MacDowell,2001 Remember Kirkland Lake The Gold Miners Strike of 1941 42 tells the story of one of the most important industrial disputes in Canadian labour history This strike united the Canadian labour movement around the demand for collective bargaining legislation which it won in 1944 and which remains central to our industrial relations system The book provides a comprehensive analysis of all the factors in this dramatic dispute At the community level a social history approach examines the local living and working conditions of the miners and their families the role of the women in the dispute and the ethnic makeup of the workforce

Smelter Wars Ron Verzuh,2022-01-27 In 1938 the Congress of Industrial Organizations CIO sent communist union organizer Arthur Slim Evans to the smelter city of Trail British Columbia to establish Local 480 of the International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers Six years later the local was recognized as the legal representative of more than 5 000 workers at a smelter owned by the powerful Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada But the union s fight for survival had only just begun Smelter Wars unfolds that historic struggle offering glimpses into the political social and cultural life of the semi rural single industry community Hindered by economic depression two World Wars and Cold War intolerance Local 480 faced fierce corporate media and religious opposition at home Ron Verzuh draws upon archival and periodical sources including the mainstream and labour press secret police records and oral histories to explore the CIO s complicated legacy in Trail as it battled a wide range of antagonists a powerful employer a company union local conservative citizens and Cooperative Commonwealth Federation CCF leadership More than the history of a union Smelter Wars is a cultural study of a community shaped by the dominance of a world leading industrial juggernaut set on keeping the union drive at bay

Power, Politics, and Principles Taylor Hollander,2018-01-01 Power Politics and Principles gets to the root of the policy making process revealing how a wartime order forced employers to the collective bargaining table and marked a new stage in Canadian industrial relations

We Lived a Life and Then Some Charlie Angus,Brit Griffin,Sally Lawrence,1996-12-01 Based on in depth oral interviews with local residents and rich archival sources We Lived A Life and Then Some relates the common person s struggle to overcome harsh working conditions and government neglect The unique culture of the hardrock mining town of Cobalt is exposed through the eyes of retired miners young welfare mothers and grade school children Angus and Griffin reveal why in spite of great adversity Cobalt remains a distinctive and cohesive working class community

Our Union Jason Russell,2011 The post war period witnessed dramatic changes in the lives of working class families Wages rose working hours were reduced pension plans and state social security measures offered greater protection against unemployment illness and old age the standard of living improved and women and members of immigrant communities entered the labour market in growing numbers Existing studies of the post war period have focused above all on unions at the national and international levels on the post war settlement including the impact of Fordism and on the chiefly economic issues surrounding collective bargaining while relatively scant attention has been paid to the role of the union local in daily working class experience In Our Union Jason Russell argues that the union local as an institution of working class organization was a key agent for the Canadian working class as it sought to create a new place for itself in the decades following World War II Using UAW CAW Local 27 a broad based union in London Ontario as a case study he offers a ground level look at union membership including some of the social and political agendas that informed union activities As he writes in the introduction This book is as much an outgrowth of years of rank and file union activism as it is the result of academic curiosity Drawing on interviews with former members of UAW CAW Local 27 as well as on archival sources Russell offers a narrative that will speak not only to labour historians but to the people about whom they write

Women's Work, Markets and Economic Development in Nineteenth-Century Ontario Marjorie Griffin Cohen, 1988-12-15 Cohen focuses on the productive relations in the family and the significance of women's labour to the process of capital accumulation in both the capitalist sphere and independent commodity production In this study Marjorie Griffin Cohen argues that in research into Ontario's economic history the emphasis on market activity has obscured the most prevalent type of productive relations in the staple exporting economy the patriarchal relations of production within the family economy Cohen focuses on the productive relations in the family and the significance of women's labour to the process of capital accumulation in both the capitalist sphere and independent commodity production She shows that while the family economy was based on the mutual dependence of male and female labour there was not equality in productive relations The male ownership of capital in the context of the family economy had significant implications for the control over female labour Among countries which experience industrial development there are common patterns in the impact of change on women's work there are also significant differences One of the most important of these is the fact that economic development did not result in women's labour being withdrawn from the social sphere of production Rather economic growth has steadily brought women's productive efforts more directly into the market sphere In exploring the roots of this development Cohen adds a new dimension to the study of women's labour history

The State, Business, and Industrial Change in Canada Michael M. Atkinson, William D. Coleman, 1989-12-15 The late twentieth century has seen profound changes in the character of the international economic order According to the authors of this study Canada has failed to come to terms with those changes Our industrial policy is diffuse ad hoc and sectoral Michael Atkinson and William Coleman argue that in order to analyse Canada's industrial policy effectively particular attention must be given to industry organization state structures and systems of interest intermediation at the sectoral level To make such an analysis they introduce the concept of policy network and apply it to three types of industrial sectors the research intensive sectors of telecommunications manufacturing and pharmaceuticals the rapidly changing sectors of petrochemicals and meat processing and the contracting and troubled sectors of textiles clothing and dairy processing Through the lens of these sectors Coleman and Atkinson shed considerable light on the intersection of political considerations and policy development and offer a new base on which to move forward in planning for economic growth

