Roman Inveresk:

Roman Inveresk M. C. Bishop, 2002 This book is a collection of papers describing recent work on the Roman fort at Inveresk near Edinburgh and its environs The book has its origins in a seminar held at the National Museums of Scotland in 1999 organised jointly by Historic Scotland and The Society of Antiquaries of Scotland The Antonine Wall: Papers in Honour of Professor Lawrence Keppie David J. Breeze, William S. Hanson, 2020-04-03 32 papers present research on the Antonine Wall in honour of Lawrence Keppie Papers cover a wide variety of aspects the environmental and prehistoric background structure planning and construction military deployment associated artefacts and inscriptions logistics of supply the people of the Wall including womenfolk and children The Roman Or Turkish Bath: Together with Barege, Medicated, Galvanic and Hydropathic Baths James LAWRIE (M.D.), 1864 Roman Frontier Studies 2009 Nick Hodgson, Paul Bidwell, Judith Schachtmann, 2017-06-30 Proceedings of the 21st International Congress of Roman Frontier Studies LIMES XXI hosted by Tyne Wear Archives Museums Newcastle upon Tyne UK in August 2009 Proceedings ... Caledonia Romana: a descriptive account of the Roman antiquities of Scotland; preceded by an introductory view of the aspect of the country and the state of its inhabitants in the first century of the christian era; and by a summary of the historical transactions connected with the Roman occupation of North Britain Robert Stuart, 1845

Archaeologia Scotica: Or Transactions of the Society of the Antiquaries of Scotland, 1822 Archaeologia Scotica, 1822 Caledonia Romana: a Descriptive Account of the Roman Antiquities of Scotland; Preceded by an Introductory View of the Aspect of the Country and the State of Its Inhabitants in the First Century, and by a Summary of the Historical Transactions Connected with the Roman Occupation Robert STUART (Publisher, of Glasgow.), 1845 Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, 1823 Conceiving a Nation Gilbert Markus, 2017-06-29 This new edition in The New History of Scotland series replacing Alfred Smyth's Warlords and Holy Men 1984 covers the history of Scotland in the period up to 900 AD A great deal has changed in the historiography of this period in the intervening three decades an entire Pictish kingdom has moved nearly a hundred miles to the north new archaeological finds have forced us to rethink old assumptions and the writing of early medieval history is beginning to struggle out of the shadow of later medieval sources which have too often been read rather naively and without sufficient regard for their implicit ideological agenda Gilbert Markus brings a stimulating approach to studying this elusive period analysing both its litter of physical evidence as well as its literary sources what he calls luminous debris as a method of shedding light on the reality of the period In doing so he reforms our historical perceptions of what has often been dismissed as a dark age Reading Between the Lines Kenneth Brophy, 2015-10-05 Reading Between the Lines The Neolithic Cursus Monuments of Scotland is the first systematic analysis of Scotland's cursus monuments and is written by one of the foremost scholars of the Neolithic in Scotland Drawing on fifteen years of experience of cropmark interpretation as well as his involvement in several excavations of cursus monuments and contemporary sites Kenneth Brophy uncovers some of the secrets of the Neolithic landscape While outlining the physical characteristics of the cursus this book also addresses the limitations of this kind of typological description when applied to monuments which varied so remarkably in terms of materiality and size Moving beyond a morphological account Brophy considers what can be said of this diverse group of sites and how they were actually built and used in prehistory in light of several decades of aerial reconnaissance and excavation in Scotland Through a close study of the differences as well as the similarities between these structures this book offers a nuanced account of cursus monuments finally allowing this important monument type to be better understood and placed alongside others of the period Offering exciting new ways of thinking about these enigmatic yet important monuments Reading Between the Lines The Neolithic Cursus Monuments of Scotland is an essential resource for students and specialists in British prehistory providing an introduction to the Early Neolithic archaeology of lowland Scotland as well as a meditation on broader aspects of monumentality and architecture

Transactions of the Edinburgh Field Naturalists' and Microscopical Society ,1915      The Archaeology and Prehistoric Annals of Scotland Sir Daniel Wilson,2020-09-28 The zeal for Arch ological investigation which has recently manifested itself in nearly every country of Europe has been traced not without reason to the impulse which proceeded from Abbotsford Though such is not exactly the source which we might expect to give birth to the transition from profitless dilettantism to the intelligent spirit of scientific investigation yet it is unquestionable that Sir Walter Scott was the first of modern writers to teach all men this truth which looks like a truism and yet was as good as unknown to writers of history and others till so taught that the bygone ages of the world were actually filled by living men If however the impulse to the pursuit of Arch ology as a science be thus traceable to our own country neither Scotland nor England can lay claim to the merit of having been the first to recognise its true character or to develop its fruits The spirit of antiquarianism has not indeed slumbered among us It has taken form in Roxburgh Bannatyne Abbotsford and other literary Clubs producing valuable results for the use of the historian but limiting its range within the Medieval era and abandoning to isolated labourers that ampler field of research which embraces the prehistoric period of nations and belongs not to literature but to the science of Nature It was not till continental Arch ologists had shewn what legitimate induction is capable of that those of Britain were content to forsake laborious trifling and associate themselves with renewed energy of purpose to establish the study on its true footing as an indispensable link in the circle of the sciences Amid the increasing zeal for the advancement of knowledge the time appears to have at length come for the thorough elucidation of Primeval Arch ology as an element in the history of man The British Association expressly constituted for the purpose of giving a stronger impulse and a more systematic direction to scientific inquiry embraced within its original scheme no provision for the encouragement of those investigations which most directly tend to throw light on the origin and progress of the human race Physical arch ology was indeed admissible in so far as it dealt with the extinct fauna of the palaeontologist but it was practically pronounced to be without the scientific pale whenever it touched on that portion of the archæology of the globe which comprehends the history of the race of human beings to which we ourselves belong A delusive hope was indeed raised by the publication in the first volume of the Transactions of the Association of one memoir on the contributions afforded by physical and philological researches to the history of the human species but the ethnologist was doomed to disappointment During several annual meetings elaborate and valuable memoirs prepared on various questions relating to this important branch of knowledge and to the primeval population of the British Isles were returned to their authors without being read This pregnant fact has excited little notice hitherto but when the scientific history of the first half of the nineteenth century shall come to be reviewed by those who succeed us and reap the fruits of such advancement as we now aim at it will not be overlooked as an evidence of the exoteric character of much of the overestimated science of the age Through the persevering zeal of a few resolute men of distinguished ability ethnology was at length afforded a partial footing among the recognised sciences and at the meeting of the Association to be held at Ipswich in 1851 it will for the first time take its place as a distinct section of British Science
