Remington Frederic Remington, 2012-05-08 It is impossible to reflect upon Frederic Remington's art without thinking of the merely human elements Remington became interested in the American Indian probably because he became interested in the active exciting life of the American Great Plains The Indian appealed to him not in any histrionic way not as a figure stepped out from the pages of Hiawatha but just as a human subject Remington hit upon this truth when he travelled west What he found there was majesty that he did not make solely an affair of Indians in war paint and feathers Remington knew how the light of the moon or of the stars is diffused how softly and magically it envelops the landscape There is a sort of artistic honesty in his nocturnal studies He never set out to be romantic or melodramatic just to develop his affinity and closeness to nature The beauty of the painter's motive too has communicated itself in his technique His grey green tones fading into velvety depths take on transparency and in his handling of form he uses a touch as firm as need be The determining influence in his career was that of the creative impulse urging him to deal in the translation of visible things into pictorial terms to the present Includes information abstracted from over 2 000 journals published worldwide Branding the American West Marian Wardle, Sarah E. Boehme, 2016-02-17 Artists and filmmakers in the early twentieth century reshaped our vision of the American West In particular the Taos Society of Artists and the California based artist Maynard Dixon departed from the legendary depiction of the Wild West and fostered new images or brands for western art This volume illustrated with more than 150 images examines select paintings and films to demonstrate how these artists both enhanced and contradicted earlier representations of the West Prior to this period American art tended to portray the West as a wild frontier with untamed lands and peoples Renowned artists such as Henry Farny and Frederic Remington set their work in the past invoking an environment immersed in conflict and violence This trademark perspective began to change however when artists enamored with the Southwest stamped a new imprint on their paintings The contributors to this volume illuminate the complex ways in which early twentieth century artists as well as filmmakers evoked a southwestern environment not just suspended in time but also permanent rather than transient Yet as the authors also reveal these artists were not entirely immune to the siren call of the vanishing West and their portrayal of peaceful yet exotic Native Americans was an expansion rather than a dismissal of earlier tropes Both brands cast a romantic spell on the West and both have been seared into public consciousness Branding the American West is published in association with the Brigham Young University Museum of Art Provo Utah and the Stark Museum of Art Orange Texas Bibliographie D'histoire de L'art, 1991 200 Years of American Sculpture Tom Armstrong, Whitney Museum of American Art, 1976 An illustrated historical and critical survey of sculpture in America beginning with a discussion of the sculpture of the aboriginal inhabitants and augmented by brief biographies of the sculptors noted Shows of Force Timothy W. Luke, 1992 It has long been considered a mark of na vet to ask of a work of art What does it say But as Timothy W Luke demonstrates in Shows of Force artwork is capable of saying plenty and much of the message resides in the way it is exhibited By critically examining the exhibition of art in contemporary American museums Luke identifies how art showings are elaborate works of theater that reveal underlying political social and economic agendas The first section Envisioning a Past Imagining the West looks at art exhibitions devoted to artworks about or from the American West Luke shows how these exhibitions displaying nineteenth and early twentieth century works by artists such as George Caleb Bingham Frederic Remington Frederic Edwin Church and Georgia O Keefe express contemporary political agendas in the way they portray the past and shape new visions of the West In Developing the Present Defining a World Luke considers artists from the post 1945 era including Ilya Kabakov Hans Haacke Sue Coe Roger Brown and Robert Longo Recent art exhibits his analysis reveals attempt to develop politically charged conceptions of the present which in turn struggle to define the changing contemporary world and art s various roles within it Luke brings to light the contradictions encoded in the exhibition of art and in doing so illuminates the political realities and cultural ideologies of the present Shows of Force offers a timely and surely controversial contribution to current discussions of the
