Republic Vi Trans Shorey:

Christian Grace and Pagan Virtue J. Warren Smith, 2011-01-27 Warren Smith examines the neglected biblical liturgical and theological foundations of Ambrose's thought on ethics. Earlier studies have found little that was distinctively Christian in Ambrose's image of the virtuous person. Smith shows that although like the pagans he emphasized moderation, courage, justice, and prudence for Ambrose, these characteristics were shaped by the church's beliefs about God's salvific economy.

Hagia Sophia and the Byzantine Aesthetic Experience Nadine Schibille, 2016-04-22 Paramount in the shaping of early Byzantine identity was the construction of the church of Hagia Sophia in Constantinople 532-537 CE. This book examines the edifice from the perspective of aesthetics to define the concept of beauty and the meaning of art in early Byzantium. Byzantine aesthetic thought is re-evaluated against late antique Neoplatonism and the writings of Pseudo-Dionysius that offer fundamental paradigms for the late antique attitude towards art and beauty. These metaphysical concepts of aesthetics are ultimately grounded in experiences of sensation and perception and reflect the ways in which the world and reality were perceived and grasped, signifying the cultural identity of early Byzantium. There are different types of aesthetic data: those present in the aesthetic object and those found in aesthetic responses to the object. This study looks at the aesthetic data embodied in the sixth-century architectural structure and interior decoration of Hagia Sophia as well as in literary responses (ekphrasis) to the building. The purpose of the Byzantine ekphrasis was to convey by verbal means the same effects that the artefact itself would have caused. A literary analysis of these rhetorical descriptions recaptures the Byzantine perception and expectations and at the same time reveals the cognitive processes triggered by the Great Church. The central aesthetic feature that emerges from sixth-century ekphrasis of Hagia Sophia is that of light. Light is described as the decisive element in the experience of the sacred space and light is simultaneously associated with the notion of wisdom. It is argued that the concepts of light and wisdom are interwoven programmatic elements that underlie the unique architecture and non-figurative decoration of Hagia Sophia. A similar concern for the phenomenon of light and its epistemological dimension is reflected in other contemporary monuments testifying to the pervasiveness of these aesthetic values in early Byzantium.

From the Ancient Near East to Christian Byzantium Mario Baghos, 2021-03-11 This book combines concepts from the history of religions with Byzantine studies in its assessments of kings, symbols, and cities in a diachronic and cross-cultural analysis. The work attests firstly that the symbolic art and architecture of ancient cities commissioned by their monarchs, expressing their relationship with their gods, show us that religiosity was inherent to such enterprises. It also demonstrates that what transpired from the first cities in history to Byzantine Christendom is the gradual replacement of the pagan ruler cult, which was inherent to city building in antiquity, with the ruler becoming subordinate to Christ, exemplified by representations of the latter as the Master of All (Pantokrator). Beginning in Mesopotamia, the book continues with an analysis of city building by rulers in Egypt, Greece, and Rome, before addressing Judaism, specifically the city of Jerusalem, and Christianity as shifting the emphasis away from pagan gods and rulers to monotheistic perceptions of God as elevated above worldly kings. It concludes with an assessment of Christian Rome and Constantinople as typifying the evolution from the ancient and classical world to Christendom.

Aristotle's Voice Jasper Neel, 2013-11-14 In this book Jasper Neel is sure to be controversial. Resituating of Aristotle centers around three questions that have been constants in his twenty-two years of teaching experience: What does it mean to teach writing? What should one know before teaching writing? And if there is such a thing as research in the teaching of writing, what is it? Believing that all composition teachers are situated politically and socially both as part of the institution in which they teach and as beings with lived histories, Neel examines his own life and the life of composition studies as a discipline in the context of Aristotle. Neel first situates the Rhetoric as a political document; he then situates the Rhetoric in the Aristotelian system and describes how professional discourse came to know itself through Aristotle's way of studying the world. Finally, he examines the operation of the Rhetoric inside itself before arguing the need to turn to Aristotle's notion of sophistry as a way of negating his system. By pointing out the connections among Aristotelian rhetoric, the contemporary university, and the contemporary writing teacher, Neel shows that Aristotle's frightening social theories are as alive today as are Aristotelian notions of discourse. Neel explains that by their very nature, teachers must speak with a professional voice. It is through showing how to hear one's professional voice that Neel explores the notion of professional discourse that originates with Aristotle. In maintaining that one must pay a high price in order to speak through Aristotle's theory or to assume the role of professional, he argues that no neutral ground exists either for pedagogy or for the analysis of pedagogy. Neel concludes this discussion by proposing that Aristotelian sophistry is both an antidote to Aristotelian racism, sexism, and bigotry and a way of allowing Aristotelian categories of discourse to remain useful. Finally, as an Aristotelian, a teacher, and a writer, Neel responds both to Aristotle and to professionalism by rethinking the influence of the past and reviving the voice of Aristotelian sophistry.

The Theatre of Imagining Ulla Kallenbach, 2018-07-13 This book is the first comprehensive analysis of the fascinating and strikingly diverse history of imagination in the context of theatre and drama. Key questions that the book explores are: How do spectators engage with the drama in performance, and how does the historical context influence the dramaturgy of imagination? In addition to offering a study of the cultural history and theory of imagination in a European context, including its philosophical, physiological, cultural, and political implications, the book examines the cultural enactment of imagination in the drama text and offers practical strategies for analyzing the aesthetic practice of imagination in drama texts. It covers the early modern to the late modernist period and includes three in-depth case studies: William Shakespeare's Macbeth c. 1606, Henrik Ibsen's A Doll's House 1879, and Eugène Ionesco's The Killer 1957.

Heidegger, Work, and Being Todd S. Mei, 2009-11-01 This title provides a novel interpretation of the Aristotelian understanding of work in light of the philosophy of Martin Heidegger.

collection of authoritative papers from across the Neoplatonic and Eastern Christian traditions It is only recently that scholars have started to take notice of the Eastern Christian engagement with late antique philosophical texts This volume builds upon this new interest in order to show the dynamic nature of Neoplatonism and Eastern Christianity at a time when both faced a variety of challenges The legacy of Greek philosophy in the Christian East fills the gap between the schools of Alexandria and Baghdad and brings into focus the intellectual history of the period The aim of the volume is to stimulate interest in late antique philosophy and its reception in the Christian East Diagonal Advance Anthony D.

Baker, 2013-01-25 Reveals how the divorce of divine perfection from human perfection undergirds the divorce of theology and philosophy This work shows how these discourses were originally joined by the Church Fathers to how they were separated in the Middle Ages and modern Anglicanism to how they can be rejoined The Relationship of Philosophy to Religion
