,2024-05-14 Religiosity has been present in societies throughout history and several theories hold that religion serves to foster trust and a sense of community within the religious ingroup In many societies today it is not uncommon to lack religious beliefs and religion is no longer a natural part of everyday life The studies included in this thesis investigated how religious groups perceive each other or how generous they are to each other both in the more secular Sweden and in the more religious USA Paper 1 examined Swedes perceptions of atheists and religious people Specifically how often they associated atheists or religious people with extreme immoral behaviour by making a conjunction error Previous studies using the same methodological paradigm have found that more people associate atheists rather than religious people with immoral behaviour We found no significant association between target atheist or religious person and conjunction errors indicating that Swedes do not associate immoral behaviour with atheists to a greater degree than they associate immoral behaviour with religious people We compared the results to those presented in a previous study and found that the Swedish participants in our study made significantly fewer conjunction errors when the target was an atheist than a sample from the USA They also made significantly more conjunction errors when the target was a religious person than a Finnish sample and the American sample The results suggests that anti atheist bias is lower in Sweden compared to the USA but anti religious bias is higher than in both Finland and the USA However it is also possible that the type of sample used affected the results we recruited participants from social media while the other two samples were solely or mainly student samples The study shows that the clear anti atheist bias found in similar studies is not universal Paper 2 investigated Christians and atheists perceptions of Christian Muslim and atheist job applicants in four studies two with Swedish samples studies 1 and 3 and two with samples from the USA studies 2 and 4 Participants rated the perceived competence and likeability of a target applicant Christian Muslim or atheist and a control applicant with no information about religious affiliation In the last two studies participants also specified if they would have hired the target or control applicant Participants generally rated the control applicant as being more competent USA and more likeable Sweden and USA than the target applicant Both Christian and atheist participants rated targets with the same religious affiliation higher in likeability than targets from one or both religious outgroups in two of the studies The only significant difference in competence ratings between the targets were in study 3 where Christians rated Muslims as less competent than Christians However Christians likeability ratings in study 3 did not differ between targets More atheists in study 3 hired the control applicant than the Christian applicant but no other group differed in which applicant they hired. In conclusion, when people perceived one religious group to be more likeable, it was their ingroup. However, these results do not translate to perceptions of competence and seldom to hiring decisions.

Paper 3 investigated generosity toward religious ingroup and outgroup members in three studies conducted in Sweden (study 1), the USA (study 2), and Egypt and Lebanon (study 3) using an adapted Dictator Game. Participants allocated a sum of money between themselves and three potential recipients. In the most relevant round, these were a Christian, a Muslim, and an atheist. We found that in studies 1 and 2, there was no significant difference in overall generosity between religious people, agnostics, and atheists in the rounds where they did not know the religious affiliation of the recipients. In the round where they knew the affiliation of recipients, religious people gave significantly more than atheists (studies 1 and 2) and agnostics (study 2). Study 3 had too few agnostics and atheists to compare their generosity to that of religious people. Christians, Muslims, and atheists in all three studies gave significantly more money to their respective religious ingroups than to the outgroup that was given the largest amount. This ingroup generosity was found in the other rounds as well. However, the ingroup minus outgroup amount was larger in the religion round compared to most other rounds. The exceptions were the ideology round in study 1 and 2, which did not differ significantly from the religion round. In study 2, the difference between ingroup and outgroup generosity was larger for Muslim participants than for Christians and atheists. In conclusion, religious people seem to be more generous only when they know the religious affiliation of recipients, but atheists, Muslims, and Christians are all more generous toward religious ingroup members than toward outgroup members.

The papers together show that religious affiliation is an important group category that affects perceived likeability and generosity in several contexts.

