International Trade in East Asia Takatoshi Ito,Andrew K. Rose,2007-11-01 The practice of trading across international borders has undergone a series of changes with great consequences for the world trading community the result of new trade agreements a number of financial crises the emergence of the World Trade Organization and countless other less obvious developments In International Trade in East Asia a group of esteemed contributors provides a summary of empirical factors of international trade specifically as they pertain to East Asian countries such as China Japan Korea and Taiwan Comprised of twelve fascinating studies International Trade in East Asia highlights many of the trading practices between countries within the region as well as outside of it The contributors bring into focus some of the region s endemic and external barriers to international trade and discuss strategies for improving productivity and fostering trade relationships Studies on some of the factors that drive exports the influence of research and development the effects of foreign investment and the ramifications of different types of protectionism will particularly resonate with the financial and economic communities who are trying to keep pace with this dramatically altered landscape

China and the World Trading System Deborah Z. Cass,Brett G. Williams,George Barker,2003-03-06 China the world s sixth largest economy has recently joined the rules based international trading system What are the implications of this accession Leading scholars and practitioners from the US Europe China Australia and Japan argue that China s membership will affect the WTO s decision making dispute resolution and rule based structures It will also spur legal and economic reform have far reaching social political and distributional consequences in China facilitate a new role for China in international geo political affairs and alter the shape structure and content of the international trading system as a whole Of interest to scholars of China as well as trade lawyers and economists

Measurement of Nontariff Barriers Alan Verne Deardorff,Robert Mitchell Stern,2010-05-25 As tariffs on imports of manufactures have been reduced as a result of multi lateral trade negotiations interest in the extent to which existing nontariff barriers may distort and restrict international trade is growing Accurate and reliable measures are needed in order to address the issues involving the use and impacts of nontariff barriers This study assesses currently available methods for quantifying such barriers and makes recommendations as to those methods that can be most effectively employed The authors focus both on the conceptual issues arising in the measurement of the different types of nontariff barriers and on the applied research that has been carried out in studies prepared by country members of the OECD Pilot Group and others seeking to quantify the barriers Nontariff barriers include quotas variable levies voluntary export restraints government procurement regulations domestic subsidies and antidumping and countervailing duty measures The authors discuss the many different methods available for measuring the effects of these and other nontariff barriers Illustrative results are presented for industrial OECD countries including Australia Canada Germany Norway the European Union the United Kingdom and the United States Finally the authors offer guideline principles and recommend procedures for measuring different types of nontariff barriers Economists political scientists government officials and lawyers involved in international trade will find this an invaluable resource for understanding and measuring NTBs Alan V Deardorff and Robert M Stern are Professors of Economics and Public Policy University of Michigan

Export Success and Industrial Linkages S. Trade Liberalization and Poverty Neil McCulloch, L. Alan Winters, Xavier Cirera, 2001 Openness to trade is a key element of economic policy continuing extreme poverty in developing countries is a disgrace This Handbook examines how concerns about the world's poor should affect our attitude towards trade liberalization Part I draws on economic analysis and practical experience to construct a framework to analyse the links between trade liberalization and poverty It shows policy makers how to identify the critical features in their economies so they can ensure that the poor benefit from liberalization Part II explores the reform of particular sectors agriculture services etc and particular instruments of trade policy export subsidies anti dumping measures etc It presents an economic analysis of each type of reform shows the likely outcome for the poor and discusses the issue s status on the World Trade Organization s agenda Book jacket Institutions and Investments Jun Fu,2010-06-08 As China continues to be heralded as a rising economic power the need for an understanding of its institutional effects such as investment related policies regulations and laws on foreign direct investment increases as well Institutions and Investments employs interdisciplinary perspectives from economics business law and political science to shed light on the interaction between institutional changes and investment patterns and to form a clear picture of investment behavior as China s legal and regulatory infrastructure has developed over the reform years Organized into three main parts the book first discusses the evolution and nature of China s FDI regulatory framework Part 2 examines the various modes and variant patterns of FDI in China in the reform years Part 3 s central task is to demonstrate a systematic link between institutional changes in China s FDI regulatory framework and the changing patterns of FDI In conclusion Jun Fu finds that China has made substantial progress from a command economy to a market system but that it still has a long way to go before it truly attains a transparent and rule based system This book adds new dimensions to the scholarship on China as a growing economic power and will be of particular interest to international economists political scientists and business scholars studying China Jun Fu is Associate Professor in the School of Economics and Management Tsinghua University Issues and Options for U.S.-Japan Trade Policies Robert Mitchell Stern,2002 Addresses the central negotiating issues involving the trade policies and relations between the United States and Japan Quantifying the Impact of Technical Barriers to Trade Keith E. Maskus,John Wilson,2025-10-01 This book provides an up to date discussion of economic issues involved in analyzing regulations of product quality and performance in international trade Among the issues addressed in this collection are restrictions on genetically modified foods and pesticide use and compatibility standards for computers While such regulations may serve important goals they may also interfere with international trade flow by raising the costs of compliance This is of special concern to developing countries which have found it difficult to meet the increasingly exacting regulations imposed by the United States and Europe Keith E Maskus and John S Wilson gather prominent international trade specialists to ask whether the impacts of such regulations may be quantified systematically in order to inform the international policy debate The essays included here cover all fronts of the debate over regulatory issues and trade conflicts The discussion ranges from a review of how trade conflicts emerge and how they are managed by the international trading system to a technical analysis of the potential impact of European restraints on trade in genetically modified products to an examination of methods for estimating the costs of compliance with environmental regulations Considerable attention is paid to whether the emergence and enforcement of stronger standards among developed economies could result in diminished trade opportunities for developing countries At the same time the possibility that standards could expand market access through resolving consumer information problems is analyzed This book will appeal to international economists international relations specialists and individuals concerned about appropriate regulation of safety and health issues in the global economy Keith E Maskus is Professor of Economics University of Colorado Boulder John S Wilson is Lead Economist Development Economics Research Group The World Bank Much Ado about Culture Archibald Lloyd Keith Acheson, Christopher John Maule, 2009-10-27 Examines trade disputes between Canada and the United States over the cultural industries and proposes a way to resolve such conflicts
