Safety and efficacy of radiopharmaceuticals 1987 Knud Kristensen, Elisabeth Nørbygaard, 2012-12-06 Safety and Efficacy of Radiopharmaceuticals was established as a very important and comprehensive subject at the First European Symposium on Radiopharmacy and Radiopharmaceuticals in Denmark in 1983 The interest in this subject has grown considerably since then due to the growing interest among national authorities to deal with radiopharmaceuticals The introduction in recent years of nuclear medicine techniques based on radioactive labelled cells and on monoclonal antibodies has stressed the importance of a well functioning approval system for the clinical trial and use of new radiopharmaceuticals The process of transferring the experience from the non radioactive drug field into the area of radiopharmaceuticals is still ongoing International organisations such as the World Health Organisation is also including this into their quality assurance programme from both the radiopharmaceutical and the radiation hygiene point of view In order to give an up to date survey of these areas experts were invited to prepare review papers under the following headings Safety and Efficacy of Radiopharmaceuticals with Emphasis on Biological Products Radiopharmacy Radiation Hygiene Legal Aspects of the Introduction of New Radiopharmaceuticals and some selected aspects of Good Radiopharmacy Practice Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 National Library of Medicine Current which breaks with the traditional academic borders of the single disciplines Furthermore the scientific community is continually dealing with the problem of increasing the performance and at the same time complexity and costs of instruments applying more and more sophisticated technology in an effort to meet the demand for more complete and accurate clinical information The scientific program of this ASI and the qualification of the authors reveals the intrinsic complexity of the development process of the Imaging methodologies