Religiositet har funnits i samhällen genom hela historien och flera teorier har vidat att religion bidrar till att stärka förtroende och en känsla av gemenskap inom den religiösa gruppen. I många samhällen idag är det vanligt att sakna religiösa värtygelser och religion är inte längre en naturlig del av vardagslivet. Studierna som ingår i denna avhandling undersöker hur religiösa grupper uppfattar varandra eller hur generösa de är mot varandra både i det mer sekulära Sverige och i det mer religiösa USA. Paper 1 undersöker svenskars uppfattningar om ateister och religiösa minoriteter. Specifikt hur ofta de associerade ateister eller religiösa minoriteter med extremt omoraliskt beteende genom att göra ett konjunktionsfel. Tidigare studier som använt samma metodologiska paradigm har funnit att fler minoriteter associerar ateister snarare än religiösa minoriteter med omoraliskt beteende. Vi fann ingen signifikant koppling mellan target ateist eller religiös person och konjunktionsfel vilket indikerar att svenskar inte associerar omoraliskt beteende med ateister i högre grad än de associerar omoraliskt beteende med religiösa minoriteter. Vi jämförde resultaten med de som presenterades i en tidigare studie och fann att de svenska deltagarna i vår studie gjorde signifikant färre konjunktionsfel när target var en ateist jämfört med ett amerikanskt urval. De gjorde också signifikant fler konjunktionsfel när target var en religiös person än ett finskt urval och det amerikanska urvalet. Resultaten tyder på att anti-ateistisk bias råder i Sverige jämfört med USA men anti-religiös bias råder i USA.

business world is difficult to overstate. Despite this, there is a high failure rate among smaller organizations which can be explained to a significant degree by a lack of marketing understanding in this sector. Introducing the importance of marketing to entrepreneurial firms, this book guides the student through the fundamentals of marketing within the SME context, providing a more value added learning experience than your standard marketing run through. The authors deal directly with people issues i.e. everyday entrepreneurial marketing interactions to prepare students for the dragon's den of entrepreneurialism. This new and lively textbook provides a fresh and unfettered approach for marketing students who require a more real world understanding of the impact of their discipline on entrepreneurial firms. The growing student body involved with studying entrepreneurship will also benefit from the customer insight offered by this approach. Methodist Magazine and Quarterly Review, 1917

Atrocity Labelling Markus P. Beham, 2022-11-03

Atrocity, Genocide, War crime, Crime Against Humanity. Such atrocity labels have been popularized among international lawmakers but with little insight offered into how and when these terms are applied and to what effect. What constitutes an event to be termed a genocide or war crime and what role does this play in the application of legal proceedings? Markus P. Beham, through an interdisciplinary and comparative approach, unpicks these terms to uncover their historical genesis and their implications for international criminal law initiatives concerned with atrocity. The book uniquely compares four specific case studies: Belgian colonial exploitation of the Congo, atrocities committed against the Herero and Nama in German South West Africa, the Armenian genocide, and the man-made Ukrainian famine of the 1930s. Encompassing international law, legal history and discourse analysis, the concept of atrocity labelling is used to capture the meaning underlying the work of international lawyers and prosecutors, historians and sociologists, agenda setters and policy makers.

Understanding America Robert C. Hassler, 2018-10-16

Is America done? Have we run our course? Is the best behind us with nothing but stagnation, turmoil and decline ahead? Are we living during the fall of the United States, the New Roman Empire? Calls to Make America Great Again motivated millions of Americans recently to engage in the political process for the first time in their lives. Motivated by a concern that they like the old Romans of the fifth century were on the precipice of disaster The ancient Romans of course were not naive they saw the problems they even had solutions but they failed to save their civilization Is this the destiny of the United States Solutions to health care taxes immigration crime sex roles and environmental degradation are numerous and available but it seems like the ancient Romans Americans lack the political and social will unity and objectivity to get it done Part of the problem is that the nation s airways are filled with social commentators espousing liberal conservative Republican Democrat progressive anarchist and other partisan perspectives for the nation s condition All of this hyperbole fake news spin doctoring and outright lies are a result of everyone relying upon partial alternative or simply made up sets of facts If we cannot even agree on the facts then how in the world can we agree on what should or should not be done Well there is a solution to this old fashioned scientifically grounded sociology Not the current activist sociology which has helped contribute to the static But the type of sociology that adheres to the scientific methodology By understanding and applying the sociological perspective it is possible to not only understand the true nature of the problems facing the nation but also how we arrived at this point and where we can go from here This is the promise of this book by understanding sociology we can then understand not only America but also Americans Only by embracing the truth about the nation s status can we get back on the right path to fulfilling the promise of America
