tradition to Medea, Arab to the early colonial or pre colonial period. It specifically addresses the benefit of social research on the community and seeks ways to revolutionize and improve current research and academic processes. Covering topics such as the philosophy of science, indigenous science and Western metaphysics, this book is an essential resource for anthropologists, philosophers, sociologists, university faculty and administration students of higher education, librarians, researchers and academicians.

Classic and Contemporary Readings in Sociology Ian Marsh, Rosie Campbell, Mike Keating, 2014-05-12. Classic and Contemporary Readings in Sociology introduces the reader to sociological issues, theories and debates, providing extracts of primary source material from both classical and contemporary theorists. Theorists are examined within their historical and sociological framework and the text provides an analysis of developments in sociological thought and research. The text is divided into four main sections: Part One, Origins and Concepts, surveys the history of the discipline of sociology and examines key themes which have influenced sociological theorising and investigation in particular social control, culture and socialisation. Parts Two and Four, Sociological Theories and Sociological Research, include a number of readings from the founding theorists and investigators including Auguste Comte, Emile Durkheim, Karl Marx, Max Weber and Charles Booth, and also include more recent theoretical writing and research approaches. The focus on theory and research is extended by a selection of readings centred around the theme of Differences and Inequalities. Part Three, these readings provide students with examples of work from an area where sociological theorising and research has been widely applied.

The Process of Social Research Jeffrey C. Dixon, Royce Singleton, Bruce C. Straits, 2016. The Process of Social Research successfully meets two major challenges of teaching social science methods: to make the material interesting and accessible to students and to provide them with the tools necessary to understand, evaluate and conduct research. Authors Jeffrey C. Dixon, Royce A. Singleton Jr and Bruce C. Straits employ a conversational writing style that is engaging and student friendly. Using everyday examples to introduce chapters and clarify complex concepts, they provide current research examples on such cutting edge topics as immigration, family composition, prosecutorial misconduct, organized racism, homelessness, social inequality and education, and alcohol consumption and grades. Placing a unique emphasis on the research process, the book helps students understand the logic and mechanics of social research, giving them the tools and the power to evaluate the research of others and to conduct their own research. Beginning with the introduction, every chapter contains flowcharts of research processes. As each diagram is presented, the authors relate the specific method to the overall research process. Then over the course of the chapter or section, they flesh out each step. This way they convey information about the nuts and bolts of research while ensuring that students do not lose sight of the logic of inquiry. Comprehensive and up to date without attempting to be encyclopedic in its coverage, The Process of Social Research provides a balance between qualitative and quantitative research, taking a more integrated approach to describing the relationship between theory and research.

Social Research Methods H. Russell Bernard,2013 Bernard does an excellent job of not only showing how to practice research but also provides a detailed discussion of broader historical and philosophical contexts that are important for understanding research Being Reflexive in Critical Educational and Social Research Geoffrey Shacklock,John Smyth,1998 This book brings together a collection of case studies and readings on the subject of doing research in education It differs from other texts in taking a personal view of the experience of doing research Each author presents a reflexive account of the issues and dilemmas as they have lived through them during the undertaking of educational research The collection fills the space often referred to in critical research as the phenomenon of the missing researcher Coming from the researcher s own perspectives their positions are revealed within a wider space that can be personal political social and reflexive With this approach many issues such as ethics gender race validity reciprocity sexuality class voice empowerment authorship and readership are given a much needed airing Taking Sides in Social Research Martyn Hammersley,2005-08-12 In the past it was generally taken for granted that the goal of social research was the production of objective knowledge and that this required a commitment to value neutrality In more recent times however both these ideals have come to be challenged and it is often argued that all research is inevitably political in its assumptions and effects In this major contribution to the debate Martyn Hammersley assesses the arguments from the classic and still influential contributions of C Wright Mills Howard Becker and Alvin Gouldner to the present day He concludes that the case for partisanship is not convincing and that an intelligent and sceptical commitment to the principles of objectivity and value neutrality must remain an essential feature of research Reading Ethnographic Research Martyn Hammersley,2016-04-15 Provides a practical guide to the critical reading of ethnographic studies discussing in detail how to identify the main arguments and what is involved in making an assessment of such studies
