Remembering History:

Memory and History Joan Tumblety, 2013-07-15 How does the historian approach memory and how do historians use different sources to analyze how history and memory interact and impact on each other Memory and History explores the different aspects of the study of this field Taking examples from Europe Australia the USA and Japan and treating periods beyond living memory as well as the recent past the volume highlights the contours of the current vogue for memory among historians while demonstrating the diversity and imagination of the field Each chapter looks at a set of key historical and historiographical questions through research based case studies How does engaging with memory as either source or subject help to illuminate the past What are the theoretical ethical and or methodological challenges that are encountered by historians engaging with memory in this way and how might they be managed How can the reading of a particular set of sources illuminate both of these questions The chapters cover a diverse range of approaches and subjects including oral history memorialization and commemoration visual cultures and photography autobiographical fiction material culture ethnic relations the individual and collective memories of war veterans The chapters collectively address a wide range of primary source material beyond oral testimony photography monuments memoir and autobiographical writing fiction art and woodcuttings everyday and exotic cultural artefacts journalism political polemic the law and witness testimony This book will be essential reading for students of history and memory providing an accessible guide to the historical study of memory through a focus on varied source materials

Memory, History, Forgetting Paul Ricoeur, 2004-08-16 Firstly Paul Ricoeur takes a phenomenological approach to memory He then addresses recent work by historians by reopening the question of the nature and truth of historical knowledge Finally he describes the necessity of forgetting as a condition for the possibility of remembering

Remembering War J. M. Winter, 2006-01-01 This is a masterful volume on remembrance and war in the twentieth century Jay Winter locates the fascination with the subject of memory within a long term trajectory that focuses on the Great War Images languages and practices that appeared during and after the two world wars focused on the need to acknowledge the victims of war and shaped the ways in which future conflicts were imagined and remembered At the core of the memory boom is an array of collective meditations on war and the victims of war Winter says The book begins by tracing the origins of contemporary interest in memory then describes practices of remembrance that have linked history and memory particularly in the first half of the twentieth century The author also considers theaters of memory film television museums and war crimes trials in which the past is seen through public representations of memories The book concludes with reflections on the significance of these practices for the cultural history of the twentieth century as a whole

Cognitive Ecologies and the History of Remembering E. Tribble, N. Keene, 2011-04-05 This book unites research in philosophy and cognitive science with cultural history to re examine memory in early modern religious practices Offering an ecological approach to memory and culture it argues that models derived from Extended Mind and Distributed Cognition can bridge the gap between individual and social models of memory

Terrifying Europe. History and Memory of Terrorism in European Identity Pérez Baquero, Rafael, Cayuela Sánchez, Salvador, 2024-06-01 As different historians have outlined memories and identities stemming from the dreadful events unfolded in Europe during the 20th century are deeply connected with the ways in which traumatic and violent pasts are remembered commemorated and mourned as the years go by Collective and national identities during the second half of the last century haven been constructed upon the remembrance and depiction of victims within public sphere As a result the ways in which contemporary violence is framed through the different mediations and re meditations provided by cultural memory are key to understand the reconfiguration of contemporary European identities Undoubtedly the experience of terrorism in European soil is one of comes to the fore when dealing the remembrance of violence Regardless of the political nature and grounding of the different terrorist attacks which have shocked and undermined the feeling of security within Western societies the evolution of European identities is dependent on how such events are depicted and on how their victims are remembered and commemorated Echoing this situation Remembering Terror aims at offering a diverse set of perspectives focusing on different historical cases of remembering and commemorating terrorism in contemporary Europe Therefore each chapter included in this book is thus intended to provide a different approach to how a specific event in Europe related to terrorism has been reframed In this regard far from endorsing a particular perspective Remembering Terror is bound to offer a glimpse on the heterogeneous ways in which memory of terrorism has reshaped collective identities in Europe

