Awakening Children's Minds Laura E. Berk, 2004 Based on the most recent contemporary research this is a wide ranging and practical guide to parenthood and early childhood education 7 halftones

Young Minds in Social Worlds Katherine Nelson, 2010-03-30 Katherine Nelson re centers developmental psychology with a revived emphasis on development and change rather than foundations and continuity She argues that children be seen not as scientists but as members of a community of minds striving not only to make sense but also to share meanings with others A child is always part of a social world yet the child's experience is private So Nelson argues we must study children in the context of the relationships interactive language and culture of their everyday lives Nelson draws philosophically from pragmatism and phenomenology and empirically from a range of developmental research

Skeptical of work that focuses on presumed innate abilities and the close fit of child and adult forms of cognition her dynamic framework takes into account whole systems developing over time presenting a coherent account of social cognitive and linguistic development in the first five years of life Nelson argues that a child's entrance into the community of minds is a slow gradual process with enormous consequences for child development and the adults that they become Original deeply scholarly and trenchant Young Minds in Social Worlds will inspire a new generation of developmental psychologists

The Science of Stories János László, 2008-06-30 The Science of Stories explores the role narrative plays in human life Supported by in depth research the book demonstrates how the ways in which people tell their stories can be indicative of how they construct their worlds and their own identities Based on linguistic analysis and computer technology Laszlo offers an innovative methodology which aims to uncover underlying psychological processes in narrative texts The reader is presented with a theoretical framework along with a series of studies which explore the way a systematic linguistic analysis of narrative discourse can lead to a scientific study of identity construction both individual and group The book gives a critical overview of earlier narrative theories and summarizes previous scientific attempts to uncover relationships between language and personality It also deals with social memory and group identity various narrative forms of historical representations history books folk narratives historical novels are analyzed as to how they construct the past of a nation The Science of Stories is the first book to build a bridge between scientific and hermeneutic studies of narratives As such it will be of great interest to a diverse spectrum of readers in social science and the liberal arts including those in the fields of cognitive science social psychology linguistics philosophy literary studies and history

Researching Children's Experience Sheila Greene, Diane Hogan, 2005-01-13 Strongly recommended as it provides a very useful overview of a range of methods mainly textual for exploring children's experiences These accounts are placed well in the broader conceptual frameworks concerning both methodologies and ethical considerations Educational Review How should the researcher approach the sensitive subject of the child What are the ethical issues involved in researching children's experiences In essays written by a collection of key international authors Researching Children's Experience addresses these questions and examines up to date methodological and conceptual approaches to researching children This book is a practical comprehensive and interdisciplinary guide for advanced students and researchers exploring a range of studies and the theoretical and ethical motivations behind them The book is divided into three coherent sections Conceptual methodological and ethical issues in researching children's experiences Methods for conducting research with children The generation and analysis of text Researching Children's Experience provides examples of how researchers from a variety of social science perspectives have set about carrying out research into children's experience Useful to students embarking on a research project and to experienced researchers wishing to explore new methods Greene and Hogan's book is an essential addition to anyone doing research on children It will be especially useful to those in developmental psychology education nursing and other disciplines interested in studying children's experience Multiple Perspectives on Play in Early Childhood Education Olivia N. Saracho, Bernard Spodek, 1998-01-15 Play has been part of early childhood programs since the initial kindergarten developed by Friedrich Froebel more than one hundred and fifty years ago While research shows that most teachers value children's play they often do not know how to guide that play to make it more educational Too often in reflecting the value of child initiated activities teachers set the stage for children's play observe it but hesitate to intervene in that play They may fear that to intervene is to create a developmentally inappropriate set of educational practices However the lack of intervention may limit the educational outcomes of play Meanwhile a large body of research exists on different forms of children's play in educational settings that could inform teachers of young children and help them to improve their practice and support more educational play Saracho and Spodek bring together much of that research in an accessible volume for early childhood teachers and teacher educators

Autobiographical Memory and the Construction of a Narrative Self Robyn Fivush, Catherine A. Haden, 2003 First Published in 2003 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company

Beyond Observations Susanne Garvis, Elin Eriksen Ødegaard, Narelle Lemon, 2015-01-01 This book provides important insights into narratives and young children It is structured to help others learn more about the importance of narrative approaches and early childhood education The first section of the book explores the concept of narrative across the current research field The second section explores a range of different narrative methods related to young children Readers will discover how narrative methods empower children to be heard and respected by adults They will also discover the importance of narrative methods in allowing a sharing of understanding knowledge and trust in contemporary times Overall the book aims to encourage readers to critically reflect on new ways of thinking about contemporary research and young children

Narrative Constellations Susanne Garvis, 2015-07-23 Narrative research in contemporary times can free social scientists from the rhetorical forms Emihovich 1995 that alienate children and families from their own traditions Through the use of narrative we are able to recognise the power of subjectivity in allowing open dialogue and co construction of meaning Becoming comfortable with narrative research also means accepting ideas that the world has no fixed rules for assigning behaviour Emihovich 1995 This means that open dialogue is required to build consensus around shared meaning and to ensure the inclusion of multiple voices The book begins with a theoretical overview of narrative genre before focusing on narrative constellations Three constellations are then shared with the reader The final chapter provides ideas about the future of narrative constellation in research and the impact constellations can have for future policy and practice It is hoped that the reader develops a better understanding of narrative ways and begins to see the potential of narrative constellations in the research genre Dr Susanne Garvis is a professor of child and youth studies at the University of Gothenburg Sweden She has previously worked in Australian universities and is an adjunct academic with Griffith University Australia Professor Garvis has experience with narrative approaches in early childhood education and care She has researched the lives of teachers families and children She is particularly interested in representations of lived experience and the power of stories in research

The Development of the Mediated Mind Joan M. Lucariello, Judith A. Hudson, Robyn Fivush, Patricia J. Bauer, 2004-07-19

This volume is a festschrift for Katherine Nelson an NYU professor who was a pioneer in infant perception and memory The mediated mind is a term coined by Dr Nelson and it refers to how cognitive development is mediated by the sociocultural context including language and social interaction The impact of Nelson s views on the sociocultural basis of cognition and her functionalist perspective on cognitive development are evident in the collection of chapters in this book The contributors all leaders in the field of cognitive development examine ways in which cognition is embedded in everyday meaningful activities and the role of social context and cultural symbol systems such as language and text influence children s developing concepts and thought The concept of the mediated mind is examined from a variety of perspectives including research in concept development memory development language learning the development of literacy narrative analysis and children s theory of mind The significant contribution of this volume is that it addresses all aspects of the mediated mind Memory both autobiographical and event semantic theory of mind mental representation temporality narrative and metalinguistic awareness comprise the chapter topics The breadth of topics represented is a tribute to the impact Nelson s vision has on many developmental domains The contributors acknowledge and honor her work Her theory and research paved the way for the advances in understanding a mediated mind that are evident and that will continue to shape notions of how the human mind develops and evolves within a social interactive world
