People's Republic of China United States. Congress. Joint Economic Committee, 1972 Compendium of papers on the economic development of China covers economic policy from 1949 to 1971 the revolution for cultural change industrial development agricultural development transport population policy science and technology and the role of scientists and technicians trade and economic relations the role of China in providing economic aid etc Maps references and statistical tables John Betjeman Greg Morse, 2012 John Betjeman was undoubtedly the most popular Poet Laureate since Tennyson But beneath the thoroughly modern window on Britain that he opened during his lifetime lay the influence of his nineteenth century forbears This book explores his identity through such Victorianism via the verse of that period but also its architecture religious faith and more importantly religious doubt It was nevertheless a process which took time In the 1930s

Betjeman's work was tinted with modernism and traditionalism. He found Victorian buildings funny and wrote much in praise of the Bauhaus style even though his early poetry was peppered with Victorian references. This leaning was incorporated into a greater sense of purpose during World War 2 when he transformed himself from precious humorist into propagandist. The resulting sense of cohesion grew when the dangers of post-war urban redevelopment heightened the need to critique the present via the poetics of the past, a mood which continued up to and beyond his gaining the Laureateship in 1972. This duty proved to be a millstone so the official poems are thus explored by the author more fully than hitherto. The conclusion of looks back to Betjeman's 1960 verse autobiography Summoned by Bells which is seen as the apogee of his achievement and a snapshot of his identity. Included here is the first critical appreciation of the lyrics embodied within the text which are taken as a map of the young poet's literary growth. Larkin's 1959 question 'What exactly is Betjeman?' then leads to a final appraisal of his originality as evidenced by his glances towards postmodernism, feminism and post-colonialism. The fact is that Betjeman never quite fits in anywhere. He is always a square peg in a round hole or a round peg in a square hole, often for the sheer enjoyment of so being. In a sense his desire to be as non-conformist as a Quaker meeting house makes him a radical rather than the reactionary that his interests imply. He was a champion of beauty and the British Isles and clearly did much to make us see the worth of our Victorian forebears. Greg Morse's book highlights this important facet of his work. Railroadman's Magazine, 1974. The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1974.