Anzac Memories Alistair Thomson, 2013-11-01 Anzac Memories was first published to acclaim in 1994 and has achieved international renown for its pioneering contribution to the study of war memory and mythology Michael McKernan wrote that the book gave as good a picture of the impact of the Great War on individuals and Australia as we are likely to get in this generation and Michael Roper concluded that an immense achievement of this book is that it so clearly illuminates the historical processes that left men like my grandfather forever struggling to fashion myths which they could live by In this new edition Alistair Thomson explores how the Anzac legend has transformed over the past quarter century how a post memory of the Great War creates new challenges and opportunities for making sense of the national past and how veterans war memories can still challenge and complicate national mythologies He returns to a family war history that he could not write about twenty years ago because of the stigma of war and mental illness and he uses newly released Repatriation files to question his own earlier account of veterans post war lives and memories and to think afresh about war and memory Psychology and History

Cristian Tileagă, Jovan Byford, 2014-02-20 Exploring the relationship between psychology and history this book considers how the disciplines could benefit from a closer dialogue Image, History and Memory Michał Haake, Piotr Juszkiewicz, 2022-02-22 This book discusses the active relationship among the mechanics of memory visual practices and historical narratives Reflection on memory and its ties with historical narratives cannot be separated from reflection on the visual and the image as its points of reference which function in time This volume addresses precisely that temporal aspect of the image without reducing it to a neutral trace of the past a mnemotechnical support of memory As a commemorative device the image fixes structures and crystalizes memory turning the view of the past into myth It may however also stimulate transform and update memory functioning as a matrix of interpretation and understanding the past The book questions whether the functioning of the visual matrices of memory can be related to a particular historical and geographical scope that is to Central and Eastern Europe and whether it is possible to find their origin and decide if they are just local and regional or perhaps also Western European and universal It focuses on the artistic reflection on time and history in the reconstructions of memory due to change of frontiers and political regimes as well as endeavours to impose some specific political structure on territories which were complex and mixed in terms of national identity religion and social composition The volume is ideal for students and scholars of memory studies history and visual studies Memories of German Colonialism in Tanzania Reginald Elias Kirey, 2023-08-21 German colonial history in today Tanzania Mainland is extensively documented but it has not been studied from its memory perspective despite it being widely remembered among the Tanzanians This book documents German colonial memories as shared cultural legacy that exists in forms of monuments archives and historical sites It also presents them as trans generational memory narratives that live in people s memories that are also commemorated in different ways like erection of war monuments The book analyzes memories of colonialism from the historical perspective showing how the collective memories like monuments and commemorations have undergone structural and institutional changes over time The study uses Michael Rothberg s multi directional theory together with other theoretical approaches to analyze various forms of German colonial memories in Tanzanian context The findings which are analyzed historically indicate that the collective memories of the Germans are cultural communicative commemorative functional and topographical They are also traumatic as well as nostalgic New Perspectives on Old Testament Prophecy and History Rannfrid I. Thelle, Terje Stordalen, Mervyn E.J. Richardson, 2015-05-19 In New Perspectives on Old Testament Prophecy and History colleagues students and friends of Hans M Barstad offer essays in honour of his esteemed career in biblical studies Contributions on prophecy include the debate on prophets as historical figures the biblical books of Isaiah

Ezekiel Hosea Amos and Micah and issues of methodology and interpretation Essays devoted to history address various historiographic issues as well as specific historical topics such as the monarchy in ancient Israel the relationship of Judah to Edom and the ritual of reading the law In ways that reflect Hans Barstad s innovative insights and methodological critiques this collection of essays probes beyond the oft trodden paths of biblical studies and challenges the status quo within the field

An Oral History of the Portuguese Colonial War Ângela Campos,2017-02-23 This oral history of ex combatants of the Portuguese colonial war places the reader face to face with the men who were conscripted to fight the last and bloodiest of the West s colonial wars in Africa namely in Angola Mozambique and Guinea Bissau then Portuguese Guinea between 1961 and 1974 At the forefront of this work are the lived experiences of a wide range of Portuguese veterans framed by broader insights about the post war public memory of this event in Portugal Moving away from stereotypical and polarized images of these ex combatants An Oral History of the Portuguese Colonial War Conscripted Generation explores the memories and consequences of this war for these veterans and their society Seeking to understand why Portuguese ex combatants often feel neglected and historically unrecognised this book presents a thorough portrait of a continually shifting and at times paradoxical individual and collective remembrance process

