Alexander, Notes on the Synthesis of Form Masataka Banno, 1964 Measures and Meanings of Spatial Capital Lars Marcus, 2025-02-25 How the built environment understood as spatial capital governs both everyday life in cities and urban systems more generally In an age of social and environmental crises we need to critically rethink the role of the built environment and how best to put it to work Measures and Meanings of Spatial Capital presents a new theory of spatial capital arguing that spatial form is essential for building resilience into highly complex urban systems Lars Marcus argues that the built environment constitutes a form of capital that enhances other forms of capital in cities such as social economic and ecological capital if designed with those goals in mind This represents an important and necessary shift in how we approach urban space in the numerous studies of cities that are conducted in a range of disciplines today such as urban sociology urban economics and urban ecology In contemporary urban studies land has oddly lost its position alongside labor and capital as one of the three fundamental production factors in economic theory but as Marcus shows misconceptions of land are at the root of social and environmental crises worldwide By defining the challenges and modeling our use of spatial form to enhance improve land and then synthesizing data into a unified theory of spatial capital Marcus provides a crucial reframing of how we can best plan and design our cities for the global challenges we are facing The New Engineer Sharon Beder, 1998 The Redundant City Norbert Kling, 2020-09-04 Dynamic processes and conflicts are at the core of the urban condition Against the background of continuous change in cities concepts and assumptions about spatial transformations have to be constantly re examined and revised Norbert Kling explores the rich body of narrative knowledge in architecture and urbanism and confronts this knowledge with an empirically grounded situational analysis of a large housing estate The outcome of this twofold research approach is the sensitising concept of the Redundant City It describes a specific form of collectively negotiated urban change

The Evolution of Designs Philip Steadman, 2008-06-03 The Evolution of Designs tells the history of the many analogies that have been made since the end of the eighteenth century between the evolution of organisms and the human production of artefacts especially buildings Early and Unpublished Writings of Christopher Alexander Howard Davis, 2022-08-17 This book brings together key works of the noted architect and architectural theorist Christopher Alexander 1936 2022 many of which have not been published before The book contains twenty five essays and other works

many chosen from the newly organized Christopher Alexander archive providing a window into the ideas and thought process of one of the most innovative architectural thinkers of the twentieth century The items span Alexander's fifty year career beginning with an early version of his PhD dissertation based on fieldwork in India continuing to fifteen years in the development of A Pattern Language one of the best selling books in the history of architecture and proceeding to the writing of The Nature of Order Alexander's four volume masterwork and beyond The writings combine theory and descriptions of practice and together support a blueprint for the development of a new humane way of building while also providing a window into the mind of an extraordinary thinker teacher and professional

Architectural Intelligence Molly Wright Steenson, 2022-11-01 Architects who engaged with cybernetics artificial intelligence and other technologies poured the foundation for digital interactivity In Architectural Intelligence Molly Wright Steenson explores the work of four architects in the 1960s and 1970s who incorporated elements of interactivity into their work Christopher Alexander Richard Saul Wurman Cedric Price and Nicholas Negroponte and the MIT Architecture Machine Group all incorporated technologies including cybernetics and artificial intelligence into their work and influenced digital design practices from the late 1980s to the present day Alexander long before his famous 1977 book A Pattern Language used computation and structure to visualize design problems Wurman popularized the notion of information architecture Price designed some of the first intelligent buildings and Negroponte experimented with the ways people experience artificial intelligence even at architectural scale Steenson investigates how these architects pushed the boundaries of architecture and how their technological experiments pushed the boundaries of technology What did computational cybernetic and artificial intelligence researchers have to gain by engaging with architects and architectural problems And what was this new space that emerged within these collaborations At times Steenson writes the architects in this book characterized themselves as anti architects and their work as anti architecture The projects Steenson examines mostly did not result in constructed buildings but rather in design processes and tools computer programs interfaces digital environments Alexander Wurman Price and Negroponte laid the foundation for many of our contemporary interactive practices from information architecture to interaction design from machine learning to smart cities