Divided Province Greg Albo, Bryan M. Evans, 2019-02-28 No government jurisdiction in Canada has so radically transformed its public policies over the past decades as Ontario and yet the province has also maintained a striking degree of political stability in its party system Since the 1990s neoliberalism has been the point of reference in constructing policy agendas for all of Ontario's political parties It has guided the strategy for governance of the dominant Liberal Party since 2003 even as it divides the province between workers and employers north and south rural and urban and racialized minorities and the majority population With a focus on the governments of Mike Harris Dalton McGuinty and Kathleen Wynne Divided Province brings together leading researchers to dissect the province's public policies since the 1990s Presenting original state of the art research the book demonstrates that although the Conservative government of Mike Harris implemented the sharpest and most profound shift towards the establishment of a neoliberal regime in the province the subsequent Liberal governments consolidated that neoliberal turn The essays in this volume explore the consequences of this ideological turn across a spectrum of policies including health education poverty energy employment manufacturing and how it has impacted workers women First Nations and other distinct communities The first book to offer a comprehensive critical account of neoliberalism in Ontario Divided Province overturns conventional readings of the province's politics and suggests that building a more democratic and egalitarian alternative to the current orthodoxy requires nothing less than a radical rupture from existing policies and political alliances Without such a decisive break political space may well open up again for the populist right

Capital and Labour in the British Columbia Forest Industry, 1934-74 Gordon Hak, 2011-11-01 The history of British Columbia's economy in the twentieth century is inextricably bound to the development of the forest industry In this comprehensive study Gordon Hak approaches the forest industry from the perspectives of workers and employers examining the two main sets of institutions that structured the relationship during the Fordist era the companies and the unions Drawing on theories of the labour process Fordism and discursive subjectivity Hak relates daily routines of production and profit making to broader forces of unionism business ideology ecological protest technological change and corporate concentration The struggle of the small business sector to survive in the face of corporate growth the history of the industry on the Coast and in the Interior the transformations in capital labour relations during the period government forest policy and the forest industry's encounter with the emerging environmental movement are all considered in this eloquent analysis With its critical historical perspective Capital and Labour in the British Columbia Forest Industry will be essential reading for anyone interested in the business natural resource political social and labour history of the province

Labour Goes to War Wendy Cuthbertson, 2012 During the Second World War the Congress of Industrial Organizations in Canada grew from a handful of members to more than a quarter million and from political insignificance to a position of influence in the emergence of the welfare state What was it about the good war that brought about this phenomenal growth Labour Goes to War analyzes the organizing strategies of the CIO during the war to show that both cultural and economic forces were at work Labour shortages gave workers greater power in the workplace and increased their militancy But workers patriotism their ties to those on active service and allegiance to the people s war also contributed to the CIO s growth and to what it claimed for workers Drawing on a wealth of archival material Wendy Cuthbertson illuminates this complex wartime context She also shows how the complex often contradictory motives of workers during this period left the Canadian labour movement with an ambivalent progressive conservative legacy

Cultures of Citizenship in Post-war Canada, 1940 - 1955 Nancy Christie, Michael Gauvreau, 2004-01-15 The years between the end of World War II and the mid 1960s have usually been viewed as an era of political and social consensus made possible by widely diffused prosperity creeping Americanization and fears of radical subversion and a dominant culture challenged periodically by the claims of marginal groups By exploring what were actually the mainstream ideologies and cultural practices of the period the authors argue that the postwar consensus was itself a precarious cultural ideal that was characterized by internal tensions and while containing elements of conservatism reflected considerable diversity in the way in which citizenship identities were defined Contributors include Denyse Baillargeon Universit de Montr al P E Bryden Mount Allison University Nancy Christie Michael Gauvreau Karine Hebert Carleton University Len Kuffert Carleton University and Peter S McInnis St Francis Xavier University

Gendered Pasts Kathryn McPherson, Cecilia Morgan, Nancy Forestell, 2003-12-15 It is commonplace today to suggest that gender is socially constructed that the roles women and men fulfill in their daily lives have been created and defined for them by society and social institutions But how have men and women negotiated and navigated the gender roles that have been thrust upon them With Gendered Pasts Kathryn McPherson Cecilia Morgan and Nancy M Forestell have collected eleven engaging essays that seek to answer this question in a wide ranging exploration of specific gendered dimensions of nineteenth and twentieth century Canadian history The contributors cover all manner of topics related to gender and history across Canada including female vagrancy gambling drinking and sex the role of the miner s wife the portrayal of gay men and the sharply defined role of nurses Unusual in its breadth Gendered Pasts is essential to the understanding of the various threads and themes in Canadian gender history Previously published by Oxford University Press

