migrant Philipina domestic workers in Taiwan Identity Politics and Popular Culture in Taiwan Hsin-I Sydney Yueh, 2016-12-07 In the past two decades a uniform representation of cutified femininity prevails in the Taiwanese media evidenced by the shift of Taiwan's popular cultural taste from a Chinese centered tradition to a mixed absorption from neighboring cultural capitals in the global market This book argues that the native term sajiao is the key to understand the phenomenon Originally referring to a set of persuasive tactics through imitating a spoiled child's gestures and ways of speaking to get attention or material goods sajiao is commonly understood to be women's weapon to manipulate men in the Mandarin speaking communities By re interpreting sajiao as a feminine tactic or the tactic of the weak the book aims to propose a feminine framework in exploring identity politics in the following three aspects the rising obsession with the immature female image in Taiwan's popular culture the adoption of the feminine communication style in native speakers everyday language and interactions and the competing discourses between dominant subordinate central peripheral global local and Chinese Taiwanese in shaping the identity politics in current Taiwanese society The micro analysis of everyday language politics leads the reader to examine layers of discourse about gender identity and communication and finally to inquire how to situate or categorize Taiwan in area studies The feminine framework is a useful theoretical tool that not only deconstructs everyday communication practice but also provides a bottom up alternative angle in analyzing Taiwan's role in political economic and cultural flows in East Asia The massive imports of popular cultural products in the late 80s mainly from Japan fermented the kawaii Japanese cute type of femininity in regulating everyday communication and the perception of gender roles in Taiwan. The popularity of the baby like female image is concurrent with the simmering debate on Taiwanese identity. Taiwan offers a unique perspective for observing identity politics because it still holds an undetermined status in the international community. The collective uncertainty about the island's future and the diminishing voice in the international society become the backdrop for the growth of defining, interpreting and appropriating sajiao elements in the popular culture. This book offers an in depth examination of the interplay among local historical contexts, cross border capitalist exchange and everyday communication that shapes the dialogism of Taiwanese identity.

Translation of Contemporary Taiwan Literature in a Cross-Cultural Context Szu-Wen Kung, 2021-03-01. Translation of Contemporary Taiwan Literature in a Cross Cultural Context explores the social, cultural and linguistic implications of translation of Taiwan literature for transnational cultural exchange. It demonstrates principally how asymmetrical cultural relationships, mediation processes and ideologies of the translation players constitute the culture specific translation activity as a highly contested site where translation can reconstruct and rewrite the literature and the culture it represents. Four main theoretical themes are explored in relation to such translation activity: sociological studies, cultural and rewriting studies, English as a lingua franca and social and performative linguistics. These offer insightful perspectives on the translation as an interpretive encounter between not only two languages, two cultural systems and assumptions taking place but also among various translation mediators. This book will be useful to scholars and students working on translation and cultural studies, China/Taiwan literature studies and literature studies in cross cultural contexts.

Representing Atrocity in Taiwan Sylvia Li-chun Lin, 2007. In 1945 Taiwan was placed under the administrative control of the Republic of China and after two years accusations of corruption and a failing economy sparked a local protest that was brutally quashed by the Kuomintang government. The February Twenty Eighth or 2/28 Incident led to four decades of martial law that became known as the White Terror. During this period talk of 2/28 was forbidden and all dissent violently suppressed but since the lifting of martial law in 1987 this long buried history has been revisited through commemoration and narrative cinema and remembrance. Drawing on a wealth of secondary theoretical material as well as her own original research, Sylvia Li-chun Lin conducts a close analysis of the political narrative and ideological structures involved in the fictional and cinematic representations of the 2/28 Incident and White Terror. She assesses the role of individual and collective memory and institutionalized forgetting while underscoring the dangers of re-creating a historical past and the risks of trivialization. She also compares her findings with scholarly works on the Holocaust and the aftermath of the atomic bombings of Japan.

questioning the politics of forming public and personal memories and the political teleology of closure This is the first book to be published in English on the 2 28 Incident and White Terror and offers a valuable matrix of comparison for studying the portrayal of atrocity in a specific locale Taiwan Travelogue Shuang-zi Yang, 2024-11-12 WINNER OF THE 2024
