Roman York:

A Historical Guide to Roman York Paul Chrystal, 2021-12-30 Considering that York was always an important Roman city there are few books available that are devoted specifically to the Roman occupation even though it lasted for over 300 years and played a significant role in the politics and military activity of Roman Britain and the Roman Empire throughout that period. The few books that there are tend to describe the Roman era and its events in date by date order with little attention paid either to why things happened as they did or to the consequences of these actions and developments. This book is different in that it gives context to what happened here in the light of developments in Roman Britain generally and in the wider Roman Empire. The author digs below the surface and gets behind the scenes to shed light on the political, social and military history of Roman York (Eboracum) explaining for example why Julius Caesar invaded what indeed was really behind the Claudian invasion, why was York developed as a military fortress, why as one of Roman Britain's capitals. Why did the emperors Hadrian and Severus visit the fortress? You will also discover how and why Constantine accepted and projected Christianity from here. York's role in the endless coups and revolts besetting the province, the headless gladiators and wonderful mosaics discovered here and why the Romans finally left York and Roman Britain to its own defence. These intriguing historical events are brought to life by reference to the latest local archaeological and epigraphical evidence to current research and to evolving theories relating to the city's Roman treasures of which can be seen in the Yorkshire Museum in York or in situ.

The Archaeology of Roman York Adam Parker, 2019-06-15 This book introduces the archaeology of Eboracum. A fascinating look at the rich Roman history of York.

Roman York Patrick Ottaway, 2004 The great historic city of York owes its origins to the Roman army which built a fortress here on the banks of the River Ouse in AD 71. By the early third century York had also become the site of a major urban center and the capital of the northern half of Britain when what had been a single Roman province was divided into two. York's importance is reflected in the fact that two Roman emperors died in the city: Septimius Severus in the year 211 and Constantius I in 306. His son Constantine was then acclaimed emperor here by his father's troops. Roman York tells the story of the fortress and town from their foundation until the early fifth century when Britain ceased to be part of the Roman Empire. Particular emphasis is placed on the results of recent excavations and research which have added great deal to our knowledge and understanding of the people who lived in a place the Romans knew as Eboracum.

Julia Velva, A Roman Lady from York Patrick Ottaway, 2021-05-30 An intriguing examination of what we can learn about life in Roman Britain using one woman's third century tombstone as a starting point. The tombstone of Julia Velva, one of the best preserved examples from Roman Britain, was found close to a Roman road just outside the center of York. Fifty years old when she died in the early third century, Julia Velva was probably from a wealthy family able to afford a fine monument. Patrick Ottaway uses the tombstone as the starting point to investigate what the world she lived in was like. Drawing on the latest archaeological discoveries and scientific techniques, the author describes the development of Roman York's legionary fortress, civilian town and surrounding landscape. He also looks at manufacturing and trade and considers the structure of local society along with the latest analytical evidence for people of different ethnic backgrounds. Aspects of daily life discussed include literacy, costume, cosmetics and diet. There are also chapters dedicated to the abundant York evidence for religion and burial customs. This book presents a picture of what one would have found on the edge of a great empire at a time when York itself was at the height of its importance. With dozens of photographs, specially prepared plans and illustrations, this is an excellent study of one of Roman Britain's most important places.

York Sarah Rees Jones, 2013-10. This volume is a study of the development of the city of York as a place and as a community between 1068 and 1350. Journal of Roman Pottery Studies Steven Willis, 2022-08-11. The main focus of this volume is upon pottery production sites. The major contribution comprises Excavations of Roman pottery kiln sites in Cantley Parish, South Yorkshire, 1956-1975 by Paul Buckland and the late John Magilton. Other contributions publish the well-preserved kiln complex and products at Lavenham, Suffolk; Andrew Newton; Andrew Peachey et al. mortaria and color-coated production at Newport, Lincoln; Ian Rowlandson and Hugh Fiske: a large typology of Roman pottery from Old Station Yard, York; Rob Perrin: an exploration of actions applied to pottery placed in graves across Kent; Martha Carter; and a review article considering the pottery assemblage from the Saxon Shore Fort at Oudenburg, Belgium, excavated by Sofie Vanhoutte.

Medieval York D. M. Palliser, 2014-01-23. Medieval York provides a comprehensive history of what is now considered England's most famous surviving medieval city, covering nearly a thousand years. The volume examines York from its post-Roman revival as a town c. 600 to the major changes of the 1530s and 1540s, which in many ways brought an end to the Middle Ages in England. York was one of the leading English towns after London and in status almost always the second city. Much research and publication has been carried out on various aspects of medieval York, but this volume seeks to cover the field in its entirety. David Palliser offers an up-to-date and broad-based account of the city by employing the evidence of written documents, archaeology, especially on the rich results of recent city centre excavations, urban morphology, numismatics, art, architecture and literature. Special attention is paid to the city's religious drama and its wealth of surviving stained glass. The story of Medieval York is set in a wide context to make comparisons with other English and Continental towns, to establish how far York's story was distinctive or was typical of other English towns which have been less fortunate in the survival of their medieval fabric. It is essential reading for anyone interested in York's past and in its rich heritage of medieval churches, guildhalls, houses, streets and city walls, the most complete medieval circuit in England.