Nonunion Employee Representation Bruce E. Kaufman, Daphne Gottlieb Taras, 2016-07-08 Examines the history contemporary practice and policy issues of non union employee representation in the USA and Canada The text encompasses many organizational devices that are organized for the purposes of representing employees on a range of production quality and employment issues

Powering Up Canada R.W. Sandwell, 2016-11-01 With growing concerns about the security cost and ecological consequences of energy use people around the world are becoming more conscious of the systems that meet their daily needs for food heat cooling light transportation communication waste disposal medicine and goods Powering Up Canada is the first book to examine in detail how various sources of power fuel and energy have sustained Canadians over time and played a pivotal role in their history Powering Up Canada investigates the ways that the production processing transportation use and waste issues of various forms of energy changed over time transforming almost every aspect of society in the process Chapters in the book's first part explore the energies of the organic regime food animal muscle water wind and firewood while those in the second part focus on the coal oil gas hydroelectricity and nuclear power that define the mineral regime Contributors identify both continuities and disparities in Canada's changing energy landscape in this first full overview of the country's distinctive energy history Reaching across disciplinary boundaries these essays not only demonstrate why and how energy serves as a lens through which to better understand the country's history but also provide ways of thinking about some of its most pressing contemporary concerns Engaging Canadians in an urgent international discussion on the social and environmental history of energy production and use and its profound impact on human society Powering Up Canada details the nature and significance of energy in the past present and future Contributors include Jenny Clayton University of Victoria George Colpitts University of Calgary Colin Duncan Queen's University J I Little Emeritus Simon Fraser University Joanna Dean Carleton University Matthew Evenden University of British Columbia Laurel Sefton MacDowell Emerita University of Toronto Mississauga Joshua MacFadyen Arizona State University Eric Sager University of Victoria Jonathan Peyton University of Manitoba Steve Penfold University of Toronto Philip van Huizen McMaster University Andrew Watson University of Saskatchewan and Lucas Wilson independent scholar

The CIO, 1935-1955 Robert H. Zieger, 2000-11-09 The Congress of Industrial Organizations CIO encompassed the largest sustained surge of worker organization in American history Robert Zieger charts the rise of this industrial union movement from the founding of the CIO by John L Lewis in 1935 to its merger under Walter Reuther with the American Federation of Labor in 1955 Exploring themes of race and gender Zieger combines the institutional history of the CIO with vivid depictions of working class life in this critical period Zieger details the ideological conflicts that racked the CIO even as its leaders strove to establish a labor presence at the heart of the U S economic system Stressing the efforts of industrial unionists such as Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray to forge potent instruments of political action he assesses the CIO's vital role in shaping the postwar political and international order Zieger's analysis also contributes to current debates over labor law reform the collective bargaining system and the role of organized labor in a changing economy

On F.R. Scott Sandra Djwa, R. St. J. Macdonald, 1983-01-01 The Fate of Labour Socialism James Naylor, 2016-01-01 Almost a century before the New Democratic Party rode the first orange wave their predecessors imagined a movement that could rally Canadians against economic insecurity win access to necessary services such as health care and confront the threat of war The party they built during the Great Depression the Co operative Commonwealth Federation CCF permanently transformed the country's politics Past histories have described the CCF as social democrats guided by middle class intellectuals a party which shied away from labour radicalism and communist agitation James Naylor's assiduous research tells a very different story a CCF created by working class activists steeped in Marxist ideology who sought to create a movement that would be both loyal to its socialist principles and appealing to the wider electorate The Fate of Labour Socialism is a fundamental reexamination of the CCF and Canadian working class politics in the 1930s one that will help historians better understand Canada s political intellectual and labour history

A Great Restlessness Faith Johnston, 2006-10-30 Dorise Nielsen was a pioneering feminist a radical politician the first Communist elected to Canada s House of Commons and the only woman elected in 1940 But despite her remarkable career until now little has been known about her From her youth in London during World War I to her burial in 1980 in a hero s cemetery in China Nielsen lived through tumultuous times Struggling through the Great Depression as a homesteader s wife in rural Saskatchewan Nielsen rebelled against the poverty and injustice that surrounded her and found like minded activists in the CCF and the Communist Party of Canada In 1940 when leaders of the Communist Party were either interned or underground Nielsen became their voice in Parliament But her activism came at a high price As a single mother in Ottawa she sacrificed a close relationship with her family for her career As a woman in an emerging political organisation her authority was increasingly usurped by younger male party members As a committed communist she moved to Mao s China in 1957 and dedicated her life s work to a cause that went seriously awry Faith Johnston illuminates the life of a woman who paved the way for a generation of women in politics who tried to be both a good mother and a good revolutionary and who refused to give up on either

Workers and Canadian History Gregory S. Kealey, 1995 This collection of twelve essays by Gregory Kealey will be of great interest to students and scholars of Canadian history labour history Marxist and socialist theory and history and political science
