Abstract

Background

Media plays a vital role in shaping public policies and opinions through disseminating health-related information. This study aims at exploring the role of media in informing health policies in Lebanon, identifying the factors influencing health reporting and investigating the role of evidence in health journalism and the quality of health reporting. It also identifies strategies to enhance the use of evidence in health journalism and improve the quality of health reporting.

Methods

Media analysis was conducted to assess the way media reports on health-related issues and the quality of reporting using a quality assessment tool. Semi-structured interviews were also conducted with 27 journalists, researchers and policymakers to explore their perception on the role of media in health policymaking and the factors influencing health reporting. In addition, a validation workshop was conducted.

Results

Out of 1,279 health-related news articles identified, 318 articles used certain type of evidence to report health issues 39.8% of which relied on experts' opinions as their source of evidence while only 5.9% referenced peer-reviewed research studies. The quality of health reporting was judged to be low based on a quality assessment tool consisting of a set of ten criteria. Journalists raised concerns about issues impeding them from referring to evidence. Journalists also reported difficulties with the investigative health journalism. Policymakers

Reporting For The Print Media:

Reporting for the Print Media Fred Fedler, 1973 Reporting Mr. Rohit Manglik, 2023-04-23 Techniques and principles of news reporting across media platforms Jews and Muslims in German Print Media Katharina F. Gallant, Jolanda van der Noll, 2024-02-27 This book uses a comparative research design to analyze the reporting on the Jewish minority and the Muslim minority in German newspapers from 2010-2019 asking whether minorities are truly treated as equals in the reporting of the mainstream German media After providing historical and socio political context for both groups as minority populations in Germany the authors make use of qualitative and quantitative methods to examine sentiment and determine whether the media demonstrates a unifying or a well differentiated portrayal of the two groups The findings show that reporting on these groups is not as unbiased as many in Germany believe Drawing on frameworks including the needs based model of reconciliation the revised integrated threat theory and the model of acculturation strategies the book then discusses the implications for both journalistic reporting and broader social policies in support of a constructive encounter of dominant and non dominant groups in a diverse society This book will be of interest to scholars and students in the field of migration integration and intergroup relations as well as those in communication media studies and discourse analysis Print Journalism Charanjit Ahuja, 2016-03-17 Welcome to the world of journalism There are not many books that can serve as useful guides to the students of journalism and more so for students of print journalism In fact as one involved in teaching of journalism alongside working as a full time journalist we felt that teaching at journalism schools was completely bereft of practice and there was more emphasis on theoretical part It is this lacuna that two of us with experience of working with national dailies have tried to fill This book is a complete book of print journalism as authors have devoted special chapters on print journalism what news is news reporting feature and middle writing writing of headlines and intros inverted pyramid style of writing developmental journalism investigative journalism business journalism glossary of newspaper terms press laws and self regulation structure and departments of a newspaper and yoga and spirituality for more positivity in mass media Written in an easy to understand manner this book can do wonders for you and would be your companion for years to come All the best Charanjit Ahuja and Bharat Hiteshi Reporting for the Media Fred Fedler, 2005 Grounded in the basics grammar news writing style and traditional story structures this title introduces students to what reporters do engage the world around them generate story ideas gather information and write a story It addresses topics such as broadcast and convergence taking into account the multimedia nature of journalism Print Media and Broadcast Journalism Cameron Keith, 2018-06-29 Broadcast Journalism is increasingly attracting young men and women who take up the subject for intensive study in schools of journalism in the universities and in institutions of mass communication In fact media are concerned with various forms into which the message is placed written and oral as used for transmitting messages This book presents a vivid account of the art of mass media and journalism Certainly this will prove an ideal handbook for learners aspirants and working journalists Modern mass media journalism has reached the state of electronic age All latest developments are categorically described in this book Today media related programmers departments schools and colleges go by such names as journalism journalism and mass communication mass media media studies communications communication and mass media and a variety of other names The book is written in a simple style and makes it easy for both the fresh entrant and the practitioner of the craft to understand what the author propounds It covers all aspects of newswriting for the broadcast media and emphasises the need to understand the point of the audience Just the Facts David T.Z. Mindich,1998 If American journalism were a religion as it has been called then its supreme deity would be objectivity The high priests of the profession worship the concept while the iconoclasts of advocacy journalism new journalism and cyberjournalism consider objectivity a golden calf Meanwhile a groundswell of tabloids and talk shows and the increasing infringement of market concerns make a renewed discussion of the validity possibility and aim of objectivity a crucial pursuit David T Z Mindich reaches back to the nineteenth century to recover the lost history and meaning of this central tenet of American journalism His book draws on high profile cases showing the degree to which journalism and its evolving commitment to objectivity altered and in some cases limited the public s understanding of events and issues Journalism in the Digital Age John Herbert,1999-11-03 Provides the practical techniques and theoretical knowledge that underpin the fundamental skills of a journalist It also takes a highly modern approach as the convergence of broadcast print and online media require the learning of new skills and methods The book is written from an international perspective with examples from around the world in recognition of the global marketplace for today s media This is an essential text for students on journalism courses and professionals looking for a reference that covers the skill technology and knowledge required for a digital and converged media age The book s essence lies in the way essential theories such as ethics and law are woven into practical newsgathering and reporting techniques as well as advice on management skills for journalists providing the wide intellectual foundation which gives credibility to reporting Sustainability Reporting in Central and Eastern European Companies Péter Horváth,Judith M. Pütter,2017-06-12 This collection of expert articles highlights the standards and practices concerning sustainability reporting among companies in Central and Eastern Europe CEE Due to the growing interest in corporate social responsibility issues sustainability reporting has become increasingly common among businesses that claim to adhere to certain social environmental and economic standards While it can be observed that sustainability reporting is widely practiced in Western and Northern European countries only few studies have been conducted on this topic in the CEE region Drawing on a major empirical study involving researchers from 10 different CEE countries this book addresses the status quo of sustainability reporting outlines future prospects and provides essential recommendations for practitioners International Sports Press Survey 2011 Thomas Horky,Jörg-Uwe Nieland,2013-10-08 The International Sports Press Survey 2011 is a comparative study on the quality of sports reporting in print media The editors Thomas Horky and Jörg Uwe Nieland present an analysis of data from 22 countries and add more specific research in 14 selected country studies The world's largest study of its kind helps to identify similarities and differences in sports reporting The results are placed in the context of the print media crisis and conclusions are drawn to deal with the new challenges for sports journalism
