Renovation Or Revolution New Territorial Politics In Ireland And United Kingdom:

Renovation Or Revolution? John Coakley, Brigid Laffan, Jennifer Todd, 2005 Renovation or Revolution opens a new field of British Irish studies beyond devolution studies in the United Kingdom and beyond Northern Ireland conflict studies. It examines the redistributions of power and the new networks of policy making on these islands. It analyses the extent to which they represent the emergence of a new regional British Irish political arena within a European and international context. It asks whether we are seeing an emergent revolution in the territorial politics of these islands or whether the changes are simply renovations of an older territorial pattern. The book discusses in detail the implementation of constitutional reforms in Scotland, Wales, England, Northern Ireland and in British North, South, British Irish, European and international perspectives.

Political Change across Britain and Ireland Paul Gillespie, Michael Keating and Nicola McEwen, Breaking Patterns of Conflict John Coakley, Jennifer Todd, 2016-04-14 External powers commonly play a major role in efforts to break patterns of conflict and to install stable and durable peace settlements. They do this not just by underwriting security arrangements but also by being available to intervene at critical moments. This book considers the special but by no means unique case where the conflict is located in a region of one state over which a neighbouring state has had a territorial claim itself part of the legacy of a quasi colonial relationship Northern Ireland. This book focuses on the changes in the British state whose writ of course extends over Northern Ireland but also the Irish state which surrendered a strong formal but ineffective claim to jurisdiction over Northern Ireland for the reality of a significant voice in its political future. These were ultimately to facilitate the process of settlement leading to the 1998 Good Friday Agreement and the later transformation of institutions and political relations in Northern Ireland and in these islands more generally. It innovates by using a new oral archive built up over the past decade. The book explores the interrelations of different levels of state and institutional change. These interrelations range from the broadest concepts of sovereignty and ideology to the actual impact of large changes on particular institutions and laws. They also extend over elite political assumptions and strategies and inter state coordination practices. This book was published as a special issue of Irish Political Studies. Dynamics of Political Change in Ireland

Niall Ó Dochartaigh, Katy Hayward, Elizabeth Meehan, 2016-12-19 This book examines the interrelated dynamics of political action, ideology and state structures in Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland, emphasising the wider UK and European contexts in which they are nested. It makes a significant and unique contribution to wider European and international debates over state and nation and contested borders, looking at the dialectic between political action and institutions, examining party politics, ideological struggle and institutional change. It goes beyond the binary approaches to Irish politics and looks at the deep shifts associated with major socio political changes such as immigration, gender equality and civil society activism. Interdisciplinary in approach, it includes contributions from across history, law, sociology and political science and draws on a rich body of knowledge and original research data. This text will be of key interest to students and scholars of Irish Politics.

Society and History British Politics Peace and Conflict studies Nationalism and more broadly to European Politics The Europeanization of Party Politics in Ireland, North and South Katy Hayward, Mary Murphy, 2013-10-31 Ireland's relationship with the European Union has been determined by the behaviour actions and discourse of political parties This book examines this impact through an in depth analysis of the Europeanization of party politics in the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland First it presents original research on cross cutting issues that have featured in political debates about European integration including referendum campaigns on EU treaties Irish neutrality and party policy positions on the EU Secondly it is the first book of its kind to examine in detail how each of the main parties on the island of Ireland has adapted to EU membership In doing so it both tests the thesis of Europeanization and deepens understanding of the impact that EU membership can have on national and sub national party politics What this study reveals is that while Europeanization is clearly evident in all parties in Ireland including those most critical of European integration its influence has been strictly curtailed We argue that the effects of Europeanization in Irish party politics have been limited by enduring resistance to and conditions placed upon EU influence in particular policy areas the importance of pragmatism and sub national priorities in shaping parties approaches to European integration and the fact that engagement with the EU continues to be a predominantly elite led process This book was published as a special issue of Irish Political Studies The Role of Parties in Twenty-First Century Politics Luciano Bardi, Stefano Bartolini, Alexander H. Treschel, 2017-10-02 For a long time analyses of political parties were framed within the usual context of democracy and of the historical transformation of the forms of democratic government More recently several authors among which eminently Peter Mair progressively began to question the relationship between the normative definition of democratic government and the actual operation of parties These new concerns are well epitomized by the tension between responsiveness and responsibility that gives the title to this book While classic democratic theory sees as desirable that parties in government and in opposition too are sympathetically responsive to their supporters first and more generally to public opinion and at the same time responsible toward the internal and international systemic constraints and compatibilities these two roles seem to have become more difficult to reconcile and even increasingly incompatible The chapters of this book explore the tensions between responsiveness and responsibility decomposing the international sources from the domestic sources and discussing the options and the possibilities for political parties to continue to play the role of provider of political stability in rapidly changing domestic and international environments This book was published as a special issue of West European Politics The European Union and the Northern Ireland Peace Process Giada Lagana, 2020-10-26 This book examines the economic and political contributions of the EU to the Northern Ireland peace process tracing the genesis of EU involvement since 1979 and analysing how it acted as an arena in which to foster dialogue and positive cooperation Based on extensive archival research and exclusive elite interviews this volume provides the first comprehensive study of how the EU contributed to the reconfiguration of Northern Ireland from a site of conflict to a site of conflict amelioration and peace building The book demonstrates that the relationship between Northern Ireland and the EU has been much more significant in the peace process than previously suggested
