Reopening The Western Frontierfrom High Country News

Debra L. Donahue

Reopening The Western Frontier from High Country News:

The Western Range Revisited Debra L. Donahue, 1999 Livestock grazing is the most widespread commercial use of federal public lands. The image of a herd grazing on Bureau of Land Management or U S Forest Service lands is so traditional that many view this use as central to the history and culture of the West. Yet the grazing program costs far more to administer than it generates in revenues and grazing affects all other uses of public lands causing potentially irreversible damage to native wildlife and vegetation. The Western Range Revisited proposes a landscape level strategy for conserving native biological diversity on federal rangelands, a strategy based chiefly on removing livestock from large tracts of arid BLM lands in ten western states: Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wyoming. Drawing from range ecology, conservation biology, law, and economics, Debra L. Donahue examines the history of federal grazing policy and the current debate on federal multiple use, sustained yield policies, and changing priorities for our public lands. Donahue, a lawyer and wildlife biologist, uses existing laws and regulations, historical documents, economic statistics, and current scientific thinking to make a strong case for a land management strategy that has been until now unthinkable. A groundbreaking interdisciplinary work, The Western Range Revisited demonstrates that conserving biodiversity by eliminating or reducing livestock grazing makes economic sense, is ecologically expedient, and can be achieved under current law.

Shaping the Sierra Timothy P. Duane, 1999 Timothy P. Duane documents the impact of rapid population growth on the culture, economy, and ecology of the Sierra Nevada since the late 1960s. He also recommends innovative policies for mitigating the negative effects of future population growth in this spectacular but threatened region, as well as throughout the rural West.

Race to Save the Tropics Robert Goodland, 2013-04-10 Race to Save the Tropics documents the conflict between economic development and protection of biological diversity in tropical countries.

Fighting Toxics Barry National Toxics Campaign, 2013-04-16 Fighting Toxics is a step by step guide illustrating how to investigate the toxic hazards that may exist in your community, how to determine the risks they pose to your health, and how to launch an effective campaign to eliminate them.

When Indians Became Cowboys Peter Iverson, 1994 Focusing on the northern plains and the Southwest, Iverson traces the rise and fall of individual and tribal cattle industries against the backdrop of changing federal Indian policies. He describes the Indian Bureau's inability to recognize that most nineteenth century reservations were better suited to ranching than farming. Even though allotment and leasing stifled ranching, livestock became symbols and ranching a new means of resisting, adapting, and living for remaining Native.

Creating Successful Communities Luther Propst, Stephen F. Harper, Michael The Conservation Foundation, Michael Mantell, 2012-07-11 Creating Successful Communities is a practical compendium of techniques for effective land use and growth management. It offers a framework for land use decisionmaking and growth management techniques for protecting key resources such as agricultural land, open space, historic and cultural structure, aesthetics, and rivers and wetlands, as well as ways to organize effectively. The
