Public Library of New South Wales,1906 Wellington's Army, 1809-1814 Charles Oman,1913 Blood, Guts and Gore
Gareth Glover,2022-10-07 John Gordon Smith wrote one of the most vivid honest and readable personal accounts of the Battle of Waterloo and the ensuing campaign where he served as a surgeon in the 12th Light Dragoons but his classic narrative was only published in a limited edition in the 1830s and since then it has been virtually unknown His warts and all depiction of the British army in Belgium and France and the fighting at Waterloo rivals many of the more famous and often reprinted military memoirs of the period That is why Gareth Glover one of the foremost experts on the battle and the archive sources relating to it has sought to republish the narrative now with a full introduction and explanatory notes Smith's account reads like a novel in a chatty easy going style but it often records deeply shocking scenes and behaviour so scandalous that he had to avoid naming names As well as recalling in graphic detail his experience as a medic during the battle he records the aftermath the allied occupation of France His writing which describes the truly dreadful consequences of the fighting as only a surgeon would see them also gives the reader a rare insight into his role and a memorable impression of the life in the army as a whole

M. Signet in Scotland, 1891 Hastenbeck 1757 Olivier Lapray, 2021-10-15 The outbreak of the Seven Years War saw the formation of new alliances and led to the conduct of military operations in several theaters simultaneously. The campaign of 1757 saw large scale maneuvers with their necessary operational corollaries of supply and logistics as France put an army of 100,000 men into the field. The conduct of the campaign also testifies to the difficulty of exercising command in the face of a court and a government for which short term results took precedence over means. Notwithstanding such difficulties the campaign of the French armies in Westphalia saw its climax play out around the village of Hastenbeck on 26 July 1757 where the forces of Mar ch al d Estr es gained a victory that came close to knocking Hanover out of the war. The story of the campaign can be told from the human perspective thanks to the large body of memoirs and letters from officers both general and subordinate of cavalry and infantry regiments. Having left their garrisons four months earlier they had come to battle at the gates of Hanover after having traveled more than 600 kilometers through the Low Countries and into Germany Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature, 1901 The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature, 1901
