Over and Over Olivier Julien, Christophe Levaux, 2018-02-22 From the Tin Pan Alley 32 bar form through the cyclical forms of modal jazz to the more recent accumulation of digital layers beats and breaks in Electronic Dance Music repetition as both an aesthetic disposition and a formal property has stimulated a diverse range of genres and techniques From the angles of musicology psychology sociology and science and technology Over and Over reassesses the complexity connected to notions of repetition in a variety of musical genres The first edited volume on repetition in 20th and 21st century popular music Over and Over explores the wide ranging forms and use of repetition from large repetitive structures to micro repetitions in relation to both specific and large scale issues and contexts The book brings together a selection of original texts by leading authors in a field that is as yet little explored Aimed at both specialists and neophytes it sheds important new light on one of the fundamental phenomena of music of our times Rests and Repetition in Music Peter

Christoph, 2015-09-29 Christoph Peter RESTS REPETITION IN MUSIC Their Significance and Use in Education Teaching Music Christoph Peter 1927 82 was an inspiring all round musician He lived for music for teaching it and especially for exciting awareness amongst others of music's power of renewing the human being Through teaching composing promoting and performing and writing about music Peter's concern was to serve He taught music at the Hanover Waldorf School for 22 years and was Director of Music at the Teacher's Seminary in Stuttgart Art including the art of music as both subject and method in education Peter maintains is essential to develop balanced personalities who can fully enter the art of living Rests and Repetition contains an exact yet sensitive study of these musical phenomena Many teachers parents and students already appreciate this classic text on the power of music The creative principles Peter reveals are applied more generally in education and life today where specifically artistic and human values are under threat Children should learn the art of living Everybody albeit in humble measure can accomplish something in the realm of art Indeed is not life itself an art Christoph Peter Peter's definitive study on The Language of Music in Mozart's The Magic Flute is also published by Anastasi Ltd

Repetition in Music Adam Ockelford, 2016 This monograph examines the place of repetition in perceived musical structure and in theories of music Following a preface and introduction there are four main chapters Theory Analysis Metatheory and Meta analysis and Cognition and Metacognition Chapter 2 Theory sets out the principles underlying the creation and cognition of musical structure developed by the author in earlier studies in the dual context of David Lewin's mathematically based theory of musical intervals and transformations and Gilles Fauconnier's concept of mental spaces which was formulated in the context of cognitive science Chapter 3 Analysis shows the theory in operation in relation to the first movement of Mozart's piano sonata K 333 It indicates how structural issues may be related to considerations of aesthetic response and musical worth through comparison with J C Bach's Sonata op 5 no 3 Chapter 4 Metatheory and Meta analysis uses the new theory to interrogate the propositions underpinning set theory and transformations offering a psychomusicological critique and potential development of for example the work of Forte Morris Isaacson and Straus This enables issues raised earlier in relation to the work of Lewin to be addressed In conclusion in Chapter 5 Cognition and Metacognition the matter of cognitive preferences and constraints is considered in relation to repetition in music which permits a final investigation of different approaches to musical analysis to be undertaken In summary by synthesising the findings of diverse earlier work in the context of the new theory it proves possible to move thinking forward on a number of fronts and to indicate potential directions for future empirical and analytical developments Provided by publisher Is Language a Music? David Lidov, 2005 If music is a universal language is language a universal music Free Composition Heinrich Schenker, 2001 The first two volumes of Heinrich Schenker's masterwork Neue musikalische Theorien und Phantasien Harmonielehren 1906 and Kontrapunkt 1910 and 1922 laid the foundations for the harmonic aspect of his theory The specific voice leading component was a later development progressing with brilliance over the last 15 years of his life It is in Free Composition Freie Satz 1935 that the idea of voice leading receives its most detailed and precise formulation Pendragon Press is honored to make this distinguished reprint available once again with a new preface by Carl Schachter

On Repeat Elizabeth Hellmuth Margulis, 2013-11-11 On Repeat offers an in depth inquiry into music's repetitive nature Drawing on a diverse array of fields it sheds light on a range of issues from repetition's use as a compositional tool to its role in characterizing our behavior as listeners and considers related implications for repetition in language learning and communication Repetition in Music Adam Ockelford, 2005 This monograph examines the place of repetition in perceived musical structure and in theories of music Following a preface and introduction there are four main chapters Theory Analysis Metatheory and Meta analysis and Cognition and Metacognition Chapter 2 Theory sets out the principles underlying the creation and cognition of musical structure developed by the author in earlier studies in the dual context of David Lewin's mathematically based theory of musical intervals and transformations and Gilles Fauconnier's concept of mental spaces which was formulated in the context of cognitive science Chapter 3 Analysis shows the theory in operation in relation to the first movement of Mozart's piano sonata K 333 It indicates how structural issues may be related to considerations of aesthetic response and musical worth through comparison with J C Bach's Sonata op 5 no 3 Chapter 4 Metatheory and Meta analysis uses the new theory to interrogate the propositions underpinning set theory and transformations offering a psychomusicological critique and potential development of for example the work of Forte Morris Isaacson and Straus This enables issues raised earlier in relation to the work of Lewin to be addressed In conclusion in Chapter 5 Cognition and Metacognition the matter of cognitive preferences and constraints is considered in relation to repetition in music which permits a final investigation of different approaches to musical analysis to be undertaken In summary by synthesising the findings of diverse earlier work in the context of the new theory it proves possible to move thinking forward on a number of fronts and to indicate potential directions for future empirical and analytical developments Music in the Human

Music in Arts-Based Research and Depth Psychology Shara Brun, 2024-03-19 This book addresses an existing gap in academic arts based research whereby rather than exploring music as an effective therapeutic intervention it is explored as the central medium or tool of inquiry Integrating heuristic hermeneutic and arts based grounded theory methodologies the book conceptualizes and describes the practice of Sonic Stretching as an in depth example of using sound as an effective and systematic research tool Stemming from evidence based insights the book explores and explains ways in which music and sound can be utilized in arts based research ABR in all disciplines as opposed to only being used among professional musicians and those operating within music studies It points to some of the obstacles that have previously prevented this from happening more broadly and in doing so aims to help bridge the conspicuous gap in ABR studies where music and sonic imagination should be Offering a clear and well presented example for integrating music and sound into processes of depth psychological inquiry and addressing the impact of colonialization upon embodied knowledge in music and academic research it will appeal to scholars and researchers working at the intersection of psychology music studies education social justice and research methods
