It is in fact a formidable, glittering achievement, and we do best to remember that about it is that in spite of the all-pervading spirit of Alexandria, it has, too, a tenderness and grandeur similar to works that are big enough to make a world of their own." The Times Literary Supplement 30.10.67

Durrell Re-read James M. Clawson, 2016-06-20 Reading the twelve major novels of Lawrence Durrell this study argues for their consideration as a single major project an opus marked by themes of liminality and betweenness As major texts of mid twentieth century literature repeatedly earning nominations for the Nobel Prize Durrell's work has attracted renewed critical attention since his centenary in 2012 This study shows the thematic unity of the opus in five areas First by disrupting expectations of love and death and by fashioning plural narrators works in the opus blend notions of the subject and the object Second in their use of metafictional elements the texts present themselves as neither fiction nor reality Third their approach to place and identity offers something between the naturalistic and the human centric Fourth though the texts initial concerns are engaged with understanding the past and preparing for a future they all resolve in something like the present And fifth though the novels reject many aspects of modernism they reside nevertheless between the poles of modernism and postmodernism Shared with other writers including T S Eliot and Henry Miller as early as the 1940s Durrell s plans for his major works of fiction remained consistent through the publication of the last novel in 1985 and these plans show the need to consider the twelve major works as a unitary whole □□□□□□□□ ,1976
