Fishing Lessons Kevin M. Bailey, 2018-05-01. Fish bones in the caves of East Timor reveal that humans have systematically fished the seas for at least 42,000 years. But in recent centuries, our ancient vital relationship with the oceans has changed faster than the tides. As boats and fishing technology have evolved, traditional fishermen have been challenged both at sea and in the marketplace by large-scale fishing companies whose lower overhead and greater efficiency guarantee lower prices. In Fishing Lessons, Kevin M. Bailey captains a voyage through the deep history and present course of this sea change, a change that has seen species depleted, ecosystems devastated, and artisanal fisheries transformed into a global industry afloat with hundreds of billions of dollars per year. Bailey knows these waters, the artisanal fisheries, and their relationship with larger ocean ecology intimately. In a series of place-based portraits, he shares stories of decline and success as told by those at the ends of the long lines and hand lines, channeling us through the changing dynamics of small-scale fisheries and the sustainability issues they face, both fiscal and ecological. We encounter Paolo Vespoli and his tiny boat, the Giovanni Padre, in the Gulf of Naples; Wenche, a sea Sami, one of the indigenous fisherwomen of Norway; and many more. From salmon to abalone, the Bay of Fundy to Monterey and the Amazon, Bailey's catch is no fish tale. It is a global story casting a net across waters as vast and distinct as Puget Sound and the Chilean coast. Sailing across the world, Bailey explores the fast-shifting current of how we gather food from the sea, what we gain and what we lose with these shifts, and potential solutions for the murky passage ahead.

The Beautiful Animal Michael Lewis, 2018-06-20 Can philosophy conceive of a perfect animal Can it think of the animal as anything other than an imperfect human The book attempts to rethink the Hegelian dialectic so as to render it capable of assigning a proper place to the animal and in particular the beautiful animal and to rework the philosophy of nature so as to encompass the fossil The fossil itself teaches philosophy and in particular the dialectic how it must modify itself in order to encompass the beautiful animal in the form of what we term the fossilised dialectic resistant to the spiritualisation which will always leave the animal behind If philosophy can admit the animal in this way we might then ask what philosophy can learn from this animal that will have taken up residence in its home What does a specifically domestic animal teach us At the very least it shows us that the function we give to the furnishings of the house is not the only one and perhaps therefore that there is no single unique function In this way animals teach us the most philosophical lesson there is to see the world as it is in itself