Eighteenth-century York Borthwick Institute of Historical Research, 2003. Roman York from A.D. 71 : a pictorial guide Herman Ramm, 1985. The Recovery of Roman Britain 1586-1906 Richard Hingley, 2008-06-26. From the sixteenth century, classical texts enabled Scottish and English authors and artists to imagine the character and appearance of their forebears and to consider the relevance of these ideas to their contemporaries. Richard Hingley's study crosses traditional academic boundaries by exploring sources usually separately addressed by historians classicists archaeologists and geographers to provide a new perspective on the origin of English and Scottish identity His book is the first full exploration of these issues to cover such a long period in the development of British society and to relate ideas derived from Roman sources to the development of empire while also placing ideas of origin in a European context It is illustrated throughout with artefact drawings site plans and photographs

International Congress of Roman Frontier Studies 20
Ángel Morillo Cerdán, Norbert Hanel, Esperanza Martín, 2009 This massive three volume set publishes the proceedings of the 2006 Limes conference which was held in Leon a total of 138 contributions Naturally these cover a vast range of topics related to Roman military archaeology and the Roman frontiers The archaeology of the Roman military in Spain and contributions by Spanish scholars are prominent whilst other themes include the internal frontiers the end of the frontiers and the barbarians in the empire the fortified town in the late Roman period soldiers on the move and the early development of frontiers Further sessions had a regional focus Majority of essays in English some in Spanish German and Italian

Aspects of Industry in Roman Yorkshire and the North Pete Wilson, Jennifer Price, 2003-03-27 At the frontiers of the Roman Empire military settlements had a profound influence on local crafting traditions Legions were not just fighting units they contained a large number of craftsmen and the fortress would have been a centre of manufacturing activity A timber legionary fortress for example required vast numbers of nails many of which would have been made by legionary smiths on site and an army of thousands would require many more pots shoes and tents than could be produced by local domestic potters and leather workers But can all developments in local craft and industry be seen as a result of the appearance of the Roman army The ten papers in this volume focus on craft production in Roman Yorkshire and the evidence for the role of the army in local manufacturing activities Several papers examine broad questions surrounding the organisation and scale of production in urban and rural areas Others consider the local evidence for individual materials and production processes including those associated with pottery glass copper alloys non ferrous metals leather jet and building stone

Hunger, Whiteness and Religion in Neoliberal Britain Maddy Power, 2023-06-13 Exploring why food aid exists and the deeper causes of food poverty this book addresses neglected dimensions of traditional food aid and food poverty debates It argues that the food aid industry is infused with neoliberal governmentality and shows how food charity upholds Christian ideals and white privilege maintaining inequalities of class race religion and gender However it also reveals a sector that is immensely varied embodying both individualism and mutual aid Drawing upon lived experiences it documents how food sharing amid poverty fosters solidarity and gives rise to alternative modes of food redistribution among communities By harnessing these alternative ways of being food aid and communities can be part of movements for economic and racial justice

Northumbria, 500-1100 David Rollason, 2003-09-25 Publisher Description

The Cross Goes North Martin Carver, 2005 37 studies of the adoption of Christianity across northern Europe over 1000 years and the diverse reasons that drove the process In Europe the cross went north and east as the centuries unrolled from the Dingle Peninsula to Estonia and from the Alps to Lapland ranging in time from Roman Britain and Gaul in the third and fourth centuries to the conversion of peoples in the Baltic area a thousand years later These episodes of conversion form the basic narrative here History encourages the belief that the adoption of Christianity was somehow irresistible but specialists show the underside of the process by turning the spotlight from the missionaries who recorded their triumphs to the converted exploring their local situations and motives What were the reactions of the northern peoples to the Christian message Why would they wish to adopt it for the sake of its alliances In what way did they adapt the Christian ethos and infrastructure to suit their own community How did conversion affect the status of farmers of smiths of princes and of women Was society wholly changed or only in marginal matters of devotion and superstition These are the issues discussed here by thirty eight experts from across northern Europe some answers come from astute readings of the texts alone but most are owed to a combination of history art history and archaeology working together MARTIN CARVER is Professor of Archaeology University of York Burial and Memorial in Late Antiquity ,2024-10-02 Burial and Memorial explores funerary and commemorative archaeology A D 284 650 across the late antique world This second volume includes papers exploring all aspects of funerary archaeology from scientific samples in graves to grave goods and tomb robbing and a bibliographic essay It brings into focus neglected regions not usually considered by funerary archaeologists in NW Europe such as the Levant where burial archaeology is rich in grave good to Sicily and Sardinia where post mortem offerings and burial manipulations are well attested We also hear from excavations in Britain from Canterbury and London and see astonishing fruits from the application of science to graves recently excavated in Trier The Correspondence of Dr. Martin Lister (1639—1712).
