Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1983

The USA 1917-45 Doug Willoughby, Susan Willoughby, 2000 The USA 1917-1945 covers the USA during the period of boom and bust and the attempts by Roosevelt to end the depression

Herbert Hoover and the Commodification of Middle-Class America Edward Gale Agran, 2016-08-15 Herbert Hoover rose from a rudimentary background to establish himself as a self-made millionaire and leading progressive reformer. Until the disaster that hit the nation in 1929 Hoover was known globally as the Great Humanitarian who had saved the lives of scores of millions of Europeans and Asians during and following WWI. As Secretary of Commerce through the twenties the Great Engineer constructed, tooled, and fine-tuned the most powerful economy in the world. Hoover was celebrated as a representative product of America's rise to global domination and a formidable voice for progressivism who could finish the job in the White House. The Depression was Hoover's undoing, but historians recognize they must take account of his considerable contributions to the creation of twentieth-century America. As we learn more of that America Hoover makes more sense. With due consideration of Hoover's accomplishments one can further understand the construction of the American industrial and corporate economy, progressivism, and the New Deal and political posturing throughout the century. Equally significant one can comprehend twentieth-century cash box culture and Hoover's formidable contributions as a public servant to the commodification of American life. He endeavored to establish that all could fulfill a secure middle-class life in essence, achieve the American Dream. This concept in part was created by Hoover, who also was considered one of the nation's public relations geniuses. The political establishment continues to build upon the social and cultural foundation he laid. That foundation, while under stress, remains fundamentally sound as the nation enters the twenty-first century. The criticisms rained down upon American materialism echo dangers Hoover warned against. He subscribed to the maxim that a genuinely good society is not one premised upon material values; it is established upon a widely distributed sense of well-being grounded in service and compassion. Hoover never lost sight of the imperative of selflessness for the good of others, the nation, and oneself within an individualistically driven society rich in comforts and security. He sedulously worked to create a middle-class identity which spoke to material well-being and fundamental decency. A true believer, Herbert Clark Hoover energetically embraced the American Promise.

The Rise of American High School Sports and the Search for Control Robert Pruter, 2013-08-29 Nearly half of all American high school students participate in sports teams. With a total of 7.6 million participants as of 2008, this makes the high school sports program in America the largest organized sports program in the world. Pruter's work traces the history of high school sports from the student-led athletic clubs of the 1800s through to the establishment of educator control of high school sports under a national federation by the 1930s. Pruter's research serves not only to highlight this rich history but also to provide new perspectives on how high school sports became the arena by which Americans fought for some of the most contentious issues in society such as race immigration and Americanization gender roles religious conflict the role of the military in democracy and the commercial exploitation of our youth Sagebrush Statesman: Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada Loren Briggs Chan,1973 Marion Butler and American Populism James Logan Hunt,2003 This first full biography of North Carolina s leading Populist Marion Butler 1863 1938 details his leadership and explores his connections to the history of the Farmers Alliance Populism and progressivism