The Oxford Handbook of Oral History Donald A. Factories of Memory: Cinematic Representations of the 12 September Military Coup Ozan Tekin,2014-02-01 12 September 1980 the third successful military coup in the history of Turkey has had a debilitating impact on the social political and cultural life of the country This study examines the representations of the 12 September coup through the lens of film as memory Based on the content analysis of the two films Beynelmilel 2006 and Bu Son Olsun 2012 and their reception this study examines the representations of the 12 September military coup by means of the concepts of cultural memory communicative and material memory memory of objects and construes whether the reconstruction of this particular past event is challenged by the abovementioned cinematic products as a way to impinge upon the collective memories of this seminal event in Turkey

War Memory and Popular Culture Michael Keren,Holger H. Herwig,2014-01-10 This collection of essays investigates such diverse vehicles for war commemoration as poems battlefield tours souvenirs books films architectural structures comics websites and video games Drawing on essayists from Australia Canada Great Britain Israel and the United States this work explores the evolution from traditional to contemporary forms of war commemoration while addressing the fundamental question of whether these new forms of memorial are meant to encourage the remembering or the forgetting of the experience of war as well as what implications the process of commemoration may have for the continuation of the modern nation state Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

Debating New Approaches to History Marek

Tamm, Peter Burke, 2018-10-04 With its innovative format Debating New Approaches to History addresses issues currently at the top of the discipline's theoretical and methodological agenda. In its chapters leading historians of both older and younger generations from across the Western world and beyond discuss and debate the main problems and challenges that historians are facing today. Each chapter is followed by a critical commentary from another key scholar in the field and the author's response. The volume looks at topics such as the importance and consequences of the digital turn in history: what will history writing be like in a digital age? the challenge of posthumanist theory for history writing; how do we write the history of non-humans and the possibilities of moving beyond traditional sources in history and establishing a dialogue with genetics and neurosciences; what are the perspectives and limits of the so-called neurohistory. It also revisits older debates in history which remain crucial such as what the gender approach can offer to historical research or how to write history on a global scale. Debating New Approaches to History does not just provide a useful overview of the new approaches to history it covers but also offers insights into current historical debates and the process of historical method in the making. It demonstrates how the discipline of history has responded to challenges in society such as digitalization, globalization and environmental concerns as well as in humanities and social sciences such as the material turn, visual turn or affective turn. This is a key volume for all students of historiography wanting to keep their finger on the pulse of contemporary thinking in historical research.

D-Day in History and Memory Michael Dolski, Sam Edwards, John Buckley, 2014-03-15 Over the past sixty-five years the Allied invasion of Northwestern France in June 1944 known as D Day has come to stand as something more than a major battle. The assault itself formed a vital component of Allied victory in the Second World War. D Day developed into a sign and symbol as a word it carries with it a series of ideas and associations that have come to symbolize different things to different people and nations. As such the commemorative activities linked to the battle offer a window for viewing the various belligerents in their postwar years. This book examines the commonalities and differences in national collective memories of D Day. Chapters cover the main forces on the day of battle including the United States, Great Britain, Canada, France and Germany. In addition a chapter on Russian memory of the invasion explores other views of the battle. The overall thrust of the book shows that memories of the past vary over time, link to present-day needs and also still have a clear national and cultural specificity. These memories arise in a multitude of locations such as film, books, monuments, anniversary celebrations and news media representations.

We Are What We Remember Laura Mattoon D'Amore, Jeffrey Meriwether, 2013-01-16 Commemorative practices are revised and rebuilt based on the spirit of the time in which they are re-created. Historians sometimes imagine that commemoration captures history but actually commemoration creates new narratives about history that allow people to interact with the past in a way that they find meaningful. As our social values change—race, gender, religion, sexuality, class—our commemorations do too. We Are What We Remember: The American Past Through Commemoration analyzes current trends in the study of historical memory that are particularly relevant to our own present: our biases, our politics our contextual moment and strive to name forgotten overlooked and denied pasts in traditional histories Race gender and sexuality for example raise questions about our most treasured myths where were the slaves at Jamestowne How do women or lesbians protect and preserve their own histories when no one else wants to write them Our current social climate allows us to question authority and especially the authoritative definitions of nation patriotism and heroism and belonging How do we uncommemorate things that were miscommemorated in the past How do we repair the damage done by past commemorations The chapters in this book contributed by eighteen emerging and established scholars examine these modern questions that entirely reimagine the landscape of commemoration as it has been practiced and studied before
