Rere Atu Taku Manu:

Rere Atu, Taku Manu! Jenifer Curnow, Ngapare Kaihine Hopa, Jane McRae, 2002 This work is the result of a three year research and translation project into 19th and early 20th century Maori language newspapers Romantic Literature and the Colonised World Nikki Hessel, 2018-02-15 This book considers indigenous language translations of Romantic texts in the British colonies It argues that these translations uncover a latent discourse around colonisation in the original English texts Focusing on poems by William Wordsworth John Keats Felicia Hemans and Robert Burns and on Walter Scott's Ivanhoe it provides the first scholarly insight into the reception of major Romantic authors in indigenous languages and makes a major contribution to the study of global Romanticism and its colonial heritage The book demonstrates the ways in which colonial controversies around prayer song hospitality naming mapping architecture and medicine are drawn out by translators to make connections between Romantic literature its preoccupations and debates in the nineteenth and early twentieth century colonial worlds The Cambridge History of the Pacific Ocean: Volume 2, The Pacific Ocean since 1800 Anne Perez Hattori, Jane Samson, 2023-01-05 Volume II of The Cambridge History of the Pacific Ocean focuses on the latest era of Pacific history examining the period from 1800 to the present day This volume discusses advances and emerging trends in the historiography of the colonial era before outlining the main themes of the twentieth century when the idea of a Pacific centred century emerged It concludes by exploring how history and the past inform preparations for the emerging challenges of the future These essays emphasise the importance of understanding how the postcolonial period shaped the modern Pacific and its historians Colonial Literature and the Native Author Jane Stafford, 2016-12-20 This book is the first study of writers who are both Victorian and indigenous who have been educated in and write in terms of Victorian literary conventions but whose indigenous affiliation is part of their literary personae and subject matter What happens when the colonised indigenous or native subject learns to write in the literary language of empire If the romanticised subject of colonial literature becomes the author is a new kind of writing produced or does the native author conform to the models of the coloniser By investigating the ways that nineteenth century concerns are adopted accommodated rewritten challenged re inscribed confronted or assimilated in the work of these authors this study presents a novel examination of the nature of colonial literary production and indigenous authorship as well as suggesting to the discipline of colonial and postcolonial studies a perhaps unsettling perspective with which to look at the larger patterns of Victorian cultural and literary formation Rethinking Oral History and Tradition Nepia Mahuika, 2019 For many indigenous peoples oral history is a living intergenerational phenomenon that is crucial to the transmission of our languages cultural knowledge politics and identities Indigenous oral histories are not merely traditions myths chants or superstitions but are valid historical accounts passed on vocally in various forms forums and practices Rethinking Oral History and Tradition An Indigenous Perspective provides a specific native and tribal account of the meaning form politics and practice of oral history It is a rethinking and critique of the popular and powerful ideas that now populate and define the fields of oral history and tradition which have in the process displaced indigenous perspectives This book drawing on indigenous voices explores the overlaps and differences between the studies of oral history and oral tradition and urges scholars in both disciplines to revisit the way their fields think about orality oral history methods transmission narrative power ethics oral history theories and politics Indigenous knowledge and experience holds important contributions that have the potential to expand and develop robust academic thinking in the study of both oral history and tradition
