QUESTION ASKED: Are patients with cancer receiving appropriate nutritional screening, assessment, and interventions?

SUMMARY ANSWER: Nutrition plays a crucial role for patients with cancer; however, nutritional problems are often underprioritized, underdiagnosed, and undertreated, thereby affecting treatment outcomes and quality of life. The authors provide an evidence-based guidance focusing exclusively on the practical aspects of nutrition in oncology, which will hopefully help healthcare professionals improve patient care (Fig).

WHAT WE DID: We summarized the clinical aspects of the available evidence-based guidelines and turned them into a practical approach that may be used by healthcare professionals.

WHAT WE FOUND: If healthcare providers are aware of nutritional issues, the prevention, delay, treatment, or even reversal of sarcopenia may be feasible.

REAL-LIFE IMPLICATIONS: Prevention, early identification of patients at risk, accurate diagnosis, personalized intervention, and follow-up are cornerstones of the management of malnutrition and its consequences: sarcopenia and cachexia.
